PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 111th CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

Vol. 155

WASHINGTON, WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 2009

No. 43

House of Representatives

The House met at 10 a.m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. PASTOR of Arizona).

DESIGNATION OF THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following communication from the Speaker:

WASHINGTON, DC,

March 11, 2009.

I hereby appoint the Honorable ED PASTOR to act as Speaker pro tempore on this day.

NANCY PELOSI,

Speaker of the House of Representatives.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, the Reverend Daniel P. Coughlin, offered the following prayer:

The freedom we enjoy and defend seems to be rooted in our realization that we are created in Your divine image and redeemed by Your revealed love.

So, we are bold enough to turn to You and speak to You, Lord God, as children who are most secure in knowing ourselves; yet trusting in Your gracious care.

With our childish problems, in a world we have created for ourselves, we ask and we receive. You offer wisdom and counsel. In our adolescent difficulties, we seek and we find ways that You show us and empower us.

Be unto us attentive, gracious and forgiving on another day; that as Your free children we may come to know the fullness of Your presence and glory now and forever. Amen.

THE JOURNAL

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair has examined the Journal of the last day's proceedings and announces to the House his approval thereof.

Pursuant to clause 1, rule I, the Journal stands approved.

PLEDGE OF ALLEGIANCE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Will the gentlewoman from Pennsylvania (Ms. SCHWARTZ) come forward and lead the House in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Ms. SCHWARTZ led the Pledge of Allegiance as follows:

I pledge allegiance to the Flag of the United States of America, and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation under God, indivisible, with liberty and justice for all.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The Chair will entertain up to 10 requests for 1-minute speeches on each side of the aisle.

HEALTH CARE REFORM

(Ms. SCHWARTZ asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. SCHWARTZ. Last week, the White House Forum on Health Reform was a critical step forward ensuring that all Americans have access to high-quality, affordable health care. Particularly important was a growing consensus among all stakeholders that we must reform our health care delivery and financing system to maximize efficiency, improve health care quality and outcomes and contain costs.

President Obama charged us, Members of Congress and all stakeholders, to find a uniquely American solution to this challenge. To contain costs and expand access, we must engage patients in their care and realign our health care system to enhance primary care, to better coordinate care for patients with chronic conditions, to provide for meaningful use of health information technology and to apply clinical best practices, all of which will reduce costs and save lives.

Without these innovations, any effort at expanding health care coverage will be unsustainable. This work will be difficult and complex. But we are compelled to act, both to meet the needs of millions of uninsured and underinsured Americans and for our economic competitiveness.

NUCLEAR WASTE AND DRINKING WATER

(Mr. KIRK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. KIRK. Today's Chicago Tribune includes a report by Michael Hawthorne that the administration has decided not to move nuclear waste from the Great Lakes. This leaves thousands of tons of plutonium and other transuranic poisons in outdated storage facilities next to the drinking water of 30 million Americans and millions of Canadians. What would happen if plutonium leaked into the Great Lakes? It would contaminate 95 percent of America's fresh water for thousands of years.

We know that respected scientists would never recommend permanently storing nuclear waste next to major lakes and rivers. But that is what Senator REID got our President to do. Under this administration, 35 States will have to permanently store plutonium and other poisons on the Long Island Sound, in the Mississippi River basin and throughout the Great Lakes. This policy writes the first chapter of an inevitable environmental tragedy of biblical proportions that will hurt our country for a very, very long time.

HEALTH CARE REFORM

(Mr. ALTMIRE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ALTMIRE. Mr. Speaker, for the first time in many years, this Congress is moving forward with long overdue legislation to reform our Nation's health care system. With 47 million Americans without health insurance and costs rising well above the rate of inflation, health reform is an issue that can no longer be ignored. Health care affects every individual, every family and every business in America. Less than half of all small businesses in this country can afford to offer health insurance to their employees. Tens of millions of insured Americans live in fear of losing their coverage due to skyrocketing health care costs, and families are one accident or illness away from losing everything.

Together we can put an end to the decades of roadblocks that have prevented meaningful health care reform. Let us not let this opportunity pass us by again.

HURTING AMERICANS SEE TOO MUCH GOVERNMENT SPENDING

(Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. GARRETT of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, to Speaker NANCY PELOSI, I say American taxpayers, American families, Americans are all hurting. They are getting pink slips. They are seeing job layoffs. They are seeing their wages cut. They are seeing their wages go down. They are seeing their income go down. And what do they see out of this House in Washington they are seeing spending going through the roof. They are seeing 10 percent increases on top of other 10 percent increases. They are seeing more than one-quarter of the Nation's growth and wealth all being sucked right into this Nation's Capital and spent in this city.

Mr. Speaker, the American people did indeed vote for a change. But this is not what they were hoping for.

H.R. 759 WILL ENSURE A SAFE FOOD SUPPLY

(Mr. STUPAK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, as chairman of the Energy and Commerce Committee's Subcommittee on Oversight and Investigations, I have held nine hearings to examine the safety and security of our Nation's food supply over the past 2 years. A recent peanut butter salmonella outbreak is just the latest in a string of food-borne illnesses that affects 76 million Americans every year. For this reason, I joined with my colleagues, Chairmen DINGELL and PALLONE, to introduce H.R. 759, the Food and Drug Administration Globalization Act of 2009.

H.R. 759 would give the FDA not only the financial resources, but also the regulatory tools to ensure the safety of food we eat and the drugs we take. If this legislation would have been in place, the FDA would have had the authority, as well as the resources, to prevent the current salmonella outbreak from occurring, tools such as resources for increased inspections, access to inspection records, mandatory recall authority and strong penalties that will require testing facilities to send their results to the FDA.

Congress faces an ambitious agenda in the coming months, but more than 600 illnesses and nine deaths linked to the current salmonella outbreak underscore the importance of wasting no time in enacting this legislation.

EARMARK REFORM

(Mr. FLAKE asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Speaker, in about 1½ hours, President Obama is expected to announce major earmark reforms as he signs an omnibus spending bill with 9,000 earmarks. This gives voice to St. Augustine's lament, give me sobriety—but not yet.

But Mr. Speaker, it is still a good thing. And it is still long overdue. And we still shouldn't have to look to the President to save us from ourselves. This earmark problem is our problem. But gratefully, I believe he will announce, and I hope that he will announce, that he will not sign legislation that will allow no-bid contracts, congressionally directed no-bid contracts, to go into effect. We have seen what that has done to the Congress, the kind of circular fundraising that happens and the campaign contributions that result. And it does not uphold the dignity and decorum of this body.

So I hope we can make major earmark reforms with the President.

MARCH AS RED CROSS MONTH

(Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Ms. LORETTA SANCHEZ of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to celebrate March as Red Cross Month. Since 1943 we have been celebrating March as Red Cross Month to promote the services provided to the public by the Red Cross. The Red Cross has been at the forefront of helping individuals and families prevent, prepare for and respond to large and small-scale disasters for more than 127 years.

Over the last year, more than 5 million people throughout the United States took advantage of educational opportunities from the Red Cross for CPR training, first aid and lifeguard training classes. And in Orange County, California, the local Red Cross chapter places great emphasis on community training. On April 18, the American Red Cross in Orange County will be hosting the fifth annual CPR day at, of course, Angel Stadium in my City of Anaheim, which will train over 1,500 people in adult and child CPR and first aid.

Once again, I want to thank the American Red Cross for making our communities safer and for providing needed resources to communities that are affected by floods, by fires, earthquakes, mudslides, hurricanes and other natural disasters.

THE SCOTT GARDNER ACT

(Mrs. MYRICK asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend her remarks.)

Mrs. MYRICK. I recently reintroduced the Scott Gardner Act, which would make it illegal and grounds for mandatory detention and deportation if an illegal alien is caught driving drunk.

Scott Gardner was a beloved father, teacher and husband in my district. And he was tragically killed by an illegal alien driving drunk who remained in our country despite the fact that he had previous DWI convictions. It would aid in the enforcement of our immigration laws by requiring the Federal, State and local governments to all share and collect information during the course of their normal duties. And local law enforcement agencies would have the resources to detain illegal aliens for DWI until they could be transferred to Federal authorities for deportation.

It is a travesty that we in this country allow illegal immigrants to remain here after being found guilty of driving drunk. Some in my district have recently argued that traffic violations are minor offenses. I'm sure Scott Gardner's family and all of the families who have lost loved ones to DWIs would disagree.

STEM-CELL RESEARCH

(Mr. ARCURI asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. ARCURI. Mr. Speaker, this week the President took a critical step to boost groundbreaking stem-cell research and restore scientific integrity across government. The President signed an executive order lifting the ban on Federal funding for promising embryonic system cell research. In doing so he affirmed the administration's support of finding cures for diseases like Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, heart disease and diabetes that cause pain and suffering all over the world.

Many thoughtful and decent people are conflicted about or are strongly opposed to this research. The President understands their concern and respects their point of view. That is why the administration will develop and rigorously enforce strict ethical guidelines with zero tolerance for misuse and abuse. This order does not open the door for cloning for human reproduction in any way. We are all opposed to that. Rather, it unleashes and unharnesses the potential of what this country can accomplish to eliminate the ravages of these diseases and the effects they impose upon humanity.

STEM-CELL RESEARCH

(Mr. FLEMING asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. FLEMING. Mr. Speaker, I rise today as a father, a physician and a Congressman to express my deep concern over the administration's decision to allow taxpayer dollars to incentivize the destruction of human embryos.

For the first time in our country's history, the Federal Government is going to encourage the destruction of human embryos. Newer techniques for making embryonic-like cells without destroying any embryos and advances in adult stem-cell umbilical cord blood treatments are showing that the use of embryos for stem-cell research is becoming obsolete.

Over 73 different diseases have been treated, at least experimentally, with adult or cord blood stem cells, including type I diabetes and heart disease.

Because of recent steps by our President, pro-life taxpayers are now footing the bill for the promotion of abortions overseas, doctors are in danger of being forced to perform abortions regardless of moral or religious objections, and now taxpayer funds are going to support the destruction of human embryos in the name of research.

Embryonic stem-cell research provides no guarantee of scientific advancement, but it does guarantee the innocent unborn have lost a critical battle.

STEM-CELL RESEARCH

(Mr. MORAN of Virginia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. Mr. Speaker, we will never know how many millions of people around the world have suffered debilitating, shorter lives from Alzheimer's, Parkinson's, multiple sclerosis, and a host of other illnesses and diseases as a result of President Bush's decision to severely restrict stem-cell research.

But we do know that human civilization has only progressed when its leaders had the courage to resist religious, political and economic dogma in pursuit of truth and scientific discovery. Science and medical research offers us all an opportunity to reduce human suffering and advance human potential. I believe that is God's will.

President Obama did the right thing in reversing that anti-science presidential directive, but now it is up to the Congress to reverse the existing Congressional restriction on Federal funding of stem-cell research.

D.C. OPPORTUNITY SCHOLARSHIP

(Mr. PITTS asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. PITTS. Mr. Speaker, the Senate passed the $410 billion omnibus spending bill last night containing some 9,000 special interest earmarks. Sadly, it included a provision that will effectively kill a popular and successful program here in our Nation's Capital that provides a ray of hope for the children it serves.

The D.C. Opportunity Scholarship Program provides low-income families with a voucher they can use to attend the school of their choice. For many students, this provides the opportunity to get out of dangerous and failing public schools into private schools that provide them with a safe environment and a quality education.

This program is under attack by politicians in Congress, many of whom send their own children to private schools. If school choice is good enough for their kids, why not school choice for everyone?

I urge the President, who has chosen private school for his own children, to veto this special interest, pork-laden bill and work with Congress toward meaningful education reform.

TRAGEDY IN ALABAMA

(Mr. BRIGHT asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BRIGHT. Mr. Speaker, as many of you have heard, a tragic shooting occurred yesterday in Geneva and Coffee Counties in Alabama. Without question, this is one of the worst tragedies our State and our Nation has seen in quite some time. My thoughts and prayers are with the families of the victims, and with the entire Wiregrass community in southeast Alabama.

The details are still being confirmed, but I do know that our community owes a debt of gratitude to the local law enforcement officials who bravely put themselves in the line of fire. Without their swift actions and courage, the tragedy could have been even worse than it was yesterday.

I will be returning to my district later today to assist local leaders and law enforcement officials in any way that I can and to be with my constituents as we mourn the loss of friends and neighbors.

I ask that all of my colleagues here in the House and people watching right now from around the country keep the people of southeast Alabama in your thoughts and prayers.

ECONOMIC ENGINE DOESN'T RUN ON PORK

(Mr. BROUN of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, hardworking Americans are the economic engine that drives this great Nation. And America's economic engine doesn't run on pork.

Even though we are in a recession, Congress continues to take hard-earned tax dollars and send them toward pork projects like tattoo removal, Mormon crickets, and studying pig manure. In fact, the omnibus bill sent to the White House last night contains nearly 8,000 earmarks, costing taxpayers more than $11 billion.

Monday night I had a telephone town hall with my constituents back home in Georgia. One caller, Mr. John Ahern from Athens, hit the nail on the head with his question on spending: "Why aren't politicians held accountable like families and taxpayers?"

Why indeed? There are Members on both sides of the aisle that are so used to the spending of yesterday that they cannot bear the thought of tightening their belts today. How are we going to justify picking the pockets of taxpayers to literally pay for pig poop?

This bill spends too much, taxes too much, and borrows too much. I urge a veto of the ominous omnibus bill and its 8,000 earmarks. There are John Aherns all over this country who demand accountability in government. A veto would give it to them.

STEM-CELL EXECUTIVE ORDER

(Mr. LANGEVIN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I recently had the distinct honor and privilege of witnessing an historic and defining moment in our Nation's history, one that I believe will fundamentally alter the course of science and medicine in the same manner as did the discovery of the first vaccine or X-ray or other significant scientific and medical discoveries in this country.

On Monday, President Obama signed an executive order lifting the ban on the Federal funding of embryonic stem cell research. As someone who has lived with a spinal cord injury for over 28 years, I have always held onto the hope that one day I might walk again.

But this executive order is not about me or even about spinal cord injuries. It is about the millions of people living with chronic and disabling diseases, illnesses, and conditions for which this research may one day hold the promise of new treatments and cures. It is about responsible investment into sciences and technologies that will ensure our Nation's continued economic competitiveness into the 21st century.

There is still much work to be done, and I look forward to working with my congressional colleagues on this issue to ensure that responsible policies based on sound science are enacted.

This is truly an historic event.

AMERICANS NEED OBJECTIVE REPORTING

(Mr. SMITH of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, recently the New York Times asserted that President Obama enjoyed “remarkably high levels of optimism and confidence” among Americans. The very same day, Gallup released a poll with very similar results as the Times poll, but Gallup characterized the result as “typical of how the last several Presidents have fared at the one-month mark.” In other words, not remarkable.

Gallup also found that the number of people who disapproved of the way President Obama is doing his job had doubled in just one month, from 12 percent to 24 percent, and noted that President Obama’s disapproval rating was higher than the average of the last six Presidents.

The Times and Gallup had similar polling results, but the Times gave a very biased report and ignored the historical facts.

At least one member of the White House press corps recognizes his colleagues’ bias in favor of President Obama.

Jake Tapper, ABC’s Senior White House Correspondent, said during a recent interview that some news editors and producers are soft on the President and inclined to “root for him.”

Regarding the media’s bias, Tapper also said: “Certain networks, newspapers and magazines leaned on the scales a little bit.”

It is telling that a man who sees news coverage of the President first-hand on a daily basis would be so forthcoming about the media’s pro-Obama bias.

When it comes to the major issues we face, Americans expect the media to be referees, not cheerleaders.

COMMENDING ROBERT P. PAGE

(Mr. MELANCON asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. MELANCON. Mr. Speaker, I would like to take this time to commend Mr. Robert P. Page, an outstanding citizen and business leader from Houma, Louisiana. He is about to complete his term as president of the National Association of Insurance Agents. Mr. Page has distinguished himself throughout his career as a professional insurance agent, even serving as president of the Professional Insurance Agents of Louisiana, and he has exhibited only the highest standards of honesty, integrity and professionalism.

Despite suffering personal losses as a result of hurricanes Katrina, Rita and Gustav, Mr. Page has provided uninterrupted service to the clients of his insurance agency in Houma, going above and beyond the call of duty to assist his fellow citizens, who also suffered devastating losses as a result of the hurricanes.

Mr. Page is a tireless advocate of developing a national consensus to come up with a better mechanism to deal with natural catastrophes throughout the United States, serving as a founding member of the Professional Insurance Agents Natural Task Force. With his years of hard work and dedication,

Mr. Page has earned the respect and admiration of his many colleagues throughout the insurance industry, as well as exemplified the motto of his insurance association, “Local Agents Serving Main Street America.”

Therefore, I would like to congratulate and commend Robert P. Page of Houma, Louisiana, upon the successful completion of his term as president of the National Association of Professional Insurance Agents.

STEALTH TAX INCREASE

(Mr. POE of Texas asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, somebody has to pay for this massive wasteful spending by the Federal Government.

So to obtain more revenue, the budget proposal is to cut deductions Americans now receive. The charitable giving deduction will be cut. Thus charities, not government entities, by the way, such as churches, the YMCA and groups such as that that feed the hungry and help in disasters, take care of crime victims, and help the homeless, will be struggling for funds. Now the government will get that money.

The removal of this deduction will discourage gifts by Americans. Americans are the most cheerful contributors in the world to charities, but that may now end.

The home mortgage deduction also is going to be reduced. The effect of reducing this deduction and the charitable-giving deduction will have the effect of a stealth tax increase on all Americans.

Mr. Speaker, it doesn’t make any sense to raise taxes on anyone during a recession, especially homeowners and those that give to the needy.

And that’s just the way it is.

RECOVERY ACT FIRST STEP IN REFORMING HEALTH CARE

(Mr. WILSON of Ohio asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. WILSON of Ohio. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to have supported the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. It is one of the first steps we look in our journey to strengthen and improve our country’s health care system. We can’t fix our economy without fixing health care.

The recovery plan will provide $20 billion to speed the adoption of health information technology systems by doctors and hospitals. This will modernize our health care system, reduce medical errors, save billions of dollars and create jobs.

Recently, I visited Holzer Medical Center in my district in Gallipolis, Ohio. Doctors there showed me how health IT helps them to speed medical records from doctor to doctor and cut down on extra medical tests. That saves time and money.

Mr. Speaker, in fact, the Congressional Budget Office estimates that health IT investments will generate up to $40 billion in savings for Medicare and private health insurance companies. Those savings can be passed along to American families.

I look forward to watching continued improvements at hospitals back home, like Holzer. And I look forward to continuing our work to further improve health care.

BLOCK CONGRESSIONAL PAY RAISES

(Mr. BUCHANAN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BUCHANAN. Mr. Speaker, Congress needs to lead by example in this time of economic uncertainty. For that reason, I was encouraged when the House decided to give up its pay raise next year. It is important to send the right message to the American people: a message that says Congress is willing to tighten its belt just like American families are doing across the country.

But we need to go even further. That’s why I hope the leadership in the House will take up my legislation, H.R. 566, blocking all future congressional pay raises until the Federal budget is balanced.

Millions of hardworking Americans only get a salary increase if they produce positive results. Congress should be no different. With our national debt about to surpass $11 trillion and unemployment in our country surging past 8 percent, we need to hold ourselves to a higher standard. The American people expect and deserve nothing less.

My legislation to block congressional pay raises until we balance the budget offers meaningful reform. I urge Members from both sides of the aisle to support it.

SEC. 10002. PURPOSE.

The purpose of this part is to authorize implementation of the Settlement.

SEC. 10003. DEFINITIONS.

In this part:

(1) The terms “Friant Division long-term contractors”, “Interim Flows”, “Restoration Flows”, “Recovered Water Account”, “Restoration Goal”, and “Water Management Goal” have the meanings given the terms in the Settlement.

(2) The term “Secretary” means the Secretary of the Interior.

(3) The term “Settlement” means the Stipulation of Settlement dated September 13, 2006, in the litigation entitled Natural Resources Defense Council, et al. v. Kirk Rodgers, et al., United States District Court, Eastern District of California, No. CIV. S-88-1658-LKK/GGH.

SEC. 10004. IMPLEMENTATION OF SETTLEMENT.

(a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary of the Interior is hereby authorized and directed to implement the terms and conditions of the Settlement in cooperation with the State of California, including the following measures as these measures are prescribed in the Settlement:

(1) Design and construct channel and structural improvements as described in paragraph 11 of the Settlement, provided, however, that the Secretary shall not make or fund any such improvements to facilities or property of the State of California without the approval of the State of California and the State’s agreement in 1 or more memoranda of understanding to participate where appropriate.

(2) Modify Friant Dam operations so as to provide Restoration Flows and Interim Flows.

(3) Acquire water, water rights, or options to acquire water as described in paragraph 13 of the Settlement, provided, however, such acquisitions shall only be made from willing sellers and not through eminent domain.

(4) Implement the terms and conditions of paragraph 16 of the Settlement related to recirculation, recapture, reuse, exchange, or transfer of water released for Restoration Flows or Interim Flows, for the purpose of accomplishing the Water Management Goal of the Settlement, subject to—

(A) applicable provisions of California water law;

(B) the Secretary’s use of Central Valley Project facilities to make Project water (other than water released from Friant Dam pursuant to the Settlement) and water acquired through transfers available to existing south-of-Delta Central Valley Project contractors; and

(C) the Secretary’s performance of the Agreement of November 24, 1986, between the United States of America and the Department of Water Resources of the State of California for the coordinated operation of the Central Valley Project and the State Water Project as authorized by Congress in section 2(d) of the Act of August 26, 1937 (50 Stat. 850, 100 Stat. 3051), including any agreement to resolve conflicts arising from said Agreement.

(5) Develop and implement the Recovered Water Account as specified in paragraph

16(b) of the Settlement, including the pricing and payment crediting provisions described in paragraph 16(b)(3) of the Settlement, provided that all other provisions of Federal reclamation law shall remain applicable.

(b) AGREEMENTS.—

(1) AGREEMENTS WITH THE STATE.—In order to facilitate or expedite implementation of the Settlement, the Secretary is authorized and directed to enter into appropriate agreements, including cost-sharing agreements, with the State of California.

(2) OTHER AGREEMENTS.—The Secretary is authorized to enter into contracts, memoranda of understanding, financial assistance agreements, cost sharing agreements, and other appropriate agreements with State, tribal, and local governmental agencies, and with private parties, including agreements related to construction, improvement, and operation and maintenance of facilities, subject to any terms and conditions that the Secretary deems necessary to achieve the purposes of the Settlement.

(c) ACCEPTANCE AND EXPENDITURE OF NON-FEDERAL FUNDS.—The Secretary is authorized to accept and expend non-Federal funds in order to facilitate implementation of the Settlement.

(d) MITIGATION OF IMPACTS.—Prior to the implementation of decisions or agreements to construct, improve, operate, or maintain facilities that the Secretary determines are needed to implement the Settlement, the Secretary shall identify—

(1) the impacts associated with such actions; and

(2) the measures which shall be implemented to mitigate impacts on adjacent and downstream water users and landowners.

(e) DESIGN AND ENGINEERING STUDIES.—The Secretary is authorized to conduct any design or engineering studies that are necessary to implement the Settlement.

(f) EFFECT ON CONTRACT WATER ALLOCATIONS.—Except as otherwise provided in this section, the implementation of the Settlement and the reintroduction of California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon pursuant to the Settlement and section 10011, shall not result in the involuntary reduction in contract water allocations to Central Valley Project long-term contractors, other than Friant Division long-term contractors.

(g) EFFECT ON EXISTING WATER CONTRACTS.—Except as provided in the Settlement and this part, nothing in this part shall modify or amend the rights and obligations of the parties to any existing water service, repayment, purchase, or exchange contract.

(h) INTERIM FLOWS.—

(1) STUDY REQUIRED.—Prior to releasing any Interim Flows under the Settlement, the Secretary shall prepare an analysis in compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.), including at a minimum—

(A) an analysis of channel conveyance capacities and potential for levee or groundwater seepage;

(B) a description of the associated seepage monitoring program;

(C) an evaluation of—

(i) possible impacts associated with the release of Interim Flows; and

(ii) mitigation measures for those impacts that are determined to be significant;

(D) a description of the associated flow monitoring program; and

(E) an analysis of the likely Federal costs, if any, of any fish screens, fish bypass facilities, fish salvage facilities, and related operations on the San Joaquin River south of the confluence with the Merced River required under the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) as a result of the Interim Flows.

(2) CONDITIONS FOR RELEASE.—The Secretary is authorized to release Interim Flows to the extent that such flows would not—

(A) impede or delay completion of the measures specified in Paragraph 11(a) of the Settlement; or

(B) exceed existing downstream channel capacities.

(3) SEEPAGE IMPACTS.—The Secretary shall reduce Interim Flows to the extent necessary to address any material adverse impacts to third parties from groundwater seepage caused by such flows that the Secretary identifies based on the monitoring program of the Secretary.

(4) TEMPORARY FISH BARRIER PROGRAM.—The Secretary, in consultation with the California Department of Fish and Game, shall evaluate the effectiveness of the Hills Ferry barrier in preventing the unintended upstream migration of anadromous fish in the San Joaquin River and any false migratory pathways. If that evaluation determines that any such migration past the barrier is caused by the introduction of the Interim Flows and that the presence of such fish will result in the imposition of additional regulatory actions against third parties, the Secretary is authorized to assist the Department of Fish and Game in making improvements to the barrier. From funding made available in accordance with section 10009, if third parties along the San Joaquin River south of its confluence with the Merced River are required to install fish screens or fish bypass facilities due to the release of Interim Flows in order to comply with the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.), the Secretary shall bear the costs of the installation of such screens or facilities if such costs would be borne by the Federal Government under section 10009(a)(3), except to the extent that such costs are already or are further willingly borne by the State of California or by the third parties.

(i) FUNDING AVAILABILITY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Funds shall be collected in the San Joaquin River Restoration Fund through October 1, 2019, and thereafter, with substantial amounts available through October 1, 2019, pursuant to section 10009 for implementation of the Settlement and parts I and III, including—

(A) $88,000,000, to be available without further appropriation pursuant to section 10009(c)(2);

(B) additional amounts authorized to be appropriated, including the charges required under section 10007 and an estimated $20,000,000 from the CVP Restoration Fund pursuant to section 10009(b)(2); and

(C) an aggregate commitment of at least $200,000,000 by the State of California.

(2) ADDITIONAL AMOUNTS.—Substantial additional amounts from the San Joaquin River Restoration Fund shall become available without further appropriation after October 1, 2019, pursuant to section 10009(c)(2).

(3) EFFECT OF SUBSECTION.—Nothing in this subsection limits the availability of funds authorized for appropriation pursuant to section 10009(b) or 10203(c).

(j) SAN JOAQUIN RIVER EXCHANGE CONTRACT.—Subject to section 10006(b), nothing in this part shall modify or amend the rights and obligations under the Purchase Contract between Miller and Lux and the United States and the Second Amended Exchange Contract between the United States, Department of the Interior, Bureau of Reclamation and Central California Irrigation District, San Luis Canal Company, Firebaugh Canal Water District and Columbia Canal Company.

SEC. 10005. ACQUISITION AND DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY; TITLE TO FACILITIES.

(a) TITLE TO FACILITIES.—Unless acquired pursuant to subsection (b), title to any facility or facilities, stream channel, levees, or other real property modified or improved in the course of implementing the Settlement authorized by this part, and title to any modifications or improvements of such facility or facilities, stream channel, levees, or other real property—

(1) shall remain in the owner of the property; and

(2) shall not be transferred to the United States on account of such modifications or improvements.

(b) ACQUISITION OF PROPERTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary is authorized to acquire through purchase from willing sellers any property, interests in property, or options to acquire real property needed to implement the Settlement authorized by this part.

(2) APPLICABLE LAW.—The Secretary is authorized, but not required, to exercise all of the authorities provided in section 2 of the Act of August 26, 1937 (50 Stat. 844, chapter 832), to carry out the measures authorized in this section and section 10004.

(c) DISPOSAL OF PROPERTY.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon the Secretary's determination that retention of title to property or interests in property acquired pursuant to this part is no longer needed to be held by the United States for the furtherance of the Settlement, the Secretary is authorized to dispose of such property or interest in property on such terms and conditions as the Secretary deems appropriate and in the best interest of the United States, including possible transfer of such property to the State of California.

(2) RIGHT OF FIRST REFUSAL.—In the event the Secretary determines that property acquired pursuant to this part through the exercise of its eminent domain authority is no longer necessary for implementation of the Settlement, the Secretary shall provide a right of first refusal to the property owner from whom the property was initially acquired, or his or her successor in interest, on the same terms and conditions as the property is being offered to other parties.

(3) DISPOSITION OF PROCEEDS.—Proceeds from the disposal by sale or transfer of any such property or interests in such property shall be deposited in the fund established by section 10009(c).

(d) GROUNDWATER BANK.—Nothing in this part authorizes the Secretary to operate a groundwater bank along or adjacent to the San Joaquin River upstream of the confluence with the Merced River, and any such groundwater bank shall be operated by a non-Federal entity.

SEC. 10006. COMPLIANCE WITH APPLICABLE LAW.

(a) APPLICABLE LAW.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In undertaking the measures authorized by this part, the Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce shall comply with all applicable Federal and State laws, rules, and regulations, including the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (42 U.S.C. 4321 et seq.) and the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.), as necessary.

(2) ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—The Secretary and the Secretary of Commerce are authorized and directed to initiate and expeditiously complete applicable environmental reviews and consultations as may be necessary to effectuate the purposes of the Settlement.

(b) EFFECT ON STATE LAW.—Nothing in this part shall preempt State law or modify any existing obligation of the United States under Federal reclamation law to operate the Central Valley Project in conformity with State law.

(c) USE OF FUNDS FOR ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEWS.—

(1) DEFINITION OF ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW.—For purposes of this subsection, the term “environmental review” includes any consultation and planning necessary to comply with subsection (a).

(2) PARTICIPATION IN ENVIRONMENTAL REVIEW PROCESS.—In undertaking the measures authorized by section 10004, and for which environmental review is required, the Secretary may provide funds made available under this part to affected Federal agencies, State agencies, local agencies, and Indian tribes if the Secretary determines that such funds are necessary to allow the Federal agencies, State agencies, local agencies, or Indian tribes to effectively participate in the environmental review process.

(3) LIMITATION.—Funds may be provided under paragraph (2) only to support activities that directly contribute to the implementation of the terms and conditions of the Settlement.

(d) NONREIMBURSABLE FUNDS.—The United States' share of the costs of implementing this part shall be nonreimbursable under Federal reclamation law, provided that nothing in this subsection shall limit or be construed to limit the use of the funds assessed and collected pursuant to sections 3406(c)(1) and 3407(d)(2) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4721, 4727), for implementation of the Settlement, nor shall it be construed to limit or modify existing or future Central Valley Project ratesetting policies.

SEC. 10007. COMPLIANCE WITH CENTRAL VALLEY PROJECT IMPROVEMENT ACT.

Congress hereby finds and declares that the Settlement satisfies and discharges all of the obligations of the Secretary contained in section 3406(c)(1) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4721), provided, however, that—

(1) the Secretary shall continue to assess and collect the charges provided in section 3406(c)(1) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4721), as provided in the Settlement; and

(2) those assessments and collections shall continue to be counted toward the requirements of the Secretary contained in section 3407(c)(2) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4726).

SEC. 10008. NO PRIVATE RIGHT OF ACTION.

(a) IN GENERAL.—Nothing in this part confers upon any person or entity not a party to the Settlement a private right of action or claim for relief to interpret or enforce the provisions of this part or the Settlement.

(b) APPLICABLE LAW.—This section shall not alter or curtail any right of action or claim for relief under any other applicable law.

SEC. 10009. APPROPRIATIONS; SETTLEMENT FUND.

(a) IMPLEMENTATION COSTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—The costs of implementing the Settlement shall be covered by payments or in-kind contributions made by Friant Division contractors and other non-Federal parties, including the funds provided in subparagraphs (A) through (D) of subsection (c)(1), estimated to total $440,000,000, of which the non-Federal payments are estimated to total $200,000,000 (at October 2006 price levels) and the amount from repaid Central Valley Project capital obligations is estimated to total $240,000,000, the additional Federal appropriation of $250,000,000 authorized pursuant to subsection (b)(1), and such additional funds authorized pursuant to subsection (b)(2); provided however, that the costs of implementing the provisions of section 10004(a)(1) shall be shared by the State of California pursuant to the terms of a memorandum of understanding executed by the State of California and the Parties to the Settlement on September 13, 2006, which includes at least $110,000,000 of State funds.

(2) ADDITIONAL AGREEMENTS.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall enter into 1 or more agreements to fund or implement improvements on a project-by-project basis with the State of California.

(B) REQUIREMENTS.—Any agreements entered into under subparagraph (A) shall provide for recognition of either monetary or in-kind contributions toward the State of California's share of the cost of implementing the provisions of section 10004(a)(1).

(3) LIMITATION.—Except as provided in the Settlement, to the extent that costs incurred solely to implement this Settlement would not otherwise have been incurred by any entity or public or local agency or subdivision of the State of California, such costs shall not be borne by any such entity, agency, or subdivision of the State of California, unless such costs are incurred on a voluntary basis.

(b) AUTHORIZATION OF APPROPRIATIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—In addition to the funding provided in subsection (c), there are also authorized to be appropriated not to exceed $250,000,000 (at October 2006 price levels) to implement this part and the Settlement, to be available until expended; provided however, that the Secretary is authorized to spend such additional appropriations only in amounts equal to the amount of funds deposited in the San Joaquin River Restoration Fund (not including payments under subsection (c)(1)(B) and proceeds under subsection (c)(1)(C)), the amount of in-kind contributions, and other non-Federal payments actually committed to the implementation of this part or the Settlement.

(2) USE OF THE CENTRAL VALLEY PROJECT RESTORATION FUND.—The Secretary is authorized to use monies from the Central Valley Project Restoration Fund created under section 3407 of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4727) for purposes of this part in an amount not to exceed $2,000,000 (October 2006 price levels) in any fiscal year.

(c) FUND.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—There is hereby established within the Treasury of the United States a fund, to be known as the San Joaquin River Restoration Fund, into which the following funds shall be deposited and used solely for the purpose of implementing the Settlement except as otherwise provided in subsections (a) and (b) of section 10203:

(A) All payments received pursuant to section 3406(c)(1) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4721).

(B) The construction cost component (not otherwise needed to cover operation and maintenance costs) of payments made by Friant Division, Hidden Unit, and Buchanan Unit long-term contractors pursuant to long-term water service contracts or pursuant to repayment contracts, including repayment contracts executed pursuant to section 10010. The construction cost repayment obligation assigned such contractors under such contracts shall be reduced by the amount paid pursuant to this paragraph and the appropriate share of the existing Federal investment in the Central Valley Project to be recovered by the Secretary pursuant to Public Law 99-546 (100 Stat. 3050) shall be reduced by an equivalent sum.

(C) Proceeds from the sale of water pursuant to the Settlement, or from the sale of property or interests in property as provided in section 10005.

(D) Any non-Federal funds, including State cost-sharing funds, contributed to the United States for implementation of the Settlement, which the Secretary may expend without further appropriation for the purposes for which contributed.

(2) AVAILABILITY.—All funds deposited into the Fund pursuant to subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) of paragraph (1) are authorized for appropriation to implement the Settlement and this part, in addition to the authorization provided in subsections (a) and (b) of section 10203, except that $88,000,000 of such funds are available for expenditure without further appropriation; provided that after October 1, 2019, all funds in the Fund shall be available for expenditure without further appropriation.

(d) LIMITATION ON CONTRIBUTIONS.—Payments made by long-term contractors who receive water from the Friant Division and Hidden and Buchanan Units of the Central Valley Project pursuant to sections 3406(c)(1) and 3407(d)(2) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575; 106 Stat. 4721, 4727) and payments made pursuant to paragraph 16(b)(3) of the Settlement and subsection (c)(1)(B) shall be the limitation of such entities' direct financial contribution to the Settlement, subject to the terms and conditions of paragraph 21 of the Settlement.

(e) NO ADDITIONAL EXPENDITURES REQUIRED.—Nothing in this part shall be construed to require a Federal official to expend Federal funds not appropriated by Congress, or to seek the appropriation of additional funds by Congress, for the implementation of the Settlement.

(f) REACH 4B.—

(1) STUDY.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—In accordance with the Settlement and the memorandum of understanding executed pursuant to paragraph 6 of the Settlement, the Secretary shall conduct a study that specifies—

(i) the costs of undertaking any work required under paragraph 11(a)(3) of the Settlement to increase the capacity of reach 4B prior to reinitiation of Restoration Flows;

(ii) the impacts associated with reinitiation of such flows; and

(iii) measures that shall be implemented to mitigate impacts.

(B) DEADLINE.—The study under subparagraph (A) shall be completed prior to restoration of any flows other than Interim Flows.

(2) REPORT.—

(A) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary shall file a report with Congress not later than 90 days after issuing a determination, as required by the Settlement, on whether to expand channel conveyance capacity to 4500 cubic feet per second in reach 4B of the San Joaquin River, or use an alternative route for pulse flows, that—

(i) explains whether the Secretary has decided to expand Reach 4B capacity to 4500 cubic feet per second; and

(ii) addresses the following matters:

(I) The basis for the Secretary's determination, whether set out in environmental review documents or otherwise, as to whether the expansion of Reach 4B would be the preferable means to achieve the Restoration Goal as provided in the Settlement, including how different factors were assessed such as comparative biological and habitat benefits, comparative costs, relative availability of State cost-sharing funds, and the comparative benefits and impacts on water temperature, water supply, private property, and local and downstream flood control.

(II) The Secretary's final cost estimate for expanding Reach 4B capacity to 4500 cubic feet per second, or any alternative route selected, as well as the alternative cost estimates provided by the State, by the Restoration Administrator, and by the other parties to the Settlement.

(III) The Secretary's plan for funding the costs of expanding Reach 4B or any alternative route selected, whether by existing Federal funds provided under this subtitle, by non-Federal funds, by future Federal appropriations, or some combination of such sources.

(B) DETERMINATION REQUIRED.—The Secretary shall, to the extent feasible, make the determination in subparagraph (A) prior to undertaking any substantial construction work to increase capacity in reach 4B.

(3) COSTS.—If the Secretary's estimated Federal cost for expanding reach 4B in paragraph (2), in light of the Secretary's funding plan set out in that paragraph, would exceed the remaining Federal funding authorized by this part (including all funds reallocated, all funds dedicated, and all new funds authorized by this part and separate from all commitments of State and other non-Federal funds and in-kind commitments), then before the Secretary commences actual construction work in reach 4B (other than planning, design, feasibility, or other preliminary measures) to expand capacity to 4500 cubic feet per second to implement this Settlement, Congress must have increased the applicable authorization ceiling provided by this part in an amount at least sufficient to cover the higher estimated Federal costs.

SEC. 10010. REPAYMENT CONTRACTS AND ACCELERATION OF REPAYMENT OF CONSTRUCTION COSTS.

(a) CONVERSION OF CONTRACTS.—

(1) The Secretary is authorized and directed to convert, prior to December 31, 2010, all existing long-term contracts with the following Friant Division, Hidden Unit, and Buchanan Unit contractors, entered under subsection (e) of section 9 of the Act of August 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 1196), to contracts under subsection (d) of section 9 of said Act (53 Stat. 1195), under mutually agreeable terms and conditions: Arvin-Edison Water Storage District; Delano-Earlimart Irrigation District; Exeter Irrigation District; Fresno Irrigation District; Ivanhoe Irrigation District; Lindmore Irrigation District; Lindsay-Strathmore Irrigation District; Lower Tule River Irrigation District; Orange Cove Irrigation District; Porterville Irrigation District; Saucelito Irrigation District; Shafter-Wasco Irrigation District; Southern San Joaquin Municipal Utility District; Stone Corral Irrigation District; Tea Pot Dome Water District; Terra Bella Irrigation District; Tulare Irrigation District; Madera Irrigation District; and Chowchilla Water District. Upon request of the contractor, the Secretary is authorized to convert, prior to December 31, 2010, other existing long-term contracts with Friant Division contractors entered under subsection (e) of section 9 of the Act of August 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 1196), to contracts under subsection (d) of section 9 of said Act (53 Stat. 1195), under mutually agreeable terms and conditions.

(2) Upon request of the contractor, the Secretary is further authorized to convert, prior to December 31, 2010, any existing Friant Division long-term contract entered under subsection (c)(2) of section 9 of the Act of August 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 1194), to a contract under subsection (c)(1) of section 9 of said Act, under mutually agreeable terms and conditions.

(3) All such contracts entered into pursuant to paragraph (1) shall—

(A) require the repayment, either in lump sum or by accelerated prepayment, of the remaining amount of construction costs identified in the Central Valley Project Schedule of Irrigation Capital Rates by Contractor 2007 Irrigation Water Rates, dated January 25, 2007, as adjusted to reflect payments not reflected in such schedule, and properly assignable for ultimate return by the contractor, no later than January 31, 2011, or if made in approximately equal annual installments, no later than January 31, 2014; such amount to be discounted by $\frac{1}{2}$ the Treasury Rate. An estimate of the remaining amount of construction costs as of January 31, 2011, as adjusted, shall be provided by the Secretary to each contractor no later than June 30, 2010;

(B) require that, notwithstanding subsection (c)(2), construction costs or other capitalized costs incurred after the effective date of the contract or not reflected in the schedule referenced in subparagraph (A), and properly assignable to such contractor, shall be repaid in not more than 5 years after notification of the allocation if such amount is a result of a collective annual allocation of capital costs to the contractors exercising contract conversions under this subsection of less than $5,000,000. If such amount is $5,000,000 or greater, such cost shall be repaid as provided by applicable Reclamation law, provided that the reference to the amount of $5,000,000 shall not be a precedent in any other context;

(C) provide that power revenues will not be available to aid in repayment of construction costs allocated to irrigation under the contract; and

(D) conform to the Settlement and this part and shall continue so long as the contractor pays applicable charges, consistent with subsection (c)(2) and applicable law.

(4) All such contracts entered into pursuant to paragraph (2) shall—

(A) require the repayment in lump sum of the remaining amount of construction costs identified in the most current version of the Central Valley Project Schedule of Municipal and Industrial Water Rates, as adjusted to reflect payments not reflected in such schedule, and properly assignable for ultimate return by the contractor, no later than January 31, 2014. An estimate of the remaining amount of construction costs as of January 31, 2014, as adjusted, shall be provided by the Secretary to each contractor no later than June 30, 2013;

(B) require that, notwithstanding subsection (c)(2), construction costs or other capitalized costs incurred after the effective date of the contract or not reflected in the schedule referenced in subparagraph (A), and properly assignable to such contractor, shall be repaid in not more than 5 years after notification of the allocation if such amount is a result of a collective annual allocation of capital costs to the contractors exercising contract conversions under this subsection of less than $5,000,000. If such amount is $5,000,000 or greater, such cost shall be repaid as provided by applicable Reclamation law, provided that the reference to the amount of $5,000,000 shall not be a precedent in any other context; and

(C) conform to the Settlement and this part and shall continue so long as the contractor pays applicable charges, consistent with subsection (c)(2) and applicable law.

(b) FINAL ADJUSTMENT.—The amounts paid pursuant to subsection (a) shall be subject to adjustment following a final cost allocation by the Secretary upon completion of the construction of the Central Valley Project. In the event that the final cost allocation indicates that the costs properly assignable to the contractor are greater than what has been paid by the contractor, the contractor shall be obligated to pay the remaining allocated costs. The term of such additional repayment contract shall be no less than 1 year and no more than 10 years, however, mutually agreeable provisions regarding the rate of repayment of such amount may be developed by the parties. In the event that the final cost allocation indicates that the costs properly assignable to the contractor are less than what the contractor has paid, the Secretary is authorized and directed to credit such overpayment as an offset against any outstanding or future obligation of the contractor.

(c) APPLICABILITY OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS.—

(1) Notwithstanding any repayment obligation under subsection (a)(3)(B) or subsection (b), upon a contractor's compliance with and discharge of the obligation of repayment of the construction costs as provided in subsection (a)(3)(A), the provisions of section 213(a) and (b) of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982 (96 Stat. 1269) shall apply to lands in such district.

(2) Notwithstanding any repayment obligation under paragraph (3)(B) or (4)(B) of subsection (a), or subsection (b), upon a contractor's compliance with and discharge of the obligation of repayment of the construction costs as provided in paragraphs (3)(A) and (4)(A) of subsection (a), the Secretary shall waive the pricing provisions of section 3405(d) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575) for such contractor, provided that such contractor shall continue to pay applicable operation and maintenance costs and other charges applicable to such repayment contracts pursuant to the then-current rate-setting policy and applicable law.

(3) Provisions of the Settlement applying to Friant Division, Hidden Unit, and Buchanan Unit long-term water service contracts shall also apply to contracts executed pursuant to this section.

(d) REDUCTION OF CHARGE FOR THOSE CONTRACTS CONVERTED PURSUANT TO SUBSECTION (A)(1).—

(1) At the time all payments by the contractor required by subsection (a)(3)(A) have been completed, the Secretary shall reduce the charge mandated in section 10007(1) of this part, from 2020 through 2039, to offset the financing costs as defined in section 10010(d)(3). The reduction shall be calculated at the time all payments by the contractor required by subsection (a)(3)(A) have been completed. The calculation shall remain fixed from 2020 through 2039 and shall be based upon anticipated average annual water deliveries, as mutually agreed upon by the Secretary and the contractor, for the period from 2020 through 2039, and the amounts of such reductions shall be discounted using the Treasury Rate; provided, that such charge shall not be reduced to less than $4.00 per acre foot of project water delivered; provided further, that such reduction shall be implemented annually unless the Secretary determines, based on the availability of other monies, that the charges mandated in section 10007(1) are otherwise needed to cover ongoing federal costs of the Settlement, including any federal operation and maintenance costs of facilities that the Secretary determines are needed to implement the Settlement. If the Secretary determines that such charges are necessary to cover such ongoing federal costs, the Secretary shall, instead of making the reduction in such charges, reduce the contractor's operation and maintenance obligation by an equivalent amount, and such amount shall not be recovered by the United States from any Central Valley Project contractor, provided nothing herein shall affect the obligation of the contractor to make payments pursuant to a transfer agreement with a non-federal operating entity.

(2) If the calculated reduction in paragraph (1), taking into consideration the minimum amount required, does not result in the contractor offsetting its financing costs, the Secretary is authorized and directed to reduce, after October 1, 2019, any outstanding or future obligations of the contractor to the Bureau of Reclamation, other than the charge assessed and collected under section 3407(d) of Public Law 102-575, by the amount of such deficiency, with such amount indexed to 2020 using the Treasury Rate and such amount shall not be recovered by the United States from any Central Valley Project contractor, provided nothing herein shall affect the obligation of the contractor to make payments pursuant to a transfer agreement with a non-Federal operating entity.

(3) Financing costs, for the purposes of this subsection, shall be computed as the difference of the net present value of the construction cost identified in subsection (a)(3)(A) using the full Treasury Rate as compared to using one half of the Treasury Rate and applying those rates against a calculated average annual capital repayment through 2030.

(e) SATISFACTION OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Upon the first release of Interim Flows or Restoration Flows, pursuant to paragraphs 13 or 15 of the Settlement, any short- or long-term agreement, to which 1 or more long-term Friant Division, Hidden Unit, or Buchanan Unit contractor that converts its contract pursuant to subsection (a) is a party, providing for the transfer or exchange of water not released as Interim Flows or Restoration Flows shall be deemed to satisfy the provisions of subsection 3405(a)(1)(A) and (I) of the Reclamation Projects Authorization and Adjustment Act of 1992 (Public Law 102-575) without the further concurrence of the Secretary as to compliance with said subsections if the contractor provides, not later than 90 days before commencement of any such transfer or exchange for a period in excess of 1 year, and not later than 30 days before commencement of any proposed transfer or exchange with duration of less than 1 year, written notice to the Secretary stating how the proposed transfer or exchange is intended to reduce, avoid, or mitigate impacts to water deliveries caused by the Interim Flows or Restoration Flows or is intended to otherwise facilitate the Water Management Goal, as described in the Settlement. The Secretary shall promptly make such notice publicly available.

(2) DETERMINATION OF REDUCTIONS TO WATER DELIVERIES.—Water transferred or exchanged under an agreement that meets the terms of this subsection shall not be counted as a replacement or an offset for purposes of determining reductions to water deliveries to any Friant Division long-term contractor except as provided in paragraph 16(b) of the Settlement. The Secretary shall, at least annually, make publicly available a compilation of the number of transfer or exchange agreements exercising the provisions of this subsection to reduce, avoid, or mitigate impacts to water deliveries caused by the Interim Flows or Restoration Flows or to facilitate the Water Management Goal, as well as the volume of water transferred or exchanged under such agreements.

(3) STATE LAW.—Nothing in this subsection alters State law or permit conditions, including any applicable geographical restrictions on the place of use of water transferred or exchanged pursuant to this subsection.

(f) CERTAIN REPAYMENT OBLIGATIONS NOT ALTERED.—Implementation of the provisions of this section shall not alter the repayment obligation of any other long-term water service or repayment contractor receiving water from the Central Valley Project, or shift any costs that would otherwise have been properly assignable to the Friant contractors absent this section, including operations and maintenance costs, construction costs, or other capitalized costs incurred after the date of enactment of this Act, to other such contractors.

(g) STATUTORY INTERPRETATION.—Nothing in this part shall be construed to affect the right of any Friant Division, Hidden Unit, or Buchanan Unit long-term contractor to use a particular type of financing to make the payments required in paragraph (3)(A) or (4)(A) of subsection (a).

SEC. 10011. CALIFORNIA CENTRAL VALLEY SPRING RUN CHINOOK SALMON.

(a) FINDING.—Congress finds that the implementation of the Settlement to resolve 18 years of contentious litigation regarding restoration of the San Joaquin River and the reintroduction of the California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon is a unique and unprecedented circumstance that requires clear expressions of Congressional intent regarding how the provisions of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) are utilized to achieve the goals of restoration of the San Joaquin River and the successful reintroduction of California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon.

(b) REINTRODUCTION IN THE SAN JOAQUIN RIVER.—California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon shall be reintroduced in the San Joaquin River below Friant Dam pursuant to section 10(j) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1539(j)) and the Settlement, provided that the Secretary of Commerce finds that a permit for the reintroduction of California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon may be issued pursuant to section 10(a)(1)(A) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1539(a)(1)(A)).

(c) FINAL RULE.—

(1) DEFINITION OF THIRD PARTY.—For the purpose of this subsection, the term “third party” means persons or entities diverting or receiving water pursuant to applicable State and Federal laws and shall include Central Valley Project contractors outside of the Friant Division of the Central Valley Project and the State Water Project.

(2) ISSUANCE.—The Secretary of Commerce shall issue a final rule pursuant to section 4(d) of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1533(d)) governing the incidental take of reintroduced California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon prior to the reintroduction.

(3) REQUIRED COMPONENTS.—The rule issued under paragraph (2) shall provide that the reintroduction will not impose more than de minimus: water supply reductions, additional storage releases, or bypass flows on unwilling third parties due to such reintroduction.

(4) APPLICABLE LAW.—Nothing in this section—

(A) diminishes the statutory or regulatory protections provided in the Endangered Species Act of 1973 for any species listed pursuant to section 4 of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1533) other than the reintroduced population of California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon, including protections pursuant to existing biological opinions or new biological opinions issued by the Secretary or Secretary of Commerce; or

(B) precludes the Secretary or Secretary of Commerce from imposing protections under the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) for other species listed pursuant to section 4 of that Act (16 U.S.C. 1533) because those protections provide incidental benefits to such reintroduced California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon.

(d) REPORT.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Not later than December 31, 2024, the Secretary of Commerce shall report to Congress on the progress made on the reintroduction set forth in this section and the Secretary's plans for future implementation of this section.

(2) INCLUSIONS.—The report under paragraph (1) shall include—

(A) an assessment of the major challenges, if any, to successful reintroduction;

(B) an evaluation of the effect, if any, of the reintroduction on the existing population of California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon existing on the Sacramento River or its tributaries; and

(C) an assessment regarding the future of the reintroduction.

(e) FERC PROJECTS.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—With regard to California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon reintroduced pursuant to the Settlement, the Secretary of Commerce shall exercise its authority under section 18 of the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 811) by reserving its right to file prescriptions in proceedings for projects licensed by the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission on the Calaveras, Stanislaus, Tuolumne, Merced, and San Joaquin rivers and otherwise consistent with subsection (c) until after the expiration of the term of the Settlement, December 31, 2025, or the expiration of the designation made pursuant to subsection (b), whichever ends first.

(2) EFFECT OF SUBSECTION.—Nothing in this subsection shall preclude the Secretary of Commerce from imposing prescriptions pursuant to section 18 of the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 811) solely for other anadromous fish species because those prescriptions provide incidental benefits to such reintroduced California Central Valley Spring Run Chinook salmon.

(f) EFFECT OF SECTION.—Nothing in this section is intended or shall be construed—

(1) to modify the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) or the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 791a et seq.); or

(2) to establish a precedent with respect to any other application of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (16 U.S.C. 1531 et seq.) or the Federal Power Act (16 U.S.C. 791a et seq.).

This clause shall not affect, in any manner, the amount of water apportioned to Arizona pursuant to the Boulder Canyon Project Act (43 U.S.C. 617 et seq.), or amend any provisions of said decree or the Colorado River Basin Project Act (43 U.S.C. 1501 et. seq.).

(B) PRESERVATION OF EXISTING RIGHTS.—Rights to the consumptive use of water available to the Upper Basin from the Colorado River System under the Colorado River Compact and the Compact shall not be reduced or prejudiced by any use of water pursuant to subsection 10603(c). Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to impair, conflict with, or otherwise change the duties and powers of the Upper Colorado River Commission.

(d) FORBEARANCE.—

(1) IN GENERAL.—Subject to paragraphs (2) and (3), during any year in which a shortage to the normal diversion requirement for any use relating to the Project within the State of Arizona occurs (as determined under section 11 of Public Law 87-483 (76 Stat. 99)), the Nation may temporarily forbear the delivery of the water supply of the Navajo Reservoir for uses in the State of New Mexico under the apportionments of water to the Navajo Indian Irrigation Project and the normal diversion requirements of the Project to allow an equivalent quantity of water to be delivered from the Navajo Reservoir water supply for municipal and domestic uses of the Nation in the State of Arizona under the Project.

(2) LIMITATION OF FORBEARANCE.—The Nation may forebear the delivery of water under paragraph (1) of a quantity not exceeding the quantity of the shortage to the normal diversion requirement for any use relating to the Project within the State of Arizona.

(3) EFFECT.—The forbearance of the delivery of water under paragraph (1) shall be subject to the requirements in subsection (c).

(e) EFFECT.—Nothing in this subtitle—

(1) authorizes the marketing, leasing, or transfer of the water supplies made available to the Nation under the Contract to non-Navajo water users in States other than the State of New Mexico; or

(2) authorizes the forbearance of water uses in the State of New Mexico to allow uses of water in other States other than as authorized under subsection (d).

(f) COLORADO RIVER COMPACTS.—Notwithstanding any other provision of law—

(1) water may be diverted by the Project from the San Juan River in the State of New Mexico for use within New Mexico in the lower basin, as that term is used in the Colorado River Compact;

(2) any water diverted under paragraph (1) shall be a part of, and charged against, the consumptive use apportionment made to the State of New Mexico by Article III(a) of the

Compact and to the upper basin by Article III(a) of the Colorado River Compact; and

(D) prolong uncertainty relating to the availability of water supplies; and

(E) seriously impair long-term economic planning and development for all parties to the litigation;

(7) after many years of negotiation, the Tribes, the State, and the upstream water users have entered into a settlement agreement to resolve permanently all water rights of the Tribes in the State; and “SEC. 307A. (a) IN GENERAL.—The Secretary may conduct a Coastal and Estuarine Land Conservation Program, in cooperation with appropriate State, regional, and other units of government, for the purposes of protecting important coastal and estuarine areas that have significant conservation, recreation, ecological, historical, or aesthetic values, or that are threatened by conversion from their natural, undeveloped, or recreational state to other uses or could be managed or restored to effectively conserve, enhance, or restore ecological function. The program shall be administered by the National Ocean Service of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration through the Office of Ocean and Coastal Resource Management.

“(b) PROPERTY ACQUISITION GRANTS.—The Secretary shall make grants under the program to coastal states with approved coastal zone management plans or National Estuarine Research Reserve units for the purpose of acquiring property or interests in property described in subsection (a) that will further the goals of—

“(1) a Coastal Zone Management Plan or Program approved under this title;

“(2) a National Estuarine Research Reserve management plan;

“(3) a regional or State watershed protection or management plan involving coastal states with approved coastal zone management programs; or “(4) a State coastal land acquisition plan that is consistent with an approved coastal zone management program.

“(c) GRANT PROCESS.—The Secretary shall allocate funds to coastal states or National Estuarine Research Reserves under this section through a competitive grant process in accordance with guidelines that meet the following requirements:

“(1) The Secretary shall consult with the coastal state’s coastal zone management program, any National Estuarine Research Reserve in that State, and the lead agency designated by the Governor for coordinating the implementation of this section (if different from the coastal zone management program).

“(2) Each participating coastal state, after consultation with local governmental entities and other interested stakeholders, shall identify priority conservation needs within the State, the values to be protected by inclusion of lands in the program, and the threats to those values that should be avoided.

“(3) Each participating coastal state shall to the extent practicable ensure that the acquisition of property or easements shall complement working waterfront needs.

“(4) The applicant shall identify the values to be protected by inclusion of the lands in the program, management activities that are planned and the manner in which they may affect the values identified, and any other information from the landowner relevant to administration and management of the land.

“(5) Awards shall be based on demonstrated need for protection and ability to successfully leverage funds among participating entities, including Federal programs, regional organizations, State and other governmental units, landowners, corporations, or private organizations.

“(6) The governor, or the lead agency designated by the governor for coordinating the implementation of this section, where appropriate in consultation with the appropriate local government, shall determine that the application is consistent with the State’s or territory’s approved coastal zone plan, program, and policies prior to submittal to the Secretary.

“(7)(A) Priority shall be given to lands described in subsection (a) that can be effectively managed and protected and that have significant ecological value.

“(B) Of the projects that meet the standard in subparagraph (A), priority shall be given to lands that—

“(i) are under an imminent threat of conversion to a use that will degrade or otherwise diminish their natural, undeveloped, or recreational state; and “(ii) serve to mitigate the adverse impacts caused by coastal population growth in the coastal environment.

“(8) In developing guidelines under this section, the Secretary shall consult with coastal states, other Federal agencies, and other interested stakeholders with expertise in land acquisition and conservation procedures.

“(d) LIMITATIONS AND PRIVATE PROPERTY PROTECTIONS.—

“(1) A grant awarded under this section may be used to purchase land or an interest in land, including an easement, only from a willing seller. Any such purchase shall not be the result of a forced taking under this section. Nothing in this section requires a private property owner to participate in the program under this section.

“(2) Any interest in land, including any easement, acquired with a grant under this section shall not be considered to create any new liability, or have any effect on liability under any other law, of any private property owner with respect to any person injured on the private property.

“(3) Nothing in this section requires a private property owner to provide access (including Federal, State, or local government access) to or use of private property unless such property or an interest in such property (including a conservation easement) has been purchased with funds made available under this section.

“(e) RECOGNITION OF AUTHORITY TO CONTROL LAND USE.—Nothing in this title modifies the authority of Federal, State, or local governments to regulate land use.

“(f) MATCHING REQUIREMENTS.—

“(B) WAIVER OF REQUIREMENT.—The Secretary may grant a waiver of subparagraph (A) for underserved communities, communities that have an inability to draw on other sources of funding because of the small population or low income of the community, or for other reasons the Secretary deems appropriate and consistent with the purposes of the program.

“(3) OTHER FEDERAL FUNDS.—Where financial assistance awarded under this section represents only a portion of the total cost of a project, funding from other Federal sources may be applied to the cost of the project. Each portion shall be subject to match requirements under the applicable provision of law.

“(4) SOURCE OF MATCHING COST SHARE.—For purposes of paragraph (2)(A), the non-Federal cost share for a project may be determined by taking into account the following:

“(A) The value of land or a conservation easement may be used by a project applicant as non-Federal match, if the Secretary determines that—

“(i) the land meets the criteria set forth in section 2(b) and is acquired in the period beginning 3 years before the date of the submission of the grant application and ending 3 years after the date of the award of the grant;

“(ii) the value of the land or easement is held by a non-governmental organization included in the grant application in perpetuity for conservation purposes of the program; and

“(iii) the land or easement is connected either physically or through a conservation planning process to the land or easement that would be acquired.

“(B) The appraised value of the land or conservation easement at the time of the grant closing will be considered and applied as the non-Federal cost share.

“(C) Costs associated with land acquisition, land management planning, remediation, restoration, and enhancement may be used as non-Federal match if the activities are identified in the plan and expenses are incurred within the period of the grant award, or, for lands described in (A), within the same time limits described therein. These costs may include either cash or in-kind contributions.

“(g) RESERVATION OF FUNDS FOR NATIONAL ESTUARINE RESEARCH RESERVE SITES.—No less than 15 percent of funds made available under this section shall be available for acquisitions benefitting National Estuarine Research Reserves.

“(1) such assurances as the Secretary may require that—

“(A) the title to the property will be held by the grant recipient or another appropriate public agency designated by the recipient in perpetuity;

“(B) the property will be managed in a manner that is consistent with the purposes for which the land entered into the program and shall not convert such property to other uses; and

“(C) if the property or interest in land is sold, exchanged, or divested, funds equal to the current value will be returned to the Secretary in accordance with applicable Federal law for redistribution in the grant process; and

“(2) certification that the property (including any interest in land) will be acquired from a willing seller.

“(j) REQUIREMENT FOR PROPERTY USED FOR NON-FEDERAL MATCH.—If the grant recipient elects to use any land or interest in land held by a non-governmental organization as a non-Federal match under subsection (g), the grant recipient must to the Secretary’s satisfaction demonstrate in the grant application that such land or interest will satisfy the same requirements as the lands or interests in lands acquired under the program.

“(k) DEFINITIONS.—In this section:

“(1) CONSERVATION EASEMENT.—The term ‘conservation easement’ includes an easement or restriction, recorded deed, or a reserve interest deed where the grantee acquires all rights, title, and interest in a property, that do not conflict with the goals of this section except those rights, title, and interests that may run with the land that are expressly reserved by a grantor and are agreed to at the time of purchase.

“(2) INTEREST IN PROPERTY.—The term ‘interest in property’ includes a conservation easement.

(E) reimburse the United States for all legal and attorney fees, costs, and expenses incurred in association with the defense of any claims described in subparagraph (D).

(8) CONTINGENT ENVIRONMENTAL RESPONSE OBLIGATIONS.—If the Institute does not un-

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL) and the gentleman from Washington (Mr. HASTINGS) each will control 20 minutes. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from West Virginia.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days in which to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the Senate bill under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from West Virginia?

There was no objection.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, in a speech given in the fall of 1964, as the War in Vietnam intensified, President Lyndon Johnson quoted Scripture from the Book of Matthew which says that the floods came, but the house did not fall because it was founded upon rock.

President Johnson then said the following, "The house of America is founded upon our land, and if we keep that whole, then the storm can rage, but the house will stand forever."

Once again we find ourselves as a Nation seeking shelter from the storm; the storm of two wars, the storm of economic collapse. But like President Johnson, we remain convinced that no matter what adversity we may be facing, if we are faithful stewards of our land, our house will stand forever.

The legislation before us today, S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009, will keep America's land whole. The bill contains more than 160 individual measures, including new wilderness designations, new wild and scenic rivers, new hiking trails, heritage areas, water projects, and historic preservation initiatives.

Taken as a whole, this omnibus bill is the most important piece of conservation legislation we will consider this year and perhaps this Congress. Some have argued, and will argue today, no doubt, that the challenges we face mean that we should not spend time considering environmental legislation. They dismiss the package before us as "feel good" legislation. Well, I think the American people could use some feel good legislation right now. They could use legislation that protects our pristine public lands, the clear running streams and rivers, the wide open spaces, and the unique history that make this Nation great.

When the headlines read that banks are failing and companies are folding, they could use some headlines announcing that our national parks are still beautiful, our national battlefields are still sacred, and our rivers are still wild and scenic.

When the headlines read that America's status as an economic superpower is in doubt, they could use some headlines announcing that our status as a conservation superpower has never been stronger.

The package before us is exactly what the American people want, and it is exactly what our public lands need.

In my own case, I'm enormously proud of the fact that included in this package is the Wild Monongahela Act, which will designate more than 37 acres of wilderness in my home State of West Virginia.

It should be noted that we are amending S. 22 today to insert language making it absolutely clear that this bill will not affect existing State authority to regulate hunting, fishing, and trapping on the lands in this package. The amendment also makes clear that nothing in S. 22 will affect these activities. My colleagues should know that this provision was negotiated with the National Rifle Association and has the NRA's full support.

Opponents of this bill fail to grasp the deep and abiding love the American people have for their land. They fail to understand the power of our wide-open spaces and magnificent vistas, the power of those magnificent vistas to inspire our generation and renew our spirit. It's that kind of inspiration and that kind of renewal that are always valuable, but when times are tough, they are priceless.

We should approve S. 22 today, not in spite of the challenges we face but because of them. These storms will pass and the house of America will be standing because we have kept our land whole.

I urge passage of S. 22.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

PARLIAMENTARY INQUIRY

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state his parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, just to clarify, I have a series here of questions I would like to ask under parliamentary inquiry, and that does not count against my time; is that correct?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has yet to be recognized for debate. It will not count against his time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Thank you, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, just to be clear, as we are considering S. 22, has the gentleman from West Virginia made a motion to amend S. 22?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman is correct.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, is this motion by the Democrat bill manager the only way that this bill may be amended under suspension of the rules?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion is permitted to specify whatever text might be proposed for passage by the House. The motion is debatable for 40 minutes and not subject to amendment, not even with unanimous consent.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Further parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, just to clarify, then, under suspension of the rules, no other Member except the Democrat bill manager may offer amendments or text directly to S. 22 to change any other provisions of the bill which have not been considered by the House or which have substantive issues like cutting off recreational opportunities, reducing border security, locking up energy sources, or high costs?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The motion is debatable for 40 minutes and is not subject to amendment, not even by unanimous consent.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Further parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Speaker.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, if S. 22 had been considered under an open rule, would any Member with a germane amendment be able to offer that amendment?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair cannot speculate or respond to hypothetical questions.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I think I know the answer, but further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman may ask.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, could the Rules Committee have issued a rule to allow Members from both sides of the aisle to offer amendments to strike objectionable provisions or restore House-passed language which was not included by the Senate?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair cannot speculate or respond to hypothetical questions.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I suspected that would be your response, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I yield myself 4 minutes.

(Mr. HASTINGS of Washington asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I oppose this motion to consider the Senate Omnibus Lands bill by suspending the rules of the House.

Let us be very clear about what's happening on the House floor this morning. For weeks and months, Democrat leaders in the Senate and the House, and outside special interest groups, have repeatedly insisted that the House must pass this massive Senate bill without changing a single word or it will be doomed to Senate purgatory and no further action will be taken. This was the justification given for why every Member of this House should be blocked from offering their ideas and amendments to improve or change this 1,200-page bill. Yet this morning, as I have just confirmed with the Speaker through the parliamentary inquiry, Democrat leaders are using the special suspension process to amend the Senate bill and simultaneously block other Members from offering an amendment.

The Senate's Rubicon of not changing one word has now been crossed. S. 22 has been amended. If we change one part of the bill, then this House deserves the opportunity to consider it in an open and fair manner. Instead, the Democrat leaders are shutting down everyone from offering amendments, including Democrats who have publicly been outspoken about wanting to remove entire provisions from S. 22. I urge these Democrats and all House Members to oppose this bill under suspension and demand a fair and open process of debate.

The suspension process, Mr. Speaker, should be reserved for noncontroversial bills with little or no cost to the taxpayers. Yet, this Senate Omnibus Lands bill costs over $10 billion and consists of over 170 bills folded into a 1,200-page monster piece of legislation. Mr. Speaker, this is an extreme abuse of the process for considering bills under suspension of the rules.

Under suspension of the rules, the House has only 40 minutes to debate the bill. With over 170 bills in this omnibus package, that allows just seven seconds—seven seconds—to debate each bill. And of these 170 plus bills, 100 of them have never been passed by the House. Any notion that this is just a package of bills already passed by the House is absolutely false.

Now, I know that for some Members there may be a page or two in this 1,200-page bill that does something positive for their district. In fact, three separate pieces of legislation, Mr. Speaker, that I authored were attached to this package. But I am more concerned about the other bills that have not been closely examined or been debated by the House.

This massive bill was assembled behind closed doors with the purpose of creating a package that tries to force individual Members to vote for it in order to get their own bill passed despite broad policy differences that will have serious and harmful impacts. Members of the House should consider this bill in its entirety and what it does for our country.

This bill contains 19 provisions to block American-made energy production, locking away hundreds of millions of barrels of oil and trillions of cubic feet of natural gas. Under this bill, our country becomes less secure, and we must rely on foreign imports of energy to fuel our vehicles and run our businesses.

When the Federal Government shuts down energy production in America, we are sending good-paying jobs overseas. Over 3 million acres of land will be locked up from possible energy production, and new jobs won't be created when Americans desperately need them in these times. With our economy reeling, and thousands of Americans losing jobs every week, this is a poisonous policy that makes it tougher and more expensive to get America's economy back on track.

This bill also bans recreational access to millions of acres of public lands despite proponents' claims that it will do otherwise. Lands that citizens currently use for enjoyment will be barricaded from recreational vehicle use. Riding a bicycle won't even be allowed.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I yield myself an additional 30 seconds.

Mr. Speaker, this bill costs $10 billion at a time when taxpayers and the economy simply can't afford it. Our National Parks Service system can't even keep existing priorities open and in working order.

With the maintenance backlog of $9 billion on existing lands, Congress should not be passing a $10 billion bill to buy more lands to make the problem worse. This bill makes it more difficult for the Border Patrol and other law enforcement agencies to secure the southern border. And this bill makes criminals and potential felons out of children who want to collect fossils on Federal lands.

Mr. Speaker, I could go on much longer, but I only have 20 minutes for debate.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself an additional 15 seconds.

And we are considering a package of over 170 bills, with just seven seconds to debate each bill's cost.

So I urge my colleagues, Mr. Speaker, to oppose passage of this bill under suspension of the rules and insist on the ability to consider under an open process that allows for amendments.

Mr. Speaker, I oppose this motion to consider the Senate Omnibus Lands bill by suspending the rules of the House.

Let us be very clear about what's happening on the House Floor this morning. For weeks and months, Democrat leaders in the Senate and the House, and outside special interest groups, have repeatedly insisted that the House must pass this massive Senate bill without changing a single word or it will be doomed to Senate purgatory and no further action will be taken.

This was the justification given for why every Representative in this House should be blocked from offering their ideas and amendments to improve or change this over 1,200 page bill.

Yet this morning, Democrat Leaders are using the special suspension process to amend the Senate bill and simultaneously block every other Representative from offering an amendment.

The Senate's rubicon of not changing one word has now been crossed. S. 22 has been amended. So then why isn't the House allowed to consider additional amendments except the one approved by Democrat leaders. If we change one part of the bill, then this House deserves the opportunity to consider it in an open and fair manner. Instead, Democrat leaders are shutting down everyone from offering amendments, including Democrats who've been publicly outspoken about wanting to remove entire provisions from S. 22 that they strongly oppose. I urge these Democrats and all House Members to oppose this bill under suspension and demand a fair, open process of debate on this bill in the House.

The suspension process is reserved for noncontroversial bills with little cost to the taxpayer. Indeed, other bills on suspension today include supporting the goals of International Woman's Day, urging the President to designate 2009 as the Year of the Military Family, and supporting the designation of Pi Day. Yet, this Senate Omnibus Lands Bill costs over 10 billion dollars, and consists of over 170 individual bills being amassed into a 1,200 page monster piece of legislation. This is an extreme abuse of the process for considering bills under suspension of House rules.

Under suspension of the rules, the House has only 40 minutes to debate the bill. I've been recognized for 20 of those minutes. With over 170 bills in this Omnibus, that allows just 7 seconds . . . 7 seconds . . . to debate each bill.

And of these 170 plus bills, some 100 of them have never been passed by the House. Any notion that this is just a packaging of bills already passed by the House is absolutely false.

I recognize what I have just spoken about is inside baseball, legislative process arguments, yet it is important for the American public to understand the heavy-fisted manner in which this House is being run. It's also important for all Representatives to understand that this bill has now been amended and that we should have the opportunity to consider other changes to it.

For every Member of the House, there may be a page or two in this 1,200 page bill that does something positive in your district. In fact, three separate pieces of legislation that I authored were attached to this package. However, I am more concerned about the other bills that have not been closely examined or debated by the House. This massive bill was written behind-closed-doors with the purpose of creating a package that tries to force individual Members to vote for it in order to get their own small bill passed despite broad policies that will have a serious and harmful impact. Members of the House should consider this bill in its entirety and what it does to our country.

It contains 19 provisions to block American-made energy production, locking away hundreds of millions of barrels of oil and trillions of cubic feet of natural gas. Under this bill, our country becomes less secure as we must rely on foreign imports of energy to fuel our vehicles and run our businesses. When the federal government shuts down energy production here in America, we're sending good-paying jobs overseas. Over 3 million acres of land will be locked up from possible energy production and new jobs won't be created when Americans desperately need them. With our economy reeling and thousands of Americans losing jobs every week, this is a poisonous policy that makes it tougher and more expensive to get America's economy back on track.

This bill bans recreational access to millions of acres of public lands despite proponents' claims that it will protect vast new land areas for the appreciation of Americans. Lands that citizens currently use for enjoyment will be barricaded from recreational vehicle use.

Riding a bicycle won't even be allowed. The harm to American's outdoor enjoyment is so outrageous that even ESPN has covered it.

This bill costs $10 billion at a time when taxpayers and our economy simply can't afford it. Our National Parks System can't even keep existing properties open and in working order. With a maintenance backlog of 9 billion dollars on existing lands, Congress should not be passing a $10 billion bill to buy more land and make the problem worse.

This bill makes it more difficult for the Border Patrol and other law enforcement to secure our southern border by restricting vehicle access onto specific lands. This bill would make criminals and potential felons out of children and others who collect fossils on federal lands.

Mr. Speaker, I could go on much longer, but we have only 20 minutes for debate and we're considering a package of over 170 bills, so we have just 7 seconds to debate each bill's cost and effect upon domestic energy production, American jobs, recreation access to public lands, and border security. I urge my colleagues to oppose passage of this bill under suspension of the rules and insist on the ability to consider it under a fair, open process that allows for amendments.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAHALL. To respond to the gentleman, over 70 bills in this omnibus land package were considered by our Committee on Natural Resources and passed out of the House of Representatives. Some 20 more were reviewed by our committee during the last session of Congress when the gentleman from Washington was on a leave of absence from our committee.

Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Arizona, the subcommittee Chair of our National Parks Subcommittee, a gentleman who has been very instrumental in crafting this legislation and does so much for our national parks, Mr. GRIJALVA.

Mr. GRIJALVA. Thank you, Chairman RAHALL.

S. 22 will likely be the most important piece of conservation legislation we consider this year, and perhaps this Congress.

After too many years, during which the condition of our national parks, forests, and wildlife refuges were totally ignored, after too many years where clean and abundant water, clean air, healthy trees and healthy wildlife were not priorities, S. 22 is a long overdue recommitment to the protection and the preservation of our natural and cultural resources that make this Nation truly great.

Contrary to stated cost estimates, CBO has stated this package is budget neutral. And according to just about every environmental, outdoor recreation, sportsmen's and historic preservation group, it's the best thing they've seen in a long, long time.

I am particularly proud of the inclusion of my legislation, the National Landscape Conservation System within the Bureau of Land Management. NLCS was created administratively a decade ago. It covers approximately 26 million acres—about 10 percent of the land administered by the Bureau of Land Management—including National Scenic and Historic Trails, national conservation areas, national monuments, wilderness areas, wild and Scenic Rivers, and wilderness study areas managed by BLM. These individual units make up the National Landscape Conservation System. They are unique and ruggedly beautiful areas with truly nationally significant resources.

Mr. Speaker, the opponents of this bill seem to be concerned that it will somehow change or alter current management of these lands. This is simply not true, and it's obvious if you read the text of the legislation.

After almost a decade of success, it's time for Congress to put its stamp of approval on this system by formally authorizing NLCS. That authorization, combined with the important wilderness, wild and scenic river trails, and other designations in this package will begin the process of restoring the American people's faith in our ability to serve as good stewards of the incredible natural and cultural resources which make this Nation blessed.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield for the purpose of making a unanimous consent request to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH).

(Mr. SMITH of Texas asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. SMITH of Texas. Mr. Speaker, first of all, I thank the ranking member and gentleman from Washington for yielding, and I ask unanimous consent to have my statement made as a part of the RECORD as well as an exchange of letters between Chairman CONYERS and Chairman RAHALL.

This Public Land bill includes a provision that falls squarely within the jurisdiction of the House Judiciary Committee. Subtitle D of title six of the bill imposes both civil fines and criminal penalties for the excavation and removal of fossils and other archeological items from federal lands.

It also includes provisions relating to forfeiture and judicial review and enforcement of administrative fines—all within the purview of the Judiciary Committee.

Unfortunately, the Judiciary Committee was not given an opportunity to review or amend this language before consideration of S. 22 on the House floor today.

This provision incorporates the Paleontological Resources Preservation Act, which was introduced in the 110th Congress. Judiciary Chairman CONYERS and I raised questions about this language in the last Congress. Staff from the House Resources Committee worked with our staff to try to address these concerns.

Subtitle D employs several approaches to regulate the removal of fossils from federal lands, including criminal penalties. Certainly, the removal or destruction of fossils is inappropriate and should be deterred. But in its haste to solve this problem, the Senate concluded that a term of imprisonment is the answer.

Subtitle D makes it a felony punishable by up to five years in prison to remove fossils from federal lands.

Even more troubling is that this crime could apply to a person who unintentionally removes a fossil or artifact from federal land; that is, who has no knowledge that the item may be a fossil or artifact. So someone could pick up what they thought was an interesting pebble and face five years in prison. I hope no Member thinks that is appropriate.

These and other issues demonstrate the importance of proper deliberation and review of criminal statutes by the Judiciary Committee before bills reach the House floor.

Chairman CONYERS and Chairman RAHALL have committed to working with me on bipartisan legislation to promptly address the various defects in the criminal penalty language, and I appreciate their support. It is our hope that this legislation will move quickly through the committee process and be considered on the House floor under suspension of the rules.

We must ensure that any criminal penalties imposed for the removal of fossils or artifacts from federal lands are directed at actual criminals and do not include the unintentional acts of law-abiding citizens who visit our national parks and forests each year.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,
Washington, DC, February 5, 2009.

Hon. NICK RAHALL,
Chairman, Committee on Natural Resources,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN RAHALL: I am writing regarding S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009, which has been received in the House after passing the Senate.

Subtitle D of title VI of that bill is a measure based on H.R. 554 from the 110th Congress, the Paleontological Resources Preservation Act, containing significant provisions within the Rule X jurisdiction of the Judiciary Committee, including criminal penalties, judicial review and enforcement of administrative fines, use of civil and criminal fines, and forfeiture. The Judiciary Committee received an extended referral of H.R. 554 in the 110th Congress, and our two committees had extensive discussions about refining the bill in important respects.

While I understand and support the decision, in light of the difficulty in passing S. 22 in the Senate, to attempt to pass it in the House without amendment to ensure it reaches the President, I regret that we will be unable to make appropriate refinements to the provisions in the Judiciary Committee's jurisdiction before the bill becomes law. I appreciate your willingness to work with me to make these refinements as soon as practicable in subsequent legislation.

I would appreciate your including this letter in the Congressional Record during consideration of the bill on the House floor. Thank you for your attention to this matter, and for the cooperative relationship between our two committees.

Sincerely,
JOHN CONYERS, Jr.,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON NATURAL RESOURCES,
Washington, DC, February 5, 2009.

Hon. JOHN CONYERS,
Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you for your letter concerning the paleontological resource provisions of Subtitle D of Title VI of S. 22 that fall within the jurisdiction of the Committee on the Judiciary. I appreciate your understanding of the need to consider S. 22 in the House without amendment so as to ensure its enactment in a timely manner. I recognize the interest of your committee in these specific provisions and will work with you to make any necessary and appropriate refinements in subsequent legislation.

This letter, as well as your letter, will be entered into the Congressional Record during consideration of S. 22 on the House floor. Thank you for the cooperative spirit in which you have worked regarding this matter and others between our respective committees.

With warm regards, I am

Sincerely,

NICK J. RAHALL II,

Chairman, Committee on Natural Resource.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1½ minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. NUNES).

Mr. NUNES. Mr. Speaker, this bill contains a provision called the San Joaquin River Settlement. It's a poison pill that targets my constituents. If you vote for this bill today, you vote to end agriculture in the San Joaquin Valley. This bill simply dries up 300,000 acres of farm ground. We already have 16 percent unemployment in my district. This bill ensures 20 percent.

I thought this Congress wanted to create jobs. Do radical environmentalists really possess the power to force Congress to choose dead fish over living communities? How could this possibly be in the best interest of our country during these economic times? Spending $21 million per fish to recover a Mystic Salmon run is completely irresponsible. Citizens Against Government Waste and the National Taxpayers Union have labeled this "The Billion Dollar Fish Fry."

Mr. Speaker, if you like tumbleweeds, dry dirt, bankrupt farmers, communities without water, and people without jobs, you're going to love this bill. If you believe that the most basic rule of government is to provide water to the people, you must vote "no." It's hard to imagine a more flawed approach than the one this Congress has taken today. Greed, dishonesty, and the vain hope of relief from lawsuits seem to be the primary motivation for passage of this bill.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to vote "no" on this disastrous piece of legislation.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. ALTMIRE).

Mr. BAIRD. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. Speaker, the prior gentleman described greed, dishonesty, and some other thing as a motivation for the bill. Would the Speaker please remind the gentleman that questioning motivation is not acceptable?

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Chair will remind all Members to address the Chair and refrain from improper personal remarks.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania (Mr. ALTMIRE), who has been very instrumental in crafting additional language in this bill.

Mr. ALTMIRE. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of my amendment to the public lands bill S. 22. I commend my colleagues in both the House and the Senate for their efforts to advance the over 150 largely noncontroversial bills that are included in the underlying legislation.

This bill preserves key components of America's natural heritage for generations to come. However, as passed by the Senate, this bill did not do enough to protect the rights of our Nation's sportsmen. For this reason I worked to include in this bill language to rectify that oversight. I am pleased that the House has added my amendment to the public lands bill we're considering today because unless Congress includes the specific protections my amendment adds to this bill, efforts to regulate or limit hunting, fishing, or trapping could potentially move forward in the future.

Last year I offered an amendment to protect the rights of sportsmen on nearly 27 million acres of public lands within the National Landscape Conservation System. It passed the House 416-5 and is maintained within Title II of today's bill. Today we simply extend those same protections to two other sections of the bill: rivers and trails in title V and heritage areas in title VIII. This ensures that nothing in these sections of the bill shall regulate hunting, fishing, and trapping or limit their access to these public lands.

My amendment is straightforward and simple. It's supported by the NRA, and with its inclusion, I urge my colleagues, especially supporters of the second amendment, to vote in favor of this public lands bill today.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Texas (Mr. CULBERSON).

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, here again on this House floor a 1,294-page bill has been dropped onto the American people with no committee hearing, not even a Rules Committee hearing, spending $10 billion.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I ask that the gentleman's words be taken down.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will report the words.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. CULBERSON. Mr. Speaker, it is important, however, that this House of Representatives represent the people and do so in a way that does not demonstrate contempt for the opinion of the people. A 1,294-page bill, Mr. Speaker, has been dropped on the floor without regard for committee hearings, without regard for transparency, without regard to the promise that this leadership made to be the most transparent, open, and accountable Congress in the history of the United States, spending $10 billion that our children do not have. That is a complete violation of all the promises made by this leadership to the people.

And look at the bill that they're passing. This piece of legislation will make a criminal out of every tourist traveling to the western United States who makes the mistake of picking up a rock and throwing it in their trunk. Grandma and Grandpa are going to be thrown in jail. And read from the bill if you don't believe me. If you don't have a permit, if you're not a qualified paleontologist, and you pick up a rock and throw it in the car, if you alter a rock on federally owned land in most of the western States and throw it in the car, it is 5 years in prison, Page 526 of the bill, 5 years in prison for putting a rock in your trunk. You will have the vehicle confiscated.

Turn to Page 531: "All vehicles and equipment shall be subject to civil forfeiture." So ladies and gentlemen of the Congress, if you vote for this bill, you're voting to subject your constituents to be thrown in jail. Grandma and Grandpa with the grandkids traveling in the western States, if they pick up a rock and throw it in the car, 5 years in jail, thousands of dollars in fines, and the Winnebago is going to be confiscated. This is dead wrong.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I think previous colloquies or language at least put into this debate by the gentleman from Texas (Mr. SMITH) made it very clear that it is not the intent of the sponsors of this legislation to see innocent civilians collecting fossils on public lands go to jail. That's not the intent, and it's been made very clear both in the legislation and already in this debate thus far.

Mr. Speaker, I yield for the purpose of making a unanimous consent to the distinguished gentleman of our Energy and Minerals Subcommittee, the gentleman from California (Mr. COSTA).

(Mr. COSTA asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. COSTA. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of two important pieces of legislation that I have sponsored and that are now included in the natural resources bill that we have received from the Senate, S. 22.

SAN JOAQUIN RIVER RESTORATION SETTLEMENT ACT

The first, the San Joaquin River Restoration Settlement Act, will bring to a close 18 years of litigation between the Natural Resources Defense Council, the Friant Water Users Authority, the U.S. Department of the Interior and others. Representatives CARDOZA, MCNERNEY and RADANOVICH joined me as co-sponsors of this legislation. This bill is similar to the one that we introduced in the waning days of the 109th Congress, and reintroduced at the beginning of the 110th Congress as H.R. 24. The bill approves, authorizes and helps fund an historic Settlement on the San Joaquin River in California.

However, the bill we are introducing today does reflect a few significant changes resulting from discussions among the numerous Settling Parties and various "Third Parties" in the San Joaquin Valley of California. During the past year the parties to the settlement and these affected third parties, such as the San Joaquin River Exchange Contractors, have agreed to certain changes to the legislation to make the measure PAYGO neutral and to enhance implementation of the settlement's "Water Management Goal" to reduce or avoid adverse water supply impacts to Friant Division long-term water contractors. The legislation that we are voting on today incorporates these changes, which are supported by the State of California and major water agencies on the San Joaquin River and its tributaries. The Bush Administration also supported this legislation.

This bill will approve a settlement that seeks to restore California's second longest river, the San Joaquin, while maintaining a stable water supply for the farmers who have made the San Joaquin Valley the richest agricultural area in the world.

The Settlement has two co-equal goals: to restore and maintain fish populations in the San Joaquin River, including a self-sustaining salmon fishery, and to avoid or reduce adverse water supply impacts to long-term Friant water contractors. Consistent with the terms of the Settlement, we expect that both of these goals will be pursued with equal diligence by the federal agencies.

The bill also authorizes $1 million for the California Water Institute at California State University, Fresno, for the creation of an Integrated Regional Water Management Plan for the Central Valley. The plan will serve as a guide for those in the study area to use to address and solve long-term water needs in a sustainable and equitable manner.

This legislation is crucial. Without this consensus resolution, the parties will continue the fight, resulting in a court-imposed judgment. It is widely recognized that an outcome imposed by a court is likely to be worse for everyone on all counts: more costly, riskier for the farmers, and less beneficial for the environment.

The Settlement provides a framework that the affected interests can accept. As a result, this legislation has enjoyed the strong support of the Bush Administration, California Governor Schwarzenegger's Administration, the environmental and fishing communities and numerous California farmers and water districts, including the Friant Water Users Authority and its member districts that have been part of the litigation.

When the Federal Court approved the Settlement in late October, 2006, Secretary of the Interior Dirk Kempthorne praised the Settlement for launching "one of the largest environmental restoration projects in California's history." The Secretary further observed that "This Settlement closes a long chapter of conflict and uncertainty in California's San Joaquin Valley . . . and open[s] a new chapter of environmental restoration and water supply certainty for the farmers and their communities."

I share the former Secretary's support for this agreement, and it is my honor to join with Representatives CARDOZA, MCNERNEY and RADANOVICH, as well as Senators FEINSTEIN and BOXER who have previously introduced and supported this legislation to authorize and help fund the San Joaquin River Restoration Settlement.

For almost two years we have worked with the parties to the settlement, affected third party agencies and the State of California to ensure that the legislation complies with congressional PAYGO rules.

In November of 2007, the House Natural Resources Committee favorably reported a revised version of the bill (H.R. 4074) that included amendments conditionally agreed to by the parties that allow most Friant Division contractors to accelerate repayment of their construction cost obligation to the Treasury. In May of 2008, the Senate Energy and Natural Resources Committee favorably reported the Senate companion measure (S. 27) with provisions that further refined the accelerated repayment concept and addressed third party concerns about its implementation. These changes, included in the bill we introduce today, both increase the amount of up-front funding available for the settlement and decrease the bill's PAYGO "score" by $88 million, according to the Congressional Budget Office. In exchange for agreeing to early repayment of their construction obligation, Friant water agencies will be able to convert their 25-year water service contracts to permanent repayment contracts, so-called "9D contracts" under federal Reclamation Law.

I note that the Bureau of Reclamation and the Friant Water Users Authority on behalf of its members have had very specific discussions on how the repayment amounts will be calculated in accordance with this legislation, memorialized in a letter dated February 20, 2009, from Mr. Donald Glaser, Regional Director of the Bureau of Reclamation for the Mid-Pacific Region. I request that Mr. Glaser's letter be inserted in the RECORD.

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR, BUREAU OF RECLAMATION,
Sacramento, CA, February 20, 2009.

Mr. RONALD JACOBSMA,
General Manager, Friant Water Users Authority, Lindsay, CA.

Subject: Financing Provisions of the San Joaquin River Restoration Settlement Act.

DEAR MR. JACOBSMA: As you are aware, amendments were made early in 2008 to the proposed San Joaquin River Restoration Settlement Act (Act) in an effort to reduce the "PAYGO" score of the Act. One of the amendments made in the Act would authorize and direct the Secretary of the Interior to convert certain Friant Division, Hidden Unit, and Buchanan Unit irrigation contractors' water service contracts to water repayment contracts, subject to certain provisions. The Act was recently passed by the Senate as Title X, Subtitle A, Part 1, of S. 22, and we expect the House of Representatives to consider it shortly. As you know, staff from the Bureau of Reclamation and the Friant Water Users Authority have had technical discussions concerning the financing provisions of the bill. This letter and enclosures set forth our understanding of how the financing provisions will be implemented if the conversion sections of the Act, found in Section 10010, are in their current form upon enactment, if those provisions of the bill are modified before enactment, we will of course need to reevaluate whether the information in this letter and enclosures is still accurate.

Enclosed is a summary of each of the financing provisions in Section 10010 related to the contract conversion and our understanding of how they would be implemented by Reclamation (Enclosure 1). Also, enclosed are two specific examples to demonstrate how the financial calculations for this conversion and related funding would work given a number of specific assumptions (Enclosure 2). Enclosure 2 consists of a description of the assumptions used and a spreadsheet for each of the examples.

If there are any problems with the information provided in the enclosures, please contact Jason Phillips as soon as possible to discuss and resolve.

Sincerely,

DONALD R. GLASER,
Regional Director.

These new contracts will be administered as repayment contracts consistent with federal Reclamation Law, including the Acts of August 4, 1939 (ch. 418, 53 Stat. 1187) and July 2, 1956 (ch. 492, 70 Stat. 483). The later Act, among other things, provides in part that the contractors shall have a first right ". . . to a stated share or quantity of the project's available water supply . . . and a permanent right to such share or quantity upon completion of payment. . . ." It is my understanding that, except as specifically provided in this legislation, the operative provisions of such repayment contracts will be substantially similar to the existing water service contracts.

The bill also provides in Section 10010(c)(1) that, consistent with Section 213(a) of the Reclamation Reform Act of 1982, the ownership and full-cost pricing provisions of federal Reclamation Law no longer will apply to the individual Friant Contractors upon repayment of their capital obligations. A question has arisen as to whether these Reclamation Law limitations would apply to water delivered under such a repayment contract after full repayment of capital, where a Friant contractor also had a contract for another supply under a water service contract, such as the Cross Valley Canal contract. It is my understanding that the Department of the Interior and Friant contractors concur that in such a situation, the acre-limitation and full-cost pricing provisions would not apply to water delivered from Central Valley Project facilities for which the capital costs had been fully paid, but would apply to water delivered from Project facilities for which the capital costs had not been repaid, such as water from the Cross Valley Canal contracts.

The Senate Committee amendments also included new provisions to enhance the water management efforts of affected Friant water districts. These provisions are contained in Part III of Title X, Subpart A, of the legislation before the House today. These changes were developed by the parties to the settlement at my request and the request of Mr. CARDOZA and Mr. RADANOVICH to ensure that the Friant districts have the best opportunity to mitigate water supply impacts resulting from the Settlement.

Specifically, the legislation now includes new authority to provide improvements to Friant Division facilities, including restoring capacity in canals, reverse flow pump-back facilities, and financial assistance for local water banking and groundwater recharge projects, all for the purpose of reducing or avoiding impacts on Friant Division contractors resulting from additional River flows called for by the Settlement and this Legislation.

In addition, with respect to Part III authorizing financial assistance for local projects for water banking and groundwater storage, recovery and conveyance, the bill authorizes the Bureau of Reclamation to share up to 50 percent of the cost of such projects. It is my understanding that in administering other cost-sharing programs, the Bureau typically provides the maximum cost sharing authorized unless the applicant requests less.

Near the end of the 110th Congress, parties to the Settlement and affected third parties came to agreement on additional provisions that would greatly facilitate passage of the bill by making it fully PAYGO-neutral.

The legislation we are introducing today includes substantial funding, including direct spending on settlement implementation during the first ten year period of $88 million gained by early repayment of Friant's construction obligation, and substantial additional funding authorized for annual appropriation until 2019, after which it then becomes available for direct spending again. This additional funding is generated by continuing payments from Friant water users and will become directly available to continue implementing the settlement by 2019 if it has not already been appropriated for that purpose before then.

In 2006, California voters showed their support for the settlement by approving Propositions 84 and 1E, which will help pay for the Settlement, with the State of California now committing at least $200 million toward the Settlement costs during the next 10 years. When State-committed funding, direct spending authorized by the bill, and highly reliable funding from water users are added together, there is at least $380–390 million available for implementing the Settlement over the next 10 years, with additional dollars possible from additional federal appropriations.

It is my understanding that Senator FEINSTEIN intends to work during the 111th Congress to find a suitable offset that will allow restoration of all of the direct spending envisioned by the settlement without waiting until 2019, and I will do whatever I can to aid in those efforts.

Today's legislation continues to include substantial protections for other water districts in California who were not party to the original settlement negotiations. These other water contractors will be able to avoid all but the smallest water impacts as a result of the settlement, except on a voluntary basis.

The bill we are introducing today contains several new provisions to strengthen these third-party protections in light of the changes made to address PAYGO. These include safeguards to ensure that the San Joaquin River Exchange Contractors and other third parties will not face increased costs or regulatory burdens as a result of the PAYGO changes.

This agreement would not have been possible without the participation of a remarkably broad group of agencies, stakeholders and legislators, reaching far beyond the settling parties. The Department of the Interior, the State of California, the Friant Water Users Authority, the Natural Resources Defense Council on behalf of 13 other environmental organizations and countless other stakeholders came together and spent countless hours with legislators in Washington to ensure that we found a solution that the large majority of those affected could support.

I urge my colleagues in the House to approve this legislation and provide the Administration the authorization it needs to fully carry out the restoration, water management and other actions called for under the settlement.

SEQUOIA AND KINGS CANYON NATIONAL PARKS WILDERNESS

I also rise today in support of the Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks Wilderness designation.

This provision adds about 85,000 acres of wilderness in the Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks in California. About 45,000 acres of the wilderness created by this bill will be incorporated into the currently existing Sequoia-Kings Canyon Wilderness area. The other 40,000 acres will comprise a new wilderness area, which will be named after former Congressman John Krebs.

John Krebs served two-terms in Congress, from 1975 to 1979, representing California's San Joaquin Valley and the central Sierra Nevada mountains that include Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks. He was born in Berlin in 1926 and immigrated to the United States in 1946. He graduated from the University of California and later US's Hasting College of Law. He had lived in Fresno, California since 1958 and prior to being elected to Congress was active in local government, including serving a term on the Fresno County Board of Supervisors.

I had the great privilege of working in John Krebs first congressional campaign and joining him during his first term in Washington. It was through his efforts that Congress first provided federal wilderness designation for the Mineral King area.

The wilderness areas designated by this Act include some spectacular areas within the Sequoia and Kings Canyon National Parks. The Redwood Canyon area contains Redwood Mountain Grove, the largest stand of Giant Sequoia within the parks. The Redwood Canyon area also includes over 75 known caves, including the longest cave in California with over 21 miles of surveyed passage.

This bill is obviously very important to me—both for preserving these natural areas for future generations, as well as for honoring my former boss—and I urge my House colleagues to approve S. 22 so this measure can become law.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from California, our subcommittee Chair of our Water and Power Subcommittee, Mrs. GRACE NAPOLITANO.

Mrs. NAPOLITANO. Mr. Speaker, allow me to speak in support of Senate bill 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009, within which are 30 separate authorizations for the Bureau of Reclamation and the United States Geological Survey.

The 30 bills include and highlight the changing Western water environment. The bill authorizes conservation, water-use efficiencies, water recycling projects, addresses aging infrastructure issues, and allows for the feasibility study of many much-needed water projects.

Our Subcommittee on Water and Power heard most of these bills. Some were Senate bills, and were approved by unanimously by both sides. Seven California title XVI water recycling authorizations and two groundwater recharge authorizations are included in this bill. When completed, these projects will produce 500,000 acre-feet of reclaimed reuse water and added storage capacity. There are many areas of drought in the western States, including in my home State of California, which is now facing its third unprecedented drought year. Title XVI projects would allow for communities to expand their local water resources and lessen their reliance on unreliable imported water supplies.

Finally, this legislation will ratify two tribal water right settlements in Nevada and New Mexico and set a funding mechanism for many other settlements across the West. Most importantly, S. 22 will resolve many years of litigation and bring "peace in the valley" through a sustainable water supply for tribal and nontribal communities.

I might add this was on a bipartisan basis out of my committee at all times.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROWN), a member of the committee.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. John Locke, the great political philosopher, stated that "the preservation of property is the reason for which men enter into society" and that "no government hath the right to take their property, or any part of it, without their own consent, for this would be in effect to leave them no property at all."

Our Nation is facing an economic crisis. Yet Democrats are forcing this Chamber to rush through the omnibus, or should I say ominous, lands bill today that will increase government spending by as much as $10 billion and permanently lock up tens of millions of acres of the people's land.

The Federal Government already owns over 650 million acres of land that it can't take care of. The National Park Service alone faces a backlog of $9 million worth of projects that need to be funded. If S. 22 were to pass, there will be more wilderness acres in the United States than the total amount of developed land. It is a huge attack on people's rights and especially property rights.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentleman an additional 15 seconds.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. It is not the role of the Federal Government to hoard massive amounts of land, and I urge my colleagues to vote "no" on S. 22.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California, Mr. MIKE THOMPSON.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. I thank the chairman for all the good work he's done on this bill and ask that we enter into a colloquy on this bill on the Trinity River.

Mr. Chairman, as you know, the Trinity River is the largest tributary to the Klamath River and is key to helping restore salmon and steelhead stocks along the entire Pacific coast. The Federal Government has a responsibility to the Hoopa Valley Indian Tribe and to the sport and commercial fishers to restore the fisheries of this great and important river. I respectfully request the chairman's cooperation in working with the new administration and the Appropriations Committee to help secure the adequate funding needed to restore the Trinity River to ameliorate any lost costs associated with the implementation of the San Joaquin River Settlement that is within this bill.

Mr. RAHALL. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Yes.

Mr. RAHALL. I am mindful and remain committed to progress in implementing and funding the December 19, 2000, Trinity River restoration record of decision. Restoring the fishery resources of the Trinity River is important for the Hoopa Valley Indian Tribe, commercial and recreational fishing families along the coasts of California and Oregon. I agree to work with the gentleman from California in this regard.

Mr. THOMPSON of California. Thank you very much.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 5 minutes to a very valuable member of the Natural Resources Committee, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. BISHOP).

Mr. BISHOP of Utah. Mr. Speaker, when I was teaching government, I taught my kids that a suspension was one of those noncontroversial bills for which it could be brought to the floor with a limited amount of debate and no opportunity for amendments.

We have, today, a suspension that is over 177 different measures, over half of which have never been discussed in either a House or the floor committee meeting till this morning. Twenty-three were never discussed in any committee hearing over in the Senate. When the true costs are extrapolated out over the time of the authorization, it will be close to $8 billion to $10 billion. And 37 times the description of provisions in this bill were called controversial, but that's okay, this is a suspension.

It doesn't matter that this bill has been criticized by the American Motorcyclists Association for taking millions of acres of land out of use for millions of people who want to use recreation, or been criticized by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce. Even ESPN criticized this particular bill. That's okay, though, this is still a suspension.

We have been told that there is a $9 billion backlog in needs in the national parks. In the stimulus bill, apparently $2 billion was put in there to meet the needs of the national parks, and now we exacerbate the problem with another 8 to $10 billion in this particular bill.

This is the visitors' center in the Dinosaur National Monument in Utah. This is a brilliant place to go. They have been able to take away part of the mountains so a kid can go in there and actually see within the mountainside the fossils that are still there and see what scientists say is the beginning and be able to put them together. Unfortunately, no one has been able to access this building for the last 10 years because we don't have enough money to fix this building, which has been condemned.

Rather than fixing these types of buildings, within the bowels of this bill is a $34 million earmark to create a new national park in Paterson, New Jersey, which will protect such natural wonders as a condominium, a butterfly garden and a microbrewery. This is a park that was not requested by the National Park Service or not recommended by the National Park Service. Nonetheless, we are putting $34 million into that while these structures that we currently have in our national park system go vacant. That's okay. This is still a supplemental.

We will spend $110 million on heritage areas. Eleven lucky heritage areas will get Federal money to assist them in economic development and tourism development. If you don't happen to live in one of those lucky eleven areas, you will be losing tourists and losing economic development and having the wonderful opportunity to have your taxes pay for that approach.

In rough economic times like we have, this is brilliant policy by us. That's okay, it's still a suspension. Falls River in Massachusetts will have the lower Taunton declared a wild and scenic river.

The Wild and Scenic River Act was there to protect areas from development. By law or statute, you cannot have anything other than a needful building within a mile of the bank of a wild and scenic river.

Now, the last time that we were here, I went off, probably in excess, about showing ugly pictures in Falls River, Massachusetts. I shouldn't have done it. It's actually a very pretty community. The sponsors of the bill actually came back and showed pretty pictures of Falls River, Massachusetts.

The point is, it doesn't matter whether there are ugly pictures or pretty pictures, doesn't matter whether you think it's a cynical effort to stop production of some port or whether you believe the spin that this is for economic development. Regardless of whether you take any of those stands, all of those are not the purpose of a wild and scenic river.

This is Falls River, Massachusetts. These are not needful buildings within a half-mile of the bank. Regardless of how you look at that particular issue, it violates the spirit and the letter of the Wild and Scenic River Act. And it violates more than that, because it simply says the rule of law can be put apart that any time a majority comes on this floor and decides to vote for an issue that can now replace the standard of which we decide to deal with.

We have a problem with the great obstacles to our border control and border security. Within the bowels of this bill is another bill that will make it more difficult for border security, even on bicycles, to try and patrol Federal lands. Those are problems within this structure, and we are told that it's still a suspension.

We have about 12 Members, I counted, on the floor, engaging in this debate. Soon there will be 400 more coming through these doors without having heard the discussion, without having heard the debate and thinking this is nothing more than a suspension. We do need regular order.

Now, I want it very clear not only do I not own monkeys, but Mr. RAHALL is not to blame for this. Chairman RAHALL has done a perfect job on the House. Even in the bad bills he has brought forward, he at least went through regular order. This is a by-product of the Senate. This is a product of the Senate, and the Senate should be ashamed to try and compile 177 different bills into one omnibus package. And we should be ashamed of actually debating it as a suspension.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, unlike the omnibus lands packages of the past by Republican Congresses that were jammed down our throats at the last minute, this bill has been around for well over a year in our committee. To have the bill described as being jammed down their throats at this point, the gentleman from Utah has been in quite a few battles with this bill, so he must know a lot about it.

I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from California, the distinguished chairman of our Education and Labor Committee, Mr. GEORGE MILLER.

Mr. GEORGE MILLER of California. I thank the gentleman from yielding and for bringing this legislation to the floor. I particularly want to strongly support those items for title 16 of the Reclamation Act for water recycling and reuse. The projects in this bill are very good projects that are not in my district. They are all over the State in the southwest that have been authorized, but it's most important, as we enter again the third year of this drought, with continued stress put on all of the water systems throughout the West and the Southwest, that we get into recycling and reuse, this will allow communities to take control of their water resources to be more efficient in the use of them. It allows us to develop, just in this legislation alone, that these projects go forward and there is money in the stimulus for this. There was money in the appropriations bill for this.

We are seeing a savings of about half a million to a million acre feet of water in the West. That's real water. It's valuable water, and we have the ability to reuse it.

I want to thank the gentleman for this legislation and the subcommittee Chair, Mrs. NAPOLITANO, a champion of water recycling and reuse. And I would be remiss if I didn't mention the fact that this bill also protects the beautiful Passaic Falls in Paterson, New Jersey.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, how much time on both sides remains?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Washington has 5½ minutes and the gentleman from West Virginia has 7¾ minutes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 2 minutes to the gentlelady from Wyoming (Mrs. LUMMIS), a new member of the committee.

Mrs. LUMMIS. Mr. Speaker, this is a very important issue to me.

I rise to oppose Senate 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act in the suspension, but my decision to oppose this was not an easy one, because two of the individual bills in this omnibus measure were introduced in honor of a dear friend of mine, one of the truest Western statesmen to have ever served in the United States Congress. I speak, of course, of the late Senator Craig Thomas, who was also a Member of this body, a tireless advocate and protector of those values that continue to shape Wyoming and its people.

Wyoming is a State blessed with unparalleled natural resources, from spectacular mountain ranges and wide open plains to the vast mineral deposits that lie beneath them. In Wyoming, we find balance regarding how those very resources are managed. The bill we are considering today fails in achieving that have balance.

While our economy reels and the Federal deficit reaches record highs, this bill places an additional $10 billion burden on the taxpayers in Wyoming and across the Nation. These are not dollars being spent to ease economic woes or create jobs, these are dollars being spent in large part to restrict access to our public lands, to limit responsible energy production in the West and to codify the vague and ill-conceived National Landscape Conservation System.

Supporters of this 1,200-page massive omnibus package will tell you that most of the bills it is comprised of are largely noncontroversial. In some cases they are correct, but in many cases they are not.

Nearly 100 of the bills wrapped into this measure were never considered by the full House, let alone by those of us who were freshmen. Absolutely no amendments are allowed to be offered today.

As such, I am afforded no opportunity to work with the people of my State to address the specific local concerns regarding the Wyoming portion of this package.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I yield the gentlelady an additional 15 seconds.

Mrs. LUMMIS. In today's vote we are asked to choose all or nothing. I know, Mr. Speaker, the House can do better. Our public lands deserve better.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to a very valued new member of our committee, Mr. MARTIN HEINRICH, the gentleman from New Mexico.

(Mr. HEINRICH asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. HEINRICH. Mr. Speaker, as a New Mexican, I rise today in strong support of this public lands package. This bill represents years of work by local citizens, sportsmen, and conservationists from around the Nation.

I know this firsthand. For years before I was elected to this body, I worked with sportsmen and conservationists to add the Sabinoso Wilderness to the National Wilderness Preservation System.

It was 3 years ago this month that then-Congressman and now Senator TOM UDALL, myself and the staff of the New Mexico BLM office spent a long day exploring this beautiful and rugged area on horseback. The Sabinoso is a stunning piece of New Mexico, characterized by high mesas, deep canyons and abundant wildlife.

In New Mexico alone, this package will designate the Sabinoso Wilderness, protect one of the most unique and beautiful cave systems in the world and protect an area rich with dinosaur tracks. In addition, it authorizes critical investments in water infrastructure and efficiency for the pueblos of the Rio Grande Valley.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I think we are kind of out of balance here.

I will reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Connecticut, Mr. CHRIS MURPHY.

Mr. MURPHY of Connecticut. I thank the chairman for his work on this bill, and let me give yet another example of the good work that has been put into this bill.

For years there have been hundreds of volunteers and land conservationists from throughout Connecticut, New Hampshire and Massachusetts who put their time into preserving and upkeeping the Triple M Trail, the Metacomet Monadnock Mattabesett Trail. For years they have asked for a Federal partnership to work along with them to preserve this incredibly important resource for the more than 2 million people throughout the northeast who live within 10 miles of what we refer to as the Triple M Trail.

This 220-mile trail goes from southern New Hampshire's southern border all the way down to Long Island Sound and provides limitless opportunities for hikers and bikers and nature enthusiasts throughout the Northeast. This legislation, giving Federal designation to this trail, is going to provide, I think, a very important lasting partnership between the Federal Government, private landowners and local conservation groups to preserve this for generations to come, and I urge passage of this legislation.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, could I inquire of my friend from West Virginia how many speakers he has.

Mr. RAHALL. If the gentleman will yield, I have four speakers, and it is my intention to conclude the debate.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I will reserve my time.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Washington, Mr. BRIAN BAIRD.

Mr. BAIRD. Title XII of S. 22 contains four important ocean bills, including the Federal Ocean Acidification Research and Monitoring Act. For those who are unfamiliar with it, what this bill deals with is one of the grave threats of carbon buildup in the atmosphere and in the oceans.

Briefly, 25 percent of the carbon that is emitted is dissolved in the ocean. That makes the water more acidic, more acidic water creates difficulties for shellfish acquiring the minerals they need, and that applies to everything from phytoplankton to oysters, crabs, et cetera. It is a grave threat to the Nation and to the environment of the planet, and this bill is a major step forward in addressing this critical need.

I applaud this bill not only for this portion of the ocean element, but three other critical pieces of legislation to better understand our ocean, and urge its passage.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. TOM PERRIELLO.

Mr. PERRIELLO. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of the Omnibus Public Land Management Act, as amended by the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

As an Eagle Scout, the outdoor experiences I enjoyed helped shape my character and my commitment to public service. All future generations should have the same opportunity to enjoy our natural heritage that I had growing up in the shadow of the Blue Ridge Mountains.

As amended, this act protects our outdoors and also our freedoms. Sportsmen are some of our strongest conservationists, and their ability to enjoy our natural heritage must be preserved. I am happy that language has been added to ensure that no provision will be used to limit access to public lands for hunting and fishing.

I hope this Chamber will continue to do all in its power to defend the freedom of our sportsmen and all Americans, be it their right to access public lands or their individual right to bear arms. Theodore Roosevelt once said, "The farther one gets into the wilderness, the greater is the attraction of its lonely freedom."

The experience of the outdoors leads sportsmen, scouts, seniors, outdoorsmen and all Americans to understand the true meaning of freedom.

□ 1115

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I will reserve.

Mr. RAHALL. How much time does the gentleman from Washington have, and what are his intentions to use it?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Washington has 3¼ minutes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. And I have two speakers, including me.

Mr. RAHALL. I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, can I inquire of my friend how many speakers he has left?

Mr. RAHALL. Two.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Including you?

Mr. RAHALL. Not including me.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Why don't I reserve my time, and we'll be even.

Mr. RAHALL. All right. Then I will yield 1 minute to the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. GERALD CONNOLLY.

Mr. CONNOLLY of Virginia. I want to thank the distinguished chairman for his work on this very important bill. I also want to recognize my distinguished colleague, RICK BOUCHER of Virginia, for his extraordinary leadership on the Virginia Ridge and Valley Act, which is part of the Omnibus Public Land Management Act.

Virginia Ridge and Valley will permanently protect 43,000 acres of Jefferson National Forest as Wilderness, and it will also protect an additional 12,000 acres by creating two new National Scenic Areas.

These Wilderness and National Scenic Areas protect old-growth forests in the headwaters of some of the most ecologically sensitive rivers in Virginia, the Clinch and the Holston.

I congratulate the work of the committee; the distinguished chairman; and my colleague, Mr. RICK BOUCHER, and I urge passage of the legislation.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 1 minute to a new member of the Natural Resources Committee, the gentleman from Utah (Mr. CHAFFETZ).

Mr. CHAFFETZ. Thank you. More than 160 titles are wrapped into more than 1,200 pages in this bill. Seventy-five of these titles in the House and 23 in the Senate have never been considered, introduced, or debated. We need openness, transparency, and debate on all bills, and this lands bill falls far short.

This bill takes roughly 8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas and 300 million barrels of oil out of production in Wyoming. At a time when we must strive for energy independence, and people need jobs, this is not a time to further lock up our resources.

This bill is also filled with pork: $3.5 million to celebrate the anniversary of St. Augustine, Florida; $250,000 dollars to decide—just to decide—how to designate Alexander Hamilton's boyhood home.

From making a child a Federal criminal for picking up a fossil, to locking up our public lands, to a lack of proper debate, I urge my colleagues to join me in voting "no" on this bill.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to a distinguished Member and a valued member of our Committee on Natural Resources, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman, and I commend him for his good work on this legislation, which would preserve important pieces of America's natural, cultural, and historical resources for future generations. Others have spoken today about valuable parts of this bill. I'd like to address that. In New Jersey, this bill would preserve our heritage as one of the leaders of the Industrial Revolution by creating the Paterson Great Falls National Historic Park and the Edison National Historic Park.

Paterson Great Falls will protect and preserve a striking natural resource, the Great Falls, along with cultural and historical sites that tell the stories of our Founders, America's economic rise, and the African American experience. Edison National Historic Park will ensure that future generations have an opportunity to visit the home and laboratory of one of New Jersey's most celebrated and influential citizens and one of America's most prominent inventors, Thomas Edison.

I'd like to commend my colleagues from New Jersey, Representatives PASCRELL and PAYNE, for their hard work on these issues, and I'd also like to commend Representative HINCHEY for his work on the Washington Rochambeau Trail in this bill. The trail will help link many of the sites in New Jersey's Crossroads of the American Revolution. These sites are of great importance to the residents of central New Jersey, and I urge my colleagues to support it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Once again, Mr. Speaker, I understand that I am ready to close on my side. If the gentleman from West Virginia is prepared to close after I speak, I will go ahead.

Mr. RAHALL. I am prepared to close.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. I yield myself the balance of my time, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. Speaker, I just want to make a point. There's some reference here to the NRA and what their position is on this bill. I just want to say that there was a letter passed to all Members that NRA has no position on this bill. They are neutral.

Mr. Speaker, because under suspension of the rules Members cannot offer amendments directly to S. 22, so, Mr. Speaker, may I ask the gentleman from West Virginia to yield for the purpose of an amendment to his motion to strike the provisions of S. 22 which can criminalize rock-collecting on Federal lands?

Mr. RAHALL. Simple, simple answer. No.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, let me try another one. There are several issues here. May I ask the gentleman from West Virginia to yield to me for the purpose of an amendment to his motion to guarantee that S. 22 will not prohibit or delay energy development on millions of acres of Federal lands affected by this bill?

Mr. RAHALL. That is not the case. The answer is no.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. The gentleman won't yield. Mr. Speaker, I will try one more time.

May I ask the gentleman from West Virginia to yield to me for the purpose of an amendment to his motion to guarantee that S. 22 will not prohibit recreational access for all Americans to the millions of acres of Federal lands affected by this bill?

Mr. RAHALL. The question is not in order, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, how much time do I have left?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman has 1¼ minutes.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, I just want to point out that this is an extraordinary process. Suspension of the rules for bills are generally for noncontroversial issues. This is a $10 billion authorization bill, and it was amended. It was amended. But nobody else, including those that I referenced here earlier, had an opportunity to come to the floor and offer their amendment in their way to try to perfect this bill.

So, I am urging my colleagues to vote "no" on this bill. When it's defeated under suspension of the rules, the majority can take this back to Rules, have an open rule so we can debate this process, I think, in a very reasonable way.

Because, keep in mind, Mr. Speaker, we were told, "No amendments on this bill or the Senate will take it down to their purgatory." That didn't happen. So, with that, Mr. Speaker, I yield back my time and urge a "no" vote.

Mr. RAHALL. How much time, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Two minutes.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, much has been said about the cost of this legislation. I think it's important to note that CBO estimates that enacting S. 22 would have no effect on revenues and no net effect on direct spending over the 2009 to 2018 period, which is the time period relevant to enforcing the pay-as-you-go rules under the current budget resolution. So, this legislation is PAYGO-compliant. PAYGO rules do apply here; something the Republicans never followed when they were in power.

This is an authorization process and, as most Members know, there's a difference between authorization and appropriation. If Members oppose certain projects in this bill, then the case is to take this to the Appropriations Committee, where those concerns can be properly aired.

The bill contains numerous provisions related to non-Federal matching funds in order to maximize public benefit while minimizing Federal expenditures, an important point that has not yet been made in the pending legislation.

So, as I conclude, Mr. Speaker, let me say, as I said in the beginning, this bill is important, especially in today's troubled economic times. We find more and more families where both breadwinners have to find jobs in order to make ends meet. That means that quality time spent at home is rare, and the quantity of time in which families can spend together is even more rare today. Whenever there is time found together, it must be quality time, and that quality time can be found in our National Parks and our public lands and our heritage areas and our historically preserved areas, in our open spaces.

And that's what this legislation is about. It's a family values issue. Providing hardworking American families today time to spend quality time and quantity time is rare; to spend quality time together in our open spaces, recognizing the vast heritage and important heritage and proud heritage of this great land that we call America. That is what this legislation is all about, and I urge my colleagues to vote "yes."

Mr. STUPAK. Mr. Speaker, I am troubled by the manner in which this bill, S. 22, the Omnibus Public Lands Act, was brought to the House floor with no opportunity to amend and little input from members of this chamber.

We are all aware of the challenges in moving legislation, particularly this legislation, through the Senate. But that does not mean we should defer to the judgment of 99 Senators and let the voices of the 435 members of the House and their constituents go unheard.

There are a lot of good things in this bill. For example, I am pleased S. 22 includes stand alone legislation I have introduced, H.R. 488, to decrease the matching funds requirement and authorize additional appropriations for Keweenaw National Historical Park in Michigan. Another provision in the bill would support the North Country National Scenic Trail, which snakes more than a thousand miles across my state.

Despite the inclusion of these provisions, this could be a stronger bill with input from the House. There is no better example of this than the one amendment that was allowed, that offered by Mr. ALTMIRE. His amendment protects access to public lands for recreational activities otherwise allowed by law or regulation, including hunting, fishing and trapping and clarifies states' authority to manage fish and wildlife populations.

I have drafted an amendment, which due to the way this bill was brought to the floor I was unable to offer, to strip a provision designating 11,739 acres at Pictured Rocks National Lakeshore as the Beaver Basin Wilderness Area. The proposed wilderness designation is located entirely in my congressional district and lacks the support of the local city and county governments. This issue deserved debate and consideration by the House before pushing through this public lands bill.

Quickly adding S. 22 to the suspension calendar and effectively blocking input and changes is not appropriate regular order. Ultimately, the good things in this bill outweigh my frustrations over the process so I will support final passage. But I urge you, Mr. Speaker, to restore regular order to the House floor.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask my colleagues to join me today to pass S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act. This bill is a compilation of over 160 bills intended to protect millions of acres of wilderness and miles of national wild and scenic rivers. It will also establish three new national park units, four new national trails and more. The Lifetime Innovations of Thomas Edison (LITE) Act, which is part of the omnibus legislation, honors the life and accomplishments of New Jersey's own Thomas Edison.

The Lifetime Innovations of Thomas Edison Act (LITE) Act is a testament to Edison whose impact is still being felt today. Congress, in 1928, honored Edison with the Congressional Gold Medal for the "development and application of inventions that have revolutionized civilization in the last century." In 1997, Life magazine named Edison "Man of the Millennium" in recognition of his inventions that have transformed modern society, including the incandescent light bulb, the motion picture camera, and the phonograph. The LITE Act will preserve the intellectual and physical accomplishments of Thomas Edison by commemorating his lifetime achievements; re-designating the Edison National Historic Site, located in West Orange, NJ, my Congressional district, as a National Historic Park; and authorizing appropriations to support the site.

The Edison site is actually comprised of two separate sites—Edison's home of 45 years (known as Glenmont) and his laboratory complex. The Edison site houses over five million pages of documents, over 400,000 artifacts, approximately 35,000 sound recordings, and over 10,000 books from Edison's personal library. Like this priceless collection of documents and artifacts, Edison's laboratory complex and home are also historical treasures. With buildings dating back to 1887, the laboratory complex was one of America's first research and development facilities, and is where Edison earned over half of his 1,093 patents. Moreover, Mr. Edison's gravesite is located on the grounds of his beloved Glenmont, a twenty-nine room home built in 1880 that contains original furnishings and other family items.

The LITE Act is critical to efforts to protect the Thomas Edison National Historic Site. The Edison site has enormous historical significance for America and for the world, and is badly in need of restoration. The need for major infrastructure improvements at the Edison site has been documented as early as 1972. Additionally, the site was listed, in 1992, by the National Trust for Historic Preservation as one of the nation's most "endangered historic places." The laboratory complex is currently closed to the public because of an extensive restoration effort. It is estimated that the first phase of the restoration effort will conclude this April and that the laboratory complex will open for public preview some time this summer. Renovations at Glenmont have been completed and the site is open to the public and fully functioning. Plans also exist for a second phase of the restoration project. Currently, National Park Service (NPS) staff are housed in historic buildings under less than ideal circumstances. The second phase will focus on getting NPS staff out of the historic buildings and into office space that better supports their critical mission of preserving Edison's historical legacy.

When the Edison site was fully operational, approximately 95,000 people visited the site each year. It is estimated that the number of visitors will nearly triple when the first phase of the restoration project is completed. The LITE Act would ensure this commitment by re-designating the Edison site as a "national historical park" (consistent with National Park Service guidelines) and authorizing appropriations for restoration work. These measures will preserve Thomas Edison's historical legacy, enhance the educational experience of visitors to the site, and hopefully, encourage more private funding for restoration projects.

Although private benefactors—most notably the Edison Preservation Foundation—have generously donated significant resources to restore the site, the federal government's long-term commitment to the site is critical to its longevity and educational mission. This legislation recognizes Thomas Edison's numerous contributions to American society and preserves the Edison National Historic Site as a leading educational, scientific and cultural center.

S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009 is a sweeping piece of legislation that will conserve millions of acres of America's splendor for future generations. The Lifetime Innovations of Thomas Edison Act is a small component of the bill but will provide great educational and entertainment opportunities for the people of New Jersey and others who will visit this historic gem. I respectfully urge my colleagues to support this important legislation.

Mrs. CAPPS. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to express my support for S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009.

I want to thank Chairman RAHALL for his leadership during the previous Congress to move this important legislation forward. While we were unable to vote on this package last year, it is time that we pass these bills.

This legislation is a bipartisan package of more than 160 individual bills, and incorporates a wide range of public lands, water resources, and ocean and coastal protection measures that impact various regions of our Nation. All of the bills included in the package have been thoroughly reviewed and approved by the House or favorably reported by the Senate committee of jurisdiction during the 110th Congress.

Today, I wish to highlight four bills in the omnibus package that I sponsored during the 111th Congress.

First, the Coastal and Estuarine Land Conservation Program Act.

This legislation codifies and strengthens an existing NOAA program—the Coastal and Estuarine Land Conservation Program or CELCP—that awards grants to coastal states to protect environmentally sensitive lands.

As someone who represents over 200 miles of California's coastline, I'm well aware of the pressures of urbanization and pollution along our nation's coasts. These activities threaten to impair our watersheds, impact wildlife habitat and cause damage to the fragile coastal ecology.

Coastal land protection partnership programs, like CELCP, can help our Nation meet these growing challenges.

For example, in my congressional district I've worked collaboratively with environmental groups, willing sellers, and the State to conserve lands and waters around Morro Bay, on the Gaviota Coast, and near the Piedras Blancas Light Station.

These projects have offered numerous benefits to local communities by preserving water quality, natural areas for wildlife and birds, and outdoor recreation opportunities—thereby protecting for the future the very things we love about the coasts.

Although the program has been in existence for six years, it has yet to be formally authorized. This legislation seeks to do just that. It expands the federal/state partnership program explicitly for conservation of coastal lands.

Under this program, coastal states can compete for matching funds to acquire land or easements to protect coastal areas that have considerable conservation, recreation, ecological, historical or aesthetic values threatened by development or conversion.

It will not only improve the quality of coastal areas and the marine life they support, but also sustain surrounding communities and their way of life.

I would also like to acknowledge the work of former Congressman Jim Saxton. Mr. Saxton introduced this legislation in the 109th and 110th Congresses. His longstanding commitment to passage of this legislation will ensure the protection of the important coastal habitat and provide for increased recreational opportunities throughout his home state of New Jersey.

The Omnibus Public Land Management Act also includes my Integrated Coastal and Ocean Observation System Act.

This legislation seeks to establish a national ocean and coastal observing, monitoring, and forecasting system to gather real-time data on the marine environment, to refine and enhance predictive capabilities, and to provide other benefits, such as improved fisheries management and safer navigation.

To safeguard our coastal communities and nation, we must invest in the integration and enhancement of our coastal and ocean observing systems.

The devastation caused by tsunamis, hurricanes, and other coastal storms demonstrates the critical need for better observation and warning systems to provide timely detection, assessment and warnings to millions of people living in coastal regions around the world.

The U.S. Commission on Ocean Policy, the Pew Oceans Commission, and many government ocean advisory groups have called for the establishment of a national integrated coastal and ocean observing system as the answer to this challenge.

Specifically, the National Integrated Coastal and Ocean Observing System Act would formally authorize the President to develop and operate a genuine national coastal and ocean observing system to measure, track, explain, and predict events related to climate change, natural climate variability, and interactions between the oceans and atmosphere, including the Great Lakes; promote basic and applied science research; and institutionalize coordinated public outreach, education, and training.

Importantly, this system will build on recent advances in technology and data management to fully integrate and enhance the nation's existing regional observing assets, like the Southern and Central and Northern California Ocean Observing Systems, which operate off California's coastline. These systems have proven invaluable in understanding and managing our ocean and coastal resources.

I would also like to commend our former colleague from Maine, Congressman Tom Allen, for championing this legislation in the 110th Congress. Congressman Allen worked tirelessly to enact this important legislation in the last session, and he deserves a tremendous amount of credit when this measure is signed into law.

S. 22 also includes my City of Oxnard Water Recycling and Desalination Act.

This bill authorizes a proposed regional water resources project—the Groundwater Recover Enhancement and Treatment or GREAT Program—located in my congressional district.

Many communities today are faced with the difficult task of providing reliable and safe water to their customers. The City of Oxnard is no exception.

Oxnard is one of California's fastest growing cities and is facing an ever-growing crisis: it's running out of affordable water.

The water needs for the city's agricultural and industrial base, together with its growing population, have exceeded its local water resources. As a result, over 50 percent of its water has to be imported from outside sources. However, through a series of local, state and federal restrictions the amount of imported water available to the city is shrinking, while the cost of that water is rising.

Recognizing these challenges, Oxnard developed the GREAT Program to address its long-term water needs.

The GREAT Program elements include a new regional groundwater desalination facility to serve potable water customers in Oxnard and adjacent communities; a recycled water system to serve agricultural water users and provide added protection against seawater intrusion and saltwater contamination; and a wetlands restoration and enhancement component that efficiently reuses the brine discharges from both the groundwater desalination and recycled water treatment facilities.

Implementation of the GREAT Program will provide many significant regional benefits.

First, the new desalination project will serve ratepayers in Oxnard and adjacent communities, guaranteeing sufficient water supplies for the area.

Second, Oxnard's current water infrastructure delivers approximately 30 million gallons of treated wastewater per day to an ocean outfall. The GREAT Program will utilize the resource currently wasted to the ocean and treat it so that it can be reused by the agricultural water users in the area.

During the non-growing season, it will inject the resource into the ground to serve as a barrier against seawater intrusion and saltwater contamination. To alleviate severely depressed groundwater levels, this component also pumps groundwater into the aquifer to enhance groundwater recharge.

Finally, the brine produced as a by-product of the desalination and recycling plants will provide a year-round supply of nutrient-rich water to the existing wetlands at Ormond Beach.

I commend Oxnard for finding innovative and effective ways of extending water supplies in the West. In my view, the City of Oxnard Water Recycling and Desalination Act supports one such creative solution.

It will reduce the consumption of groundwater for agricultural and industrial purposes, cut imported water delivery requirements, and improve local reliability of high quality water deliveries.

Finally, the package includes my Goleta Water Distribution System Conveyance Act.

This bill authorizes the title transfer of a federally owned water distribution system in my congressional district from the Bureau of Reclamation to the Goleta Water District.

The purpose of the legislation is to simplify the operation and maintenance of the District's water distribution system and eliminate unnecessary paperwork and consultation between the District and the Bureau.

The Goleta Water District has operated and maintained the facilities proposed for transfer since the 1950s. They have worked through all requirements of the Bureau's title transfer process, including public meetings, fulfillment of their repayment obligations, completion of an environmental assessment, and compliance with all other applicable laws.

The only step remaining to complete the process is an act of Congress enabling the Secretary of the Interior to transfer title.

It is important to note that the proposed transfer would apply only to lands and facilities associated with the District and would not affect the District's existing water service contract with the Santa Barbara County Water Agency, nor the Federal government receipts from water deliveries under the contract.

In addition, the proposed transfer does not envision any new physical modification or expansion of the service infrastructure.

I'm pleased the Bureau supported my legislation, which will allow the Bureau to focus its limited resources where they are needed most.

In my view, this is an example of local problem-solving at its best. I commend the staff of the water district and the Bureau for their efforts to reach this agreement. I know that they have been working on this for several years now.

In closing, Mr. Speaker, all of these bills could not have been accomplished without the strong support and hard work and dedication of the House Leadership and Chairman RAHALL, and I thank them for successfully moving these priorities in my congressional district.

I urge all of my colleagues to support the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009.

Mr. MINNICK. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of the Public Lands Management Act.

Teddy Roosevelt once spoke of his fondness for the out of doors when he said, "there are no words that can tell the hidden spirit of the wilderness, that can reveal its mystery, its melancholy, and its charm."

This legislation contains a protection for a number of America's public lands and in particular, for a treasured place back in my home of Idaho called the Owyhee Canyonlands.

Last summer, I had the privilege of spending a week floating the river which created the area this bill will protect. We saw redband trout in the pristine rapids, camped along the lush river banks, climbed up the rocky canyon walls to see bighorn sheep, and stood at the top looking at a rich desert plateau of sage grouse, antelope and bald eagles.

When passed, this bill will permanently protect as wilderness 517,000 beautiful acres in the southwestern corner of my home state's landscape and would provide wild and scenic status to nearly 315 miles of rivers. It will also guarantee that the ranching families who have protected this land for generations will continue on, with their grazing rights protected.

None of that would be possible without the hard work of my friend and colleague in the Senate, MIKE CRAPO, who fostered a collaborative process of ranchers, public officials, community leaders and conservationists to preserve our cherished Owyhees.

Many of these provisions in this bill have been waiting on Congressional action for years and are supported by Members from across the political spectrum. I urge you to join us today in supporting this historic legislation.

Mr. ISSA. Mr. Speaker within the gigantic omnibus lands bill that is on the floor today are two authorizations for water projects that will greatly benefit my Congressional District and much of Southern California. I did not ask that the Santa Margarita Conjunctive Use Project and the Elsinore Valley Municipal Water District Wildomar Service Area Recycled Water Distribution Facilities and Alberhill Wastewater Treatment and Reclamation Facility Projects be rolled into this 1,200, plus-page bill. Each of these projects had enough merit to pass the House on their own and could have just as easily passed the Senate. They are worthy projects that will help to address the water shortage that Southern California continues to experience.

The first authorization, for the Santa Margarita Conjunctive Use Project, directs the Bureau of Reclamation to construct a project for the benefit of the Fallbrook Public Utilities District and the United States Marine Corps base at Camp Pendleton consisting of enhanced recharge in the groundwater basins using natural and enhanced river flows. All of the project rights-of-way are already held. A feasibility study and joint EIS/EIR is under preparation by the Bureau of Reclamation.

The project sets aside and preserves valuable riparian and upland habitats of the last free flowing river in California, using a portion of the 1,300 acres originally purchased for a dam and reservoir. It would improve and partially privatize the water supply to USMC Base Camp Pendleton, which will receive better quality water in quantities sufficient to meet water needs up to its ultimate planned utilization.

This legislation also provides a final resolution to litigation that began over forty years ago. In 1966, the U.S. District Court directed the Department of the Interior to provide a "physical solution" to the division of water of the Santa Margarita River as set forth in a stipulated judgment. Previous legislative efforts to authorize a two dam project on the river were not successful. The conjunctive use project utilizes advances in water treatment technology, making it possible to comply with the court's directive at less than half the cost of the two dam project and without environmental degradation.

Finally, this project provides a safe, drought and earthquake proof water supply of as much as 18,000 acre feet of water per year, enough for 35,000 families, for Camp Pendleton and Fallbrook. The project yield will be split with 60% for Camp Pendleton and 40% for Fallbrook.

This is a good project and deserves to be authorized.

The second authorization, the Elsinore Valley Municipal Water District Wildomar Service Area Recycled Water Distribution Facilities and Alberhill Wastewater Treatment and Reclamation Facility Projects, Amends the Reclamation Wastewater and Groundwater Study and Facilities Act to authorize the Secretary of the Interior, in cooperation with the Elsinore

Valley Municipal Water District, California, to participate in the design, planning, and construction of permanent facilities needed to establish recycled water distribution and wastewater treatment and reclamation facilities that will be used to treat wastewater and provide recycled water in the water district.

This project is needed to provide additional water resources for agricultural and residential areas in Riverside County. In the wake of additional water limitations from the Colorado River and the Sacramento Delta this authorization creates an additional local water resource that gives the district better options.

Ms. DELAURO. Mr. Speaker, we have an obligation to our communities and to generations that follow, to preserve our nation's scenic beauty, wildlife, and outdoor recreation. The Grand Canyon, Yellowstone, Acadia, and the Blue Ridge Mountains are just a few of our country's natural treasures admired around the world. Yet there are many more, so critical to our natural heritage and to our basic well-being.

The Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009 (S-22) will save many of those other special places and sustain America's unique greatness as a nation of unparalleled natural treasures. One of the many important achievements of this package of 160 public lands bills is Congressional designation of 86 Wild & Scenic rivers in Arizona, California, Idaho, Massachusetts, Oregon, Utah, Vermont, and Wyoming. From our own experience in Connecticut we know the special value of a Wild & Scenic river designation.

Take for example our Eightmile River Wild and Scenic River designation signed into law last May, championed by my colleague JOE COURTNEY. An unprecedented level of protection has now been produced for one of New England's outstanding river systems, and Wild & Scenic designation was the catalyst for getting it done. In CT like New England we are many separate towns with our own identities and agendas. Getting towns to work together on regional issues is very tough. But the Wild & Scenic process brought the watershed towns together and they worked hard for several years. With the support of the designation process, they scientifically identified the river system's outstanding resource values such as its high "Water Quality" and diversity of "Unique Species." They built community awareness of the river's importance and community involvement in the Wild and Scenic process. The commitment to protect the river was widespread among citizens and made official through overwhelming town votes for designation. Today, thousands of acres have been conserved and a long term management plan for the entire Watershed developed and adopted. Now, through its Wild and Scenic designation, the Eightmile has a federal partner and special federal protection. It is a model of communities taking strong action together to realize a common vision. It is also a model of how small amounts of federal funding can help inspire local action and leverage substantial non-federal resources.

I am so pleased to see Congress taking action through the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009 to realize our common desire to keep America the beautiful. As Wild and Scenic designation is a great asset for our state, this bill will help create many more invaluable assets for our entire country.

Mr. RAHALL. Mr. Speaker, I submit for inclusion in the RECORD the following exchange of letters between the Judiciary and Natural Resources Committees regarding a certain jurisdictional aspect of S. 22.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON THE JUDICIARY,
Washington, DC, February 5, 2009.

Hon. NICK RAHALL,
Chairman, Committee on Natural Resources,
House of Representatives, Washington, DC.

DEAR CHAIRMAN RAHALL: I am writing regarding S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009, which has been received in the House after passing the Senate.

Subtitle D of title VI of that bill is a measure based on H.R. 554 from the 110th Congress, the Paleontological Resources Preservation Act, containing significant provisions within the Rule X jurisdiction of the Judiciary Committee, including criminal penalties, judicial review and enforcement of administrative fines, use of civil and criminal fines, and forfeiture. The Judiciary Committee received an extended referral of H.R. 554 in the 110th Congress, and our two committees had extensive discussions about refining the bill in important respects.

While I understand and support the decision, in light of the difficulty in passing S. 22 in the Senate, to attempt to pass it in the House without amendment to ensure it reaches the President, I regret that we will be unable to make appropriate refinements to the provisions in the Judiciary Committee's jurisdiction before the bill becomes law. I appreciate your willingness to work with me to make these refinements as soon as practicable in subsequent legislation.

I would appreciate your including this letter in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD during consideration of the bill on the House floor. Thank you for your attention to this matter, and for the cooperative relationship between our two committees.

Sincerely,
JOHN CONYERS, Jr.,
Chairman.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES,
COMMITTEE ON NATURAL RESOURCES,
Washington, DC, February 5, 2009.

Hon. JOHN CONYERS,
Chairman, Committee on the Judiciary, Rayburn HOB, Washington, DC.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN: Thank you for your letter concerning the paleontological resource provisions of Subtitle D of Title VI of S. 22 that fall within the jurisdiction of the Committee on the Judiciary. I appreciate your understanding of the need to consider S. 22 in the House without amendment so as to ensure its enactment in a timely manner. I recognize the interest of your committee in these specific provisions and will work with you to make any necessary and appropriate refinements in subsequent legislation.

This letter, as well as your letter, will be entered into the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD during consideration of S. 22 on the House floor. Thank you for the cooperative spirit in which you have worked regarding this matter and others between our respective committees.

With warm regards, I am
Sincerely,

NICK J. RAHALL, II,
Chairman.

Mr. LANGEVIN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of S. 22, the Omnibus Public Land Management Act of 2009. Not only does this measure combine 71 bills already passed by the House of Representatives that improve forest health, facilitate better land management and protect water resources; it contains a bill that is long overdue for the President's signature—The Christopher and Dana Reeve Paralysis Act.

In the beginning of the 108th Congress, I joined a number of my colleagues in announcing the introduction of this critical piece of legislation. On that spring day in 2003, we were joined by Christopher Reeve. Each of us who had the privilege of working with Chris knows that his voice was strong and his perseverance was limitless. He worked tirelessly to raise awareness of spinal cord injuries and bring science closer to a cure. I would like to take this opportunity to recall what he said to us on that day six years ago:

"I am honored and humbled to have my name associated with such a powerful piece of legislation. The passage of this bill will send an unprecedented message—the issues of research, rehabilitation and quality of life are paramount to improving the lives of those living with disabilities."

These words ring true today—and I know that the spirit and force behind them are more powerful than ever as we prepare to pass a bill that will truly make a difference in the advancement of paralysis research. This legislation will authorize funding for the National Institutes of Health (NIH) to expand and coordinate NIH activities on paralysis research to prevent redundancies and accelerate discovery of better treatments and cures. It will also establish a grant program in the Department of Health and Human Services for activities related to paralysis, including establishing registries and disseminating information.

Mr. Speaker, as a lawmaker eager to preserve our public lands, as well as find new treatments and cures for paralysis, I urge my colleagues to vote in favor of S. 22 and support its final passage.

Mr. WOLF. Mr. Speaker, I will vote today for S. 22 because I have been an advocate of initiatives like many that are authorized in this package that protect our nation's historical, cultural, and scenic heritage. Several provisions in this bill will specifically help to preserve areas in my district and throughout the state of Virginia.

I have cosponsored and voted for the Civil War Battlefield Preservation Act, which is included in this package and provides grants to assist with the purchase of important Civil War sites that have not yet been protected. This program has helped preserve many sites in my district, rich in Civil War heritage. Most recently, the purchase of the site of the Battle of Third Winchester is contingent on receiving grant funding from this program.

Other initiatives that will preserve important sites in Virginia that are included in this package are the Virginia Ridge and Valley Act, the Northern Neck National Heritage Area Study Act and the Washington-Rochambeau Revolutionary Route National Historic Trail Designation Act.

While I agree in general with the intent of programs included in this package, I also have concerns regarding some of its provisions. There is language included in the bill that would prohibit natural resource development on about 1.2 million acres in Wyoming. According to the Bureau of Land Management, this provision would permanently take 8.8 trillion cubic feet of natural gas and 300 million barrels of oil out of production. I believe that it is irresponsible to put restrictions on domestic energy production. Environmentally friendly domestic energy production should be considered as part of a comprehensive energy plan to help stabilize the cost of gasoline and reduce U.S. dependence on foreign oil.

I also maintain that long-term, permanent energy policy must be developed through clean, alternative and renewable energy resources to fuel our cars and light our homes and businesses. Solar power, wind power, clean coal technology, nuclear power, the hydrogen economy, new energy transmission technology, hybrid vehicle development, biofuels—every option must be on the table for investment and development to secure our nation's energy needs for the 21st century. But we cannot close the door to domestic energy production.

Mr. BRADY of Pennsylvania. Mr. Speaker, as chairman of the Committee on House Administration, I urge passage of S. 22, which contains three important projects to advance the mission of the Smithsonian Institution.

This legislation would authorize the design and construction of laboratory and support space for the Mathias Laboratory at the Smithsonian Environmental Research Center (SERC) in Edgewater, Maryland; authorize construction of laboratory space to accommodate the terrestrial research program at the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute (STRI) in Gamboa, Panama; and authorize construction of a greenhouse facility at its museum support facility in Suitland, Maryland, to maintain the horticultural operations of, and preserve the orchid collection held in trust by, the Smithsonian. The diverse nature of these projects is a good example of the unique role that the Smithsonian plays in advancing our knowledge of the natural world.

The Committee on House Administration and the Committee on Transportation and Infrastructure reported legislation last year approving Smithsonian construction projects, which subsequently passed the House without controversy. This omnibus legislation, S. 22, is the clearest and quickest way to ensure enactment of these important initiatives.

Mr. RAHALL. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from West Virginia (Mr. RAHALL) that the House suspend the rules and pass the Senate bill, S. 22, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. HASTINGS of Washington. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

SUPPORTING DESIGNATION OF PI DAY

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 224) supporting the designation of Pi Day, and for other purposes.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 224

Whereas the Greek letter (Pi) is the symbol for the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter;

Whereas the ratio Pi is an irrational number, which will continue infinitely without repeating, and has been calculated to over one trillion digits;

Whereas Pi is a recurring constant that has been studied throughout history and is central in mathematics as well as science and engineering;

Whereas mathematics and science are a critical part of our children's education, and children who perform better in math and science have higher graduation and college attendance rates;

Whereas aptitude in mathematics, science, and engineering is essential for a knowledge-based society;

Whereas, according to the 2007 Trends in International Mathematics and Science Study (TIMSS) survey done by the National Center for Education Statistics, American children in the 4th and 8th grade were outperformed by students in other countries including Taiwan, Singapore, Russia, England, South Korea, Latvia, and Japan;

Whereas since 1995 the United States has shown only minimal improvement in math and science test scores;

Whereas by the 8th grade, American males outperform females on the science portion of the TIMSS survey, especially in Biology, Physics, and Earth Science, and the lowest American scores in math and science are found in minority and impoverished school districts;

Whereas America needs to reinforce mathematics and science education for all students in order to better prepare our children for the future and in order to compete in a 21st Century economy;

Whereas the National Science Foundation has been driving innovation in math and science education at all levels from elementary through graduate education since its creation 59 years ago;

Whereas mathematics and science can be a fun and interesting part of a child's education, and learning about Pi can be an engaging way to teach children about geometry and attract them to study science and mathematics; and

Whereas Pi can be approximated as 3.14, and thus March 14, 2009, is an appropriate day for "National Pi Day": Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) supports the designation of a "Pi Day" and its celebration around the world;

(2) recognizes the continuing importance of National Science Foundation's math and science education programs; and

(3) encourages schools and educators to observe the day with appropriate activities that teach students about Pi and engage them about the study of mathematics.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DAVIS) and the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROWN) each will control 20 minutes.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on House Resolution 224, the resolution now under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Tennessee?

There was no objection.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H.R. 224, supporting the designation of Pi Day. This Saturday is March 14. The Greek letter pi—the symbol for the ratio of the circumference of a circle to its diameter—is rounded to 3.14.

I'd like to take this opportunity to encourage our Nation's students of all ages, schools, and teachers, to observe Pi Day with fun math and science activities and events.

This is a lighthearted event with serious goals. Math and science underpin our Nation's economic competitiveness and national security. By engaging in fun math and science activities from a young age, we are setting our students on a path towards science and math literacy, and opening the door to rewards and promising careers.

Research has shown that most students who are not comfortable with math and science by junior high remain intimidated or uninterested throughout their education careers.

On Pi Day, we want students to have fun with math and science. Second-graders could calculate the area of a pizza pie at a Pi Day pizza party. Sixth graders could learn about Newton's Laws of Motion from a game of bocce ball. Tenth-graders could learn about the hyperbolic functions by shooting Nerf rockets in the park.

I leave the specifics to the schools, but my advice is to go and have some fun. Let the students see firsthand how math and science is fun and relevant. Let them see that it does apply to them. Let them discover that they really do like math and they really do like science.

This is a lighthearted event, but the underlying problems we have in America are serious. The President of the United States stood in this room a few weeks ago and told us that "the countries that out-teach us today will out-compete us tomorrow."

According to the 2007 Trends in International Mathematics and Science, a survey done by the National Center for Education Statistics, American children in the fourth and eighth grades were outperformed by students in other countries, including Taiwan, Singapore, Russia, England, South Korea, Latvia, and Japan. Other students have been making improvements since the 1995 TIMSS, but they still are not achieving their potential. It doesn't matter to them as individuals but, boy, does it matter to our Nation as a whole.

The 2005 National Academics Report, "Rising Above the Gathering Storm," looked at our economic competitiveness and showed us a blank and bleak future—a stagnating U.S. economy, an ill-equipped educational system, and the U.S. losing its place as a scientific world leader.

The recommendations contained in the "Rising Above the Gathering

Storm" report were meant to pull us off the path we were on. They were signed into law in 2007 as part of the America COMPETES Act, and fell basically into three categories: Investments in basic research; innovation as the path toward reducing our dependence on foreign oil; and improving science, technology, engineering, and math education.

Our students' education, especially in science and math, will be a key component of our national economic competitiveness. We need to ensure not only that the Nation produces the top scientists, mathematicians, and engineers, but that every student is prepared for the high-paying technical jobs of the 21st century. We need the engineers that will invent the next new things; we need the manufacturers to design it, and an educated workforce to produce it. We cannot, and would not want to, compete globally on wages alone. We need to operate at a much higher level in this country.

Given the current economic crisis, our economic competitiveness is more important than ever before. We have been trying to create jobs immediately, which we need to do, absolutely; but we also need to look down the road. If we do not take action to strengthen our Nation's economic competitiveness now, including improving science and math education, we could create jobs now, only to lose them in the future to foreign competition.

We need to make sure that our children are prepared, and a strong foundation in math and science education is an essential part of that preparation. One of the best ways we can prepare our students is by encouraging their interest in math and science. So I am asking our Nation's students and teachers, for all of our sake, to go out and have fun around Pi Day.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of House Resolution 224. Improving math and science curriculum in our schools is great and admirable, as well as an absolute necessity, for our undertaking as Nation, and it is one that is long overdue. While our students have continued to improve in these fields over the course of the past few years, America is still being outperformed by students in many other countries.

This is not a problem that can be simply fixed by this resolution. Nonetheless, every step must be taken with an aim to addressing this shortcoming in our school systems, and this resolution is undoubtedly a part of that. So I appreciate and thank Chairman GORDON and Ranking Member HALL for bringing this important piece of legislation to the floor in the hopes of drawing even more attention to an area of critical need in our Nation's education system.

For our children and grandchildren to be able to compete in a global world, we must refocus on math and science and inspire our children in these fields at an early age, and House Resolution 224 helps us to do just that. Therefore, I support this resolution and the goals and ideals that it means to attain, and I urge my colleagues to do the same.

I want to congratulate my dear friend from Tennessee (Mr. DAVIS) on his remarkable opening remarks, and I want to associate myself with those remarks.

Math and science are absolutely critical for us to be able to compete in a global economy, to be able to compete against nations all over this world. We are lacking in math and science; we are lacking in the subjects that are so critically important to this Nation for us to have our children be able to compete in that global economy.

As a physician, I believe in science, of course. But it is much more than that. We have seen a degradation of the quality of education of our children. No Child Left Behind has been an absolute disaster. In fact, I have talked to educator after educator for the last several years since I have been here in Congress or running for Congress, and I have not found one who likes No Child Left Behind, because teachers are having to teach to the test, having to teach to these national standards, which have led the teachers away from actually teaching kids how to think, how to calculate, how to utilize the scientific method to investigate new things. This resolution helps to place a focus upon that, to help us to bring forth science as being a critical issue for our Nation. And it is a critical issue.

I would like to see No Child Left Behind go away. I would like to see us stop teaching in schools things that are not as important and things that should be taught at home in intact families. So we need to rebuild families and encourage families to do that, instead of continuing this huge leap to a welfare state, a huge leap towards bigger government, a huge leap towards removing responsibility for the individuals and building a bigger government, a bigger socialistic society.

We need to empower teachers, we need to empower educators at all levels to teach math and science, English and history. We need to have English as the official language of America. We need to have the basic tenets of education, reading, writing, arithmetic, science, history, English, be absolutely the important focus of education in America today. This bill focuses on one part of that that we need to bring forth, and I gladly support this House resolution.

I thank my colleague from Tennessee for his remarks, and I do associate myself with those remarks. They were great. With that, I encourage every Member of this body to support this resolution.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Obviously, the gentleman from Georgia is a good friend and a neighbor. Each of us recognizes the need to train the young minds who will be the entrepreneurs, the inventors, those who will be bringing to the table new inventions that will help America's economy not only be competitive, but America's economy be the one that achieves and perhaps even brings this world out of what we see today as an economic recession.

Years ago, in the 1970s, we established legislation on the national level that brought to rural areas in my congressional district and the gentleman from Georgia's congressional district special education, where we literally focused on young minds that were maybe not as capable of reaching the higher achievements, or they may not ever reach college. But some of the instructions that we gave them, some of the special attention we gave through special education has actually presented some of those individuals the opportunity where some have attended college. But it has also given them an opportunity to be competitive in our economy and to be a part of our society. We must do the same thing for the best and brightest as well. It is my hope that, as we engage in K-12, that we continue to focus on science, math, and technology, and to challenge the bright young minds that we have not been challenging in the past.

We have been fortunate in this country through our higher educational system, which is, in my opinion and as scored by many throughout the world, the best higher educational system in the world. It is a merit-based system. In many of the countries throughout the world, their K-12 is also merit-based, and we have been getting some of those best and brightest from some of the K-12 educational systems to come to our colleges and retain them here in our economy, and they have been a part of America's economic growth.

We are losing those students today. We cannot depend on other countries' best and brightest. We have got to be sure that we train our best and brightest. And by challenging our teachers, our school systems, and youngsters to become involved in this fun day could maybe encourage them to realize they can be competitive and become the entrepreneurs and inventors of the future for America.

It is my privilege to manage the bill today, and certainly to manage it with my good friend from Georgia (Mr. BROWN).

I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DAVIS) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 224.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays. The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

RECOGNIZING SUCCESS OF MARS EXPLORATION ROVERS

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 67) recognizing and commending the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA), the Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), and Cornell University for the success of the Mars Exploration Rovers, Spirit and Opportunity, on the 5th anniversary of the Rovers' successful landing.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 67

Whereas the Mars Exploration Rovers Spirit and Opportunity successfully landed on Mars on January 3, 2004, and January 24, 2004, respectively, on missions to search for evidence indicating that Mars once held conditions hospitable to life;

Whereas NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), managed by the California Institute of Technology (Caltech), designed and built the Rovers, Spirit and Opportunity;

Whereas Cornell University led the development of advanced scientific instruments carried by the 2 Rovers, and continues to play a leading role in the operation of the 2 Rovers and the processing and analysis of the images and other data sent back to Earth;

Whereas the Rovers relayed over a quarter million images taken from the surface of Mars;

Whereas studies conducted by the Rovers have indicated that early Mars was characterized by impacts, explosive volcanoes, and subsurface water;

Whereas each Rover has discovered geological evidence of ancient Martian environments where habitable conditions may have existed;

Whereas the Rovers have explored over 21 kilometers of Martian terrain, climbed Martian hills, descended deep into large craters, survived dust storms, and endured 3 cold, dark Martian winters; and

Whereas Spirit and Opportunity will have passed 5 years of successful operation on the surface of Mars on January 3, 2009, and January 24, 2009, respectively, far exceeding the original 90-Martian day mission requirement by a factor of 20, and are continuing their missions of surface exploration and scientific discovery: Now therefore be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) commends the engineers, scientists, and technicians of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and Cornell University for their successful execution and continued operation of the Mars Exploration Rovers, Spirit and Opportunity; and

(2) recognizes the success and significant scientific contributions of NASA's Mars Exploration Rovers.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DAVIS) and the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROWN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Tennessee.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and to include extraneous material on H. Res. 67, the resolution now under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Tennessee?

There was no objection.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

A little over 5 years ago, the NASA rovers named Spirit and Opportunity landed on the surface of Mars. These rovers originally had a 90-day mission to survey the surface of the red planet and send back scientific information.

By all measures, both rovers were incredibly successful during their original 90-day missions. Both rovers were able to maneuver around the surface of Mars, and they sent back scores of captivating images. The information they sent back has helped us to better understand the past and present geology of our planetary neighbor, and provided indication that water once flowed on the surface of Mars.

The little rovers proved to be so robust that their original 90-day mission was extended, and extended, and extended again. Ultimately, the mission was extended six times. That is a tribute to our scientific knowledge in this country. Both rovers continue to function and are roving the surface of Mars as I speak.

Without a doubt, these rovers have been wildly successful. Besides being impressive fetes of science and engineering, they have inspired countless children of our country with their amazing images of the red planet. This truly represents the best of what our national space program is about, and provides a reminder of why we should continue to support the work of NASA.

I want to thank the sponsor of this resolution, Mr. DREIER, for introducing House Resolution 67, and I encourage my colleagues to support its passage.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of House Resolution 67. This resolution recognizes and commends NASA, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and Cornell University for the success of the Mars exploration rovers, Spirit and Opportunity.

□ 1145

By almost any measure, the Mars exploration rovers have been an extraordinary success. These rovers, named

Spirit and Opportunity, were originally intended to perform a 90-day mission on the hostile surface of Mars. Spirit was the first rover to land on the Mars surface on January 3, 2004. Spirit was joined on the Martian surface by Opportunity 3 weeks later on January 24, 2004. From the very early phases of the mission, these rovers have exceeded even the wildest expectations of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory team that designed and built them.

Originally intended to perform a 90-day mission to search for evidence of water and other conditions that could have supported life on the harsh surface of the red planet, they have now exceeded that goal by over 1,800 days. Along the way they rewrote our knowledge of the Martian environment by discovering and verifying geological evidence of ancient Martian environments where hospitable conditions may have existed.

While on Mars, these rovers have explored over 21 kilometers of Martian terrain, survived dust storms, mechanical difficulties, and endured three cold, dark Martian winters. The advanced scientific instruments deployed in conjunction with Cornell University have relayed over a quarter million images, including evidence of explosive volcanoes and subsurface water.

At a time when Americans could use some good news, it is fortunate that we can recognize and commend the men and women of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and Cornell University for their outstanding success in designing, developing, launching and operating the Mars Exploration Rovers.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I yield as much time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. SCHIFF).

Mr. SCHIFF. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

Mr. Speaker, colleagues, 5 years ago in January, 2004, I had the privilege of being in the control room at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory when Spirit, the first of two identical Mars rovers, landed in Gusev Crater. It was an amazing experience to watch the dozens of engineers, controllers and scientists who had worked so hard and for so long on the rover project to see its initial success. I'm proud to have many of them as my constituents, and I'm honored to share JPL with my colleague, DAVID DREIER, and have joined him in this resolution honoring 5 years of surface operations by Spirit and its twin, Opportunity.

Spirit and Opportunity landed on Mars to begin what was planned as a 3-month mission to evaluate whether conditions would have at one time been suitable for life on the red planet. Under the leadership of Dr. Charles Elachi and Principal Investigator Steve Squyres of Cornell University, JPL employees worked around the clock to make the most of what was planned as a limited duration mission.

Equipped with cameras, spectrometers and grinders, America's robotic explorers have now been hard at work for more than 5 years and are still going strong. The rovers' incredible durability is a testament to the quality of their design, the care with which their operations are managed and a scientific bonanza for scientists here and around the world.

The rovers' discovery of evidence of past water on Mars was 2004's top scientific "Breakthrough of the Year" according to the journal Science. The rovers have also uncovered evidence of Mars' violent volcanic past and have transmitted more than 36 gigabytes of data back to Earth.

Despite a gimpy wheel, Spirit has spent most of the past year exploring an area dubbed Home Plate, which is rich in silica, another telltale sign of water. Opportunity has had shoulder troubles, but has covered a lot of ground in the last 5 years. The rover spent almost 2 years exploring Victoria Crater and has now begun a long drive to its next major destination, a much larger crater called Endeavour. At more than 14 miles in diameter, Endeavour is more than 20 times larger than Victoria.

People around the world have been captivated by the stunning photographs of the Martian surface and the planet's ruddy sky. In the first 2 months after Spirit and Opportunity landed on Mars, JPL's rover Web site registered almost 9 billion hits. Since then we have watched the seasons change on Mars and have marveled at the changing terrain as the rovers have moved about the surface.

NASA's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, managed by the California Institute of Technology, designed, built and controls the rovers. JPL has been the pioneer of our exploration of the solar system from the beginning of our space program and is one of the crown jewels of American science. Explorer I, America's first satellite, was a JPL project. At the time it was launched, the United States had fallen behind the Soviets in the space race, and several other attempts of getting an "American Sputnik" into orbit had ended in fiery explosions on the launch pad. Not only did Explorer I salvage our pride, but the tiny satellite discovered the Van Allen radiation belts that circle the Earth.

Since then, JPL probes have explored most of our solar system—from the Ranger series that paved the way for the Apollo moon landings, to Voyager's grand tour of the outer planets in the 1970s and 1980s, to last spring's landing on Mars by the Mars Phoenix—and have also surveyed the cosmos as well as our own planet.

In 2 years NASA will launch an even larger rover, the Mars Science Laboratory, which will build on the work being done today by Spirit and Opportunity. With a little luck, the rovers will still be working—still expanding our understanding of Mars and, more importantly, of ourselves.

I urge all my colleagues to support the resolution.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I would like to yield to my good friend whom I respect tremendously, Mr. DREIER from California, as much time as he may consume.

(Mr. DREIER asked and was given permission to revise and extend his remarks.)

Mr. DREIER. Mr. Speaker, let me say how much I appreciate the hard work and the very thoughtful remarks by my very good friend. Mr. BROWN, Mr. DAVIS and Mr. SCHIFF have all outlined some of the very great challenges that have been faced with this amazing Spirit and Opportunity program.

I, like my friend, Mr. SCHIFF, was 5 years ago there when this program began. And I will never forget when Dr. Charles Elachi, the director of the Jet Propulsion Laboratory about whom Mr. SCHIFF was just speaking, leaned to me and said, "David, you know, I know this is scheduled to have a life span of 90 days, 3 months." He said, "I suspect that it might just go a little longer than that." And here we are today marking the fifth anniversary of Spirit and Opportunity, named by two young students who came together. They had a contest to name them. And these very bright and thoughtful kids came forward and said they wanted to name them Spirit and Opportunity. And they have gone through an amazing 5 years, as Mr. BROWN said so well, wind storms and all kinds of cold and great adversity, and yet they are still chugging along providing very important information back to us. Mr. SCHIFF talked about the days ahead, and now Opportunity is headed to that new massive crater Endeavour. And so we are going to continue to get more and more interesting information. These three gentlemen, Mr. Speaker, have just talked about what Spirit and Opportunity have gone through.

I would like to take a moment to look at the context around which this whole issue is being considered, and that is the devastating economic times that we are facing right here in the United States of America. Obviously, first and foremost on our minds is getting our economy back on track, ensuring that people who are suffering greatly with foreclosures and job losses, and even worse in some instances, are able to have those needs addressed. And many of us have been working to try and put into place a strong, bold, dynamic and robust economic growth program that, interestingly enough, is modeled after the program that was put into place by the man who called for us to put a man on the Moon by the end of the decade in the 1960s. That, of course, was John F. Kennedy. And we are continuing to try and work for those kinds of growth policies.

Now the reason I say that, Mr. Speaker, is that there are so many who would argue that, as we look at sort of the amorphous space program out there, why in the world are we investing resources on that when we have so many pressing challenges right here at home? And there are a couple of points that I think need to be made. First, when we were celebrating the landing of another great JPL program, the Phoenix, one of the great scientists got up and talked about the fact that throughout world history, every single developed nation has, in fact, regardless of what challenges they faced, always looked at the imponderable. They have always made risk to pursue the unknown. And I'm reminded, of course, that it was the great Queen Isabella who sold her jewels so that Christopher Columbus might have the opportunity to discover America. And so risk-taking is something even during adverse times we need to continue to pursue. And we can't ignore that, because we are the United States of America, the greatest nation the world has ever known. And that is why this is very important.

Second, we need to also realize, Mr. Speaker, that there are very important gains that we as a society and as a world are able to glean from this very important work, whether it is in medical imaging, and I know Dr. BROUN understands that, whether it is in dealing with environmental protection, whether it is dealing with cellular technology or global positioning systems, there are a wide range of things that have emanated from programs like Spirit and Opportunity that have dramatically improved the standard of living and quality of life of people here in the United States and around the world.

And so it is in that context that I join in celebrating the work of our friends in the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and CalTech and all involved in this very important NASA research and effort that is going on. I thank both my friends for their hard work in their committee and for coming forward and allowing Mr. SCHIFF and me to consider this resolution.

Mr. Speaker, I am proud to rise in support of this resolution which I authored with my California colleague, Mr. SCHIFF, to recognize the five-year anniversary of the landing of the Mars Exploration Rovers, Spirit and Opportunity. I also commend the individuals that contributed to the success of the missions. In particular, the great minds at the La Canada Flintridge-based Jet Propulsion Laboratory (JPL), who designed and built the rovers, and whom I have the distinct honor to represent. JPL is managed by the California Institute of Technology (Caltech), and very ably led by JPL's outstanding director, Dr. Charles Elachi.

Mr. Speaker, as you may recall, during the summer of 2003, NASA launched its Mars Exploration Rovers from Cape Canaveral Air Force Station in Florida. The rovers were an exciting addition to NASA's Mars Exploration Program, and their mission was to explore the surface of Mars for three months in search of clues to give scientists a peek into the planet's past. Specifically, the rovers were to determine whether Mars had ever contained environments with quantities of water sufficient to support life.

After traveling more than a quarter million miles, Spirit and Opportunity successfully landed on Mars's surface on January 3, 2004 and January 24, 2004, respectively. Within their primary three-month mission time frame, the rovers successfully uncovered geological evidence indicating that a body of water once flowed through certain regions, and that early Mars was characterized by impacts from meteors, explosive volcanoes and subsurface water.

In an amazing display of endurance, Spirit and Opportunity managed to maintain their operational status far beyond the three months that were expected, and continue to operate to this day, five years later. The rovers explored more than 21 kilometers of Mars's terrain, climbed hills, descended deep into large craters, survived dust storms and endured three brutal Martian winters. Their amazing missions continue to yield valuable information about the history of Mars and are symbolic of America's pioneering spirit.

Mr. Speaker, while oftentimes the parts that are developed for our space missions are sent off never to be seen again, it is important to realize that the technology stays here at home where it continues to make important contributions to our lives. For example, NASA-sponsored work at facilities like JPL has resulted in the development of critical technologies that have been commercially applied in fields as far ranging as medical imaging, transportation, cellular telecommunications, supercomputing and environmental protection. In addition, these projects inspire our youth to pursue education in the STEM fields—science, technology, engineering and mathematics. And they provide well-paid, highly technical jobs for innovators and entrepreneurs throughout our country. In fact, the success of the Mars rovers is due to the contributions of many, including workers from all across the country—from Composite Optics in San Diego, California to BAE Systems in Manassas, Virginia.

The footprints of NASA's many successes have been made as far away as our moon, the planet Mars and beyond. But its most important impact is here at home. The work being done at JPL and other facilities is spurring the innovations that create jobs and make our lives better. And it is inspiring new generations of innovators who will pursue the careers that will continue to keep the United States at the forefront of technological advancement.

Mr. Speaker, I commend the men and women whose tireless work has made the Mars rovers' expeditions such a tremendous success, and I urge my colleagues to vote in support of this resolution.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. I yield myself as much time as I may consume.

As heard earlier on this floor, we talked about other nations throughout the world who seem to be achieving higher academic standards than we are here in this country in the classroom. But as we start observing many of these countries, none of those are putting in play and putting into reality the science that we are doing in this country.

The rovers, Spirit and Opportunity, that landed on Mars were an American project, not one of the other nations that we talked about. So as we discuss from time to time areas where we must recognize we may have failures, but our educational system is also providing, and has provided, bright young minds with the challenges that has brought forward the research, the development, the space exploration that is going on today in this country.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank my colleague from Tennessee and my colleague from California. We are, as Republicans and Democrats, coming and talking about something that is extremely important, and that is science exploration of Mars and what Spirit and Opportunity have done there. We talked on the previous bill about math and science and how important it is that we go forward with these types of projects. And it absolutely is critical for the future of our Nation that we do so.

The other things that are critical for our Nation that we need to explore is how to stimulate our economy. And the best way to stimulate our economy is by stimulating small business. Small business is hurting today. It is hurting terribly. The American middle class and the workers of America are hurting terribly.

We have proposals brought forth to this floor in bill after bill that markedly increase the size of the Federal Government. This is what I call the steamroll of socialism being shoved down the throats of the American people.

We have to find solutions to this economic problem we have in America. And building a bigger government, building a more socialistic government, is not going to create jobs. It is not going to bring about the things that we need to get us out of this economic downturn.

I hope that as we work together on this bill, and as we did with the previous bill, that we can work together, Democrats and Republicans alike, can come and find some commonsense economic solutions for America, commonsense solutions that will stimulate the real economic engine of America, and that is small business.

Small businesses create most of the jobs in America today. We have proposals that are going to take away jobs from small business because it is going to put a heavier regulatory burden on that small business. It is going to put a heavier tax burden on small businesses. We have seen proposals in the budget that will increase taxes on what is described as the wealthiest in America.

But most of those tax increases will affect small businesses, and it is going to rob jobs, rob jobs that are critical for the economic well-being of America.

Small business is the economic engine that pulls along the train of economic prosperity in America, and we need to stoke the fires of that train so it has the ability to create jobs, to bring us out of this economic downturn.

What I see over and over again are policies that are being suggested that are going to rob small business of those critical assets that they need. They are going to rob the American people of the jobs that we need.

Government does not make one single nickel, not one single penny. All it does is it takes away from the private sector. We have policies that are taking away from the private sector and increasing a bigger and bigger government to tell us how to live our lives. It is robbing the private sector of necessary funds that are absolutely critical to get us out of this economic downturn.

We cannot continue down this road toward a socialistic society with socialized medicine that is going to destroy the quality of health care. It is going to be extremely costly. It has been said very often around here that if you think health care is expensive today, wait until it is free. It is going to destroy the innovation that is absolutely critical.

So as we commend NASA, the Jet Propulsion Laboratory and Cornell University on this outstanding scientific accomplishment that they brought forward with Spirit and Opportunity, we need to look beyond that and we need to look in a bipartisan way. We have got to stop what I think is an idiocy of destroying small business and creating a bigger socialistic government.

We have seen bill after bill that spend too much, tax too much, borrow too much. Our children and grandchildren are going to live at a standard that is much less than we have today if we don't just stop this, and I am struggling for a word here, but one where we are bringing forth policies that are absolutely adverse to what this country was founded upon. We stand at a crossroads, and it is a crossroads that will lead one direction towards socialism and total government control, and another direction which leads toward freedom, entrepreneurship, innovation and economic security.

So I call upon my colleagues on the Democratic side, let's work together. Let's work together to find policies that make sense. Let's work together to find commonsense market-based solutions that will stimulate small business, that won't hurt our children and grandchildren like bill after bill that is being proposed and a budget that is being proposed. We have to stop this direction, this steamroll of socialism that is being driven by NANCY PELOSI and HARRY REID. It is a steamroller of socialism that is being shoved down the throats of the American people, and it is going to strangle the American economy. It is going to kill the American public economically.

So as we applaud these scientific endeavors, I call upon my Democratic colleagues to work with us in a bipartisan way so we can find economic solutions that are so drastically needed, so that we can find the solutions that America needs.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. DAVIS of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, I have observed over the last 8 years probably the largest increase in spending in the history of this country except perhaps the 8 years of Lyndon Johnson. And all that spending was directed toward some of the same exact spending that is occurring today under this new administration and under this new majority in Congress.

Yet I hear described under the old administration good government, with the exact same expenditures, becoming socialism. I suggest that we all become bipartisan and start reading from the same dictionary.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (during the vote). There are 2 minutes remaining in this vote.

□ 1252

So (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the concurrent resolution was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

YEAR OF THE MILITARY FAMILY

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 64) urging the President to designate 2009 as the “Year of the Military Family”.

The Clerk read the title of the concurrent resolution.

The text of the concurrent resolution is as follows:

H. CON. RES. 64

Whereas there are more than 1.8 million family members of regular component members of the Armed Forces and an additional 1.1 million family members of reserve component members;

Whereas slightly more than half of all members of the regular and reserve components are married, and just over 40 percent of military spouses are 30 years or younger and 60 percent of military spouses are under 36 years of age;

Whereas there are nearly 1.2 million children between the ages of birth and 23 years who are dependents of regular component members, and there are over 713,000 children between such ages who are dependents of reserve component members;

Whereas the largest group of minor children of regular component members consist of children between the ages of birth and 5 years, while the largest group of minor children of reserve component members consist of children between the ages of 6 and 14 years;

Whereas the needs, resources, and challenges confronting a military family, particularly when a member of the family has been deployed, vastly differ between younger age children and children who are older;

Whereas the United States recognizes that military families are also serving their country, and the United States must ensure that all the needs of military dependent children are being met, for children of members of both the regular and reserve components;

Whereas military families often face unique challenges and difficulties that are inherent to military life, including long separations from loved ones, the repetitive demands of frequent deployments, and frequent uprooting of community ties resulting from moves to bases across the country and overseas;

Whereas thousands of military family members have taken on volunteer responsibilities to assist units and members of the Armed Forces who have been deployed by supporting family readiness groups, helping military spouses meet the demands of a single parent during a deployment, or providing a shoulder to cry on or the comfort of understanding;

Whereas military families provide members of the Armed Forces with the strength and emotional support that is needed from the home front for members preparing to deploy, who are deployed, or who are returning from deployment;

Whereas some military families have given the ultimate sacrifice in the loss of a principal family member in defense of the United States; and

Whereas 2009 would be an appropriate year to designate as the “Year of the Military Family”: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved by the House of Representatives (the Senate concurring), That Congress—

(1) expresses its deepest appreciation to the families of members of the Armed Forces who serve, or have served, in defense of the United States;

(2) recognizes the contributions that military families make, and encourages the people of the United States to share their appreciation for the sacrifices military families give on behalf of the United States; and

(3) urges the President—

(A) to designate a “Year of the Military Family”; and

(B) to encourage the people of the United States and the Department of Defense to observe the “Year of Military Family” with appropriate ceremonies and activities.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) and the gentleman from Colorado (Mr. LAMBORN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from Missouri.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members have 5 legislative days within which to revise and extend their remarks.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Missouri?

There was no objection.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of House Concurrent Resolution 64, which I introduced, along with my ranking member, JOHN MCHUGH, and the majority of my colleagues on the Armed Services Committee.

House Concurrent Resolution 64 calls for the President to designate 2009 as the “Year of the Military Family.”

For over 7 years, our Nation has been in sustained conflict. Our servicemembers are facing multiple deployments, but they are not the only ones who are shouldering the burden of the war. Nearly 2 million of our military families have also shared in that burden.

While I am proud of Americans across this great Nation who have volunteered or contributed funds and supplies to support our deployed and injured troops, those who have been on the forefront of those efforts are the military families. Over the last several years, military families have faced months of separation, some as long as 18 to 20 months. With over 1 million children between the ages of birth and 23 years of age who have parents in uniform, there have been many missed birthdays, graduations, holidays, and a child's first words and other major life accomplishments that are all too common as troops continue to experience back-to-back deployments.

Military families endure such hardship and sacrifices so their servicemember can proudly continue to serve the Nation. Military families often provide moral support, as well as comfort, to each other, especially during these difficult times. However, many families, especially those in the Reserves and Guard, do not have that luxury. Often these families must face these hardships alone, far from support programs and far from facilities that are located on military bases.

The President and Mrs. Obama have stated that military families will be a top priority for this administration. I applaud the President and Mrs. Obama for their commitment to their military families.

Mr. Speaker, I urge the President to continue this commitment and recognize the sacrifices of military family members who have given support to their servicemember and this nation, and declare this to be the "Year of the Military Family."

I urge my colleagues to join me in support of this important resolution.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. LAMBORN. Mr. Speaker, I rise also in support of House Concurrent Resolution 64, which urges the President to designate 2009 as the "Year of the Military Family," and I thank the chairman of the Armed Services Committee, Representative SKELTON, for offering it.

Mr. Speaker, I am honored to pay tribute today to the force behind the force—the military family. It has long been known that the military services recruit individuals but retain families. This has never been more true nor more critical than it is today. The support our troops receive from their loving families—mothers, fathers, sisters, brothers, spouses and children—is intangible, and it is nothing less than a powerful force multiplier.

Dedicating a year to honor the service and sacrifice of our military families is the least we can do to say thank you and to call attention to this sometimes forgotten resource. Today, Mr. Speaker, millions of Americans have one or more family members serving in the Armed Forces. These incredible families attempt to lead normal lives while their loved ones stand in harm's way, fulfilling our Nation's oath to serve and protect.

But they do not just wait. They also serve. Military spouses spend countless hours volunteering in family readiness programs and wounded warrior networks, all while managing to be two parents at once. Military children, numbering almost 2 million in our country, attempt to be like other children while trying their hardest not to let sadness and worry overcome them.

Mr. Speaker, the strength of the military family is astonishing. As we celebrate military families, let us not forget the sacrifice of parents. Military parents give their sons and daughters to the Nation and pray ceaselessly for their safe return. They look forward to every letter and every phone call, while fearing the ringing of the phone and the doorbell at the same time.

Military children, Mr. Speaker, are a very different breed of young adult. They do not always have hometowns, but they do have a heightened sense of family, both in the traditional sense and in the special characteristics of the military community. Their home is where the military chooses to send them, and their family becomes all who surround them.

They do not hesitate to support their family when their father or mother walks out the door for 6 months, 8 months, or even more often now, a year. In most cases they are Mom or Dad's biggest fans. Many times the oldest child takes over as second in charge while serving as a rock for the youngest.

Even at a young age, military children know what the words "ultimate sacrifice" means, and these words are in the back of their minds every day that goes by. Military families have an uncanny resilience. They are some of the strongest citizens in this country, and I am privileged to recognize them not only today, but every day.

I have many such dedicated families in my strongly military district, the Fifth District of Colorado.

□ 1300

I urge my colleagues to support this very important resolution because without the support of our military families, our Armed Forces would not be the incredible power that they are today.

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTON. I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. BECERRA).

Mr. BECERRA. I thank the chairman for yielding and, more importantly, I thank him for this resolution, which tries to not only recognize the men and women who are in uniform, but certainly the men and women and children and parents of our soldiers in uniform who day to day have to go through the same experiences that our troops abroad and in our military stations throughout must go through as well.

There are some 3 million Americans today who represent the family members of our brave soldiers. I am pleased to say that I count myself among those family members. And I believe it is something that not only should be done in 2009 to urge the President to designate this year as the Year of the Military Family but, quite honestly, this is something we should do every year.

I think it is of the utmost importance. And we applaud the First Lady of the United States, Michelle Obama, for the role that she has decided to play in elevating the stature of our families who are here or throughout the world and have a family member serving today on behalf of this country.

It is something that I think sometimes we take for granted. But this is an occasion today where, on the floor of the most democratic body in the history of this world, we can say to all those who serve in uniform, not just from our country, but throughout, that we do think about you, we do respect what you do and, more importantly, we realize that you have family that day to day must go through the same experiences you do.

So, Mr. Chairman, I think it is something we should do, as I said, all the time. I think every Member in this body would agree that we have to think about our servicemembers and their families every day. And it doesn't hurt to periodically do it in a more official way by actually having a resolution which urges the President to declare this year the Year of the Military Family.

With that, I thank you very much for not just your service, but your insight and your wisdom in trying to always make sure that we elevate our men and women in uniform and their families to the highest levels we can.

Mr. LAMBORN. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to a new member of the Armed Services Committee, but she's already starting to make a strong contribution, the gentlelady from Oklahoma (Ms. FALLIN).

Ms. FALLIN. I am here today to support this resolution also, and to support the naming of 2009 as the Year of the Military Family. For years now, we have been sending our sons and our daughters overseas to fight terror and also fight for our freedom. Our military men and women have sacrificed, missing birthdays, anniversaries, holidays, and endured many hardships, and we are honored on this floor in this Chamber to frequently pay tribute to those men and women.

Too often, however, we forget the families, the loved ones behind our military men and women—our mothers, our fathers, our children, our siblings, husbands and wives of our troops. Their sacrifice is also worthy of our greatest respect. These are the unsung heroes of the War on Terror, the loved ones who watch our troops go into battle, and are ready to greet them when they arrive back home.

We now have 1.8 million family members of active duty military personnel, and just over 1 million family members of reservists. Of every two soldiers who are deployed, one leaves behind a wife or a husband who will wait for months, and sometimes even years, before they see their spouse again.

Nearly 2 million children have fathers or mothers who are in the military, and these children, undoubtedly, feel great pride in having a mother or father serve their country, but they also feel a great burden of growing up with one parent who often is far from home and missing those important times.

Without the support and sacrifice of these brave men, women, and their children, our Armed Services could not function, so much so that it is just safe to say thank you to our military families for their service and for protecting our country and for making the tremendous sacrifices with their families.

So, Mr. Speaker, for all these reasons, I would like to join my colleagues in also congratulating the 2009 members of the military families, and to say that this is your year. 2009 is the Year of the Military Family. So let us join in and respect those families and honor them today in this Chamber.

Mr. SKELTON. I yield such time as he may consume to a cosponsor of this legislation, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. MORAN.)

Mr. MORAN of Virginia. I am honored to have a moment to speak on this resolution, and deeply grateful to Chairman SKELTON for introducing it and advancing it.

You know, they say that an army travels on its stomach. In other words, the physical well-being of an army has to be taken into consideration. They have to be well fed, they have to be cared for.

The way you win wars though, comes from the heart and mind of our soldiers, sailors, and airmen. And the way that you motivate them is to assure them that this country is providing for their families. That is what they care about more than anything else.

When they go to war, when they choose to serve this country in the Armed Services, their principal motivation, really, is their family. They are doing this to provide security to their children, to their parents, to their loved ones. And that is what this resolution is all about, recognizing the indispensable role that military families play.

We have lost more than 2,000 parents of young children in Iraq. But hundreds of thousands have known that when they say goodbye to their daddy or mommy, they may not see them again. And they have to live with that reality.

They comfort each other, families get to know each other, provide a support network. But it's absolutely essential that we, as a Nation, understand that we are putting these families on the front line. That they are prepared to pay the ultimate sacrifice, that they are fully prepared to do whatever it takes to ensure that we have soldiers, sailors, airmen and women who will go to war, will risk their lives, knowing that they have the support of their families at home.

Now, we have tried to put more money into the veterans' bill to improve health care, particularly the type of health care that we have found a particular compelling need for—permanent brain injury, post-traumatic stress disorder, mental illnesses—that have increased dramatically in the last few years, particularly with IEDs and the violence that they cause in Iraq and Afghanistan. But when they come home, if we don't adequately treat them, the price is paid by the family.

It's the family that has to deal with sometimes uncontrollable violent urges, where the veteran of combat finds it difficult to control themselves, to make that transition to the society in which they need to take on the role of husband, wife, or parent.

All of these challenges are even greater than they have ever been before. And that is why this Congress, this Nation, needs to take every opportunity to focus on the needs of these families who show real patriotism and real loyalty to the principles and ideals and values of this Nation, and are willing to sacrifice whatever it takes to uphold those principles, ideals, and values, even the risk of loss of a loved one.

So, with that, Mr. Chairman, again, I thank you for introducing, for promoting this resolution and, most importantly, I thank you for being conscious of what this resolution is all about every single day throughout the year in the legislation that the Armed Services Committee and your colleagues in the Congress pass. It has to be a priority.

So, I know this will pass unanimously, and I appreciate the fact that it's offered on the floor today.

Mr. LAMBORN. At this point, I yield 4 minutes to someone who's made a strong contribution to the military—until January, he served for many years on the Armed Services Committee—the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. GINGREY).

Mr. GINGREY of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding. I rise today in support of H. Con. Res. 64, urging the President to designate 2009 as the Year of the Military Family. It's going to be difficult to follow the gentleman from Virginia, Mr. MORAN, what he said out of compassion and love for the military families, but I will humbly try to do so.

Certainly, I would like to say a special thanks to Chairman SKELTON, Ranking Member JOHN McHUGH, as well as to the members and the staff of the House Armed Services Committee, for the tireless effort in support of our soldiers, sailors, airmen, and marines who are bravely defending us at home and abroad.

Mr. Speaker, today we rightfully take time to recognize the families of those brave men and women who have dedicated their lives to the service of our Nation. I stand here and I am thinking about so many families—moms and dads, brothers and sisters—of fallen soldiers in my State of Georgia, and of my district, the 11th Congressional in northwest Georgia. I am not trying to mention all of them, but they are definitely in my mind and in my heart.

For it is not just the members of the military who serve our country, but also their family members, who sacrifice so much in support of these heroes who, day in and day out, protect our freedom.

Mr. Speaker, the families of those who serve our country on the front lines deserve the admiration and appreciation of each and every citizen. These family members often watch their loved ones travel to faraway lands in support of a cause and an ideal so much greater than any one individual.

Indeed, the democracy on display here today with our presence in this Chamber is testament to the courage and valor of our Armed Forces. The support given to our servicemen and women by their loved ones is irreplaceable, as it's a foundation for the bravery inherent in those who labor steadfastly in the defense of liberty.

Any of us who have watched videos and movies about the Civil War and read some of those letters to home that the infantrymen would write, maybe right before a battle and they give their lives to their country, it is indeed moving.

So, let us now honor and say a gracious thank you to each and every military family, every member of those families, for the encouragement, love, and kindness they exhibit in supporting their precious loved ones as they serve a Nation that will forever be free because of their sacrifice. It is to the family members that we now say thank you.

Mr. Speaker, we are proud of all of our servicemen and women and are eternally grateful for their efforts in the Global War on Terror. Let us not forget the ones who have provided the closest circle of support for them wherever they may serve around the globe. I urge all my colleagues, of course, to support this.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN).

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the gentleman for yielding me time to join the others in making a particular statement on behalf of the sacrifice of military families.

We pay great attention, and should, to the sacrifices of our young servicemen and servicewomen who risk their lives in service of their country. We sometimes don't pay as much attention to people who make a tremendous sacrifice by virtue of seeing their loved ones, their spouses, their parents, their children in many cases, going off to military service, particularly in the context of recent times, dealing with the repeated deployments, the disruptions, the movement, the constant concern about the welfare of the loved one. And it is quite appropriate and long overdue that we actually designate this year, 2009, as the year of the military families. I strongly support this resolution.

Mr. LAMBORN. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for offering this resolution.

I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. SKELTON. Most of us Members of Congress have had the opportunity to witness military units as they are ready to deploy. We have also seen military units as they have returned, or individual members of our service returning, and watch their families greet them with happiness and with tears. It is difficult to put ourselves in their places, but the best we can do is to show our appreciation, and that our thoughts and our prayers are with them as well as their loved ones who are serving. Mr. Speaker, I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution.

Mrs. DAVIS of California. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of urging the President to designate 2009 as the "Year of the Military Family."

Our military's ability to perform its mission abroad is directly related to the strength of our families at home.

Without families willing to sign up for military life alongside their soldier, sailor, airman or marine, we would not have the tremendous all-volunteer force we have today.

Our military has been at war for nearly eight years against persistent and determined enemies thousands of miles away. And in many ways, so have our military families.

With loved ones deployed to theatres of combat, our families have lived with the enormous uncertainty brought by every ring of the phone and every knock on the door.

For far too many, that unexpected phone call or visitor announced the tragic loss of a spouse or parent.

For thousands more, injuries sustained in battle require a spouse or child to take on the responsibility of caretaker.

I am continually amazed at their resilience and ability to continue with their lives under such difficult circumstances.

Every family signed up knowing the requirements of duty.

However, regular assignments to theatres of war will challenge even the strongest families.

Like many of my colleagues, I hear the frustration and sense the pain that frequent, dangerous and unpredictable deployments are having on military communities.

We know that these deployments are often measured not by weeks or months, but by anniversaries, birthdays and important life moments.

Describing the length of her husband's deployment, one of my constituents told me how her husband "missed his older son's graduation from college, and his youngest son's graduation from High School." Her frustration was clear.

As Chairman SKELTON mentioned earlier, over a million children have not had a mom or dad or both home for life's important events.

We have tried to take steps to lessen the strain on our families, but high operational tempo and policies like stop-loss still have a significant impact.

As a Navy wife recently told me, "We are resigned to the necessity of deployment."

Mr. Speaker, our first commander in chief, President Washington, said, "The willingness with which our young people are likely to serve in any war, no matter how justified, shall be directly proportional to how they perceive veterans of early wars were treated and appreciated by our nation."

Today, President Washington's statement should probably read, "The willingness with which our 'families are likely to serve in any war, no matter how justified, shall be directly proportional to how they perceive families of early wars were treated and appreciated by our nation.'"

That is why the Military Personnel Subcommittee will hold a hearing later this year focusing on military families and topics that are unique to military life.

... But it will take more than a series of hearings to address the very real concerns felt by families and men and women in uniform.

Just as we must ensure that service members have the equipment they need in the field, so too must we guarantee that families have the support they need at home.

I urge President Obama to honor the commitment of those who "serve" behind our men and women in uniform and designate 2009 the Year of the Military Family.

I hope all my colleagues will support this resolution.

Mrs. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Con. Res. 64, "Urging the President to designate 2009 as the 'Year of the Military Family.'" I want to thank my colleague Congressman IKE SKELTON of Missouri for introducing this resolution.

No group of Americans has stood stronger and braver for our nation than those who have served in the Armed Forces. From the bitter cold winter at Valley Forge to the boiling hot Iraqi terrain, our soldiers have courageously answered when called upon, gone where ordered, and defended our nation with honor. Their noble service reminds us of our mission as a nation—to build a future worthy of their courage and your sacrifice. We celebrate, honor and remember these courageous and faithful men and women.

While the nation's attention has been wholly focused on the economic crisis, Americans continue to die in wars across the globe, from Iraq to Afghanistan and beyond. The war in Iraq no longer makes headlines, but for military families it remains a daily reality, and I urge my colleagues to recognize the challenges that the families of these brave soldiers face and support this resolution in their honor.

When American troops are the ones fighting abroad, it is our military families who must also suffer. They wait every day and night hoping to hear from their loved ones, praying that they are not put in harm's way, that they may come home soon. Too many families have not been so lucky, finding out the news of a loved one's death is not only emotionally traumatizing it can have long term effects for the family that may never be repaired.

We must all stand as champions for our men and women fighting abroad. These soldiers who bravely reported for duty, they are our sons and our daughters, they are our fathers and mothers, they are our husbands and wives, they are our fellow Americans.

There are over 26,550,000 veterans in the United States. In the 18th Congressional district of Texas alone there are more than 38,000 veterans and they make up almost ten percent of this district's civilian population over the age of 18.

We remember and honor the sacrifices of our forces and their families. And we renew our national promise to fulfill our sacred obligations to those who have worn this nation's uniform. Our veterans and their families ask for nothing more. Let us fight the good fight.

Mr. SKELTON. I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. SKELTON) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the concurrent resolution, H. Con. Res. 64.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. SKELTON. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

CALLING FOR RETURN OF SEAN GOLDMAN

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 125) calling on the central authority of Brazil to immediately discharge all its duties under the Hague Convention by facilitating and supporting Federal judicial proceedings as a matter of extreme urgency to obtain the return of Sean Goldman to his father, David Goldman, for immediate return to the United States, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 125

Whereas David Goldman has been trying unsuccessfully since June 17, 2004, to secure the return of his son Sean to the United States where Sean maintained his habitual residence until his mother, Bruna Bianchi Ribeiro Goldman, removed Sean to Brazil;

Whereas on August 26, 2004, the Superior Court of New Jersey awarded custody to Mr. Goldman, ordered Mrs. Goldman and her parents to immediately return Sean to the United States, and indicated to Mrs. Goldman and her parents that their continued behavior constituted parental kidnapping under United States law;

Whereas on September 3, 2004, Mr. Goldman filed an application for the immediate return of Sean to the United States under the 1980 Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction (the "Hague Convention") to which both the United States and Brazil are party and which entered into force between Brazil and the United States on December 1, 2003;

Whereas on August 22, 2008, Mrs. Goldman passed away in Brazil leaving Sean without a mother and separated from his biological father in the United States;

Whereas Mr. João Paulo Lins e Silva, whom Mrs. Goldman married in Brazil, has petitioned the Brazilian courts for custody rights over Sean Goldman and to replace Mr. Goldman's name with his own name on a new birth certificate to be issued to Sean, despite the fact that Mr. Goldman, not Mr. Lins e Silva, is Sean's biological father;

Whereas furthermore, the United States and Brazil have expressed their desire, through the Hague Convention, "to protect children internationally from the harmful effects of their wrongful removal or retention and to establish procedures to ensure their prompt return to the State of their habitual residence";

Whereas according to the Department of State, there are 51 cases involving 65 children who were habitual residents of the United States and who were removed to Brazil by a parent and have not been returned to the United States as required under the Hague Convention;

Whereas according to the Department of State's April 2008 Report on Compliance with the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction, "parental child abduction jeopardizes the child and has substantial long-term consequences for both the child and the left-behind parent";

Whereas the Department of State's Office of Children's Issues, while not always notified of international child abductions, is currently handling approximately 1,900 open cases of parental abduction to other countries involving more than 2,800 children abducted from the United States;

Whereas in fiscal year 2007, the United States Central Authority responded to cases involving 821 children abducted from the United States to countries with which the United States partners under the Hague Convention, but during that same time period only 217 children were returned from Hague Convention partner countries to the United States;

Whereas according to the Department of State, Honduras has not acted in compliance with the terms it agreed to as a party to the Hague Convention, and Brazil, Bulgaria, Chile, Ecuador, Germany, Greece, Mexico, Poland, and Venezuela have demonstrated patterns of noncompliance based on their Central Authority performance, judicial performance, or law enforcement performance of the obligations of the Hague Convention;

Whereas according to the Department of State, in fiscal year 2008, the United States Central Authority counted 306 cases of parental abductions involving 455 children taken from the United States to other countries that are not partners with the United States under the Hague Convention, currently including 101 children in Japan, 67 children in India, and 37 children in Russia;

Whereas three-year-old Melissa Braden is among the children who have been wrongfully abducted to Japan, a United States ally which does not recognize intra-familial child abduction as a crime, and though its family laws do not discriminate by nationality, Japanese courts give no recognition to the parental rights of the non-Japanese parent, fail to enforce United States court orders relating to child custody or visitation, and place no effective obligation on the Japanese parent to allow parental visits for their child;

Whereas Melissa was taken from Los Angeles, California to Japan on March 16, 2006, when she was 11-months-old, despite a California court's prior order forbidding Melissa's removal to Japan and granting joint custody to her father Patrick Braden;

Whereas despite his extensive efforts, Mr. Braden and his daughter have not seen each other since her abduction;

Whereas according to the Department of State, abducted children are at risk of serious emotional and psychological problems and have been found to experience anxiety, eating problems, nightmares, mood swings, sleep disturbances, aggressive behavior, resentment, guilt and fearfulness, and as adults may struggle with identity issues, their own personal relationships and parenting; and

Whereas left-behind parents may encounter substantial psychological, emotional, and financial problems and many may not have the financial resources to pursue civil or criminal remedies for the return of their children in foreign courts or political systems: Now, therefore, be it:

Resolved, That—

(1) the House of Representatives—

(A) calls on Brazil to, in accordance with its obligations under the Hague Convention and with extreme urgency, bring about the return of Sean Goldman to his father, David Goldman, in the United States;

(B) urges all countries determined by the Department of State to have issues of non-compliance with the Hague Convention to fulfill their obligation under international law to take all appropriate measures to secure within their respective territories the implementation of the Hague Convention and to use the most expeditious procedures available; and

(C) calls on all other nations to join the Hague Convention and to establish procedures to promptly and equitably address the tragedy of child abductions, given the increase of transnational marriages and births, the number of international child abduction cases and the serious consequences to children of not expeditiously resolving these cases; and

(2) it is the sense of the House of Representatives that the United States should—

(A) review its diplomatic procedures and the operations available to United States citizens through its central authority under the Hague Convention to ensure that effective assistance is provided to Mr. Goldman and other United States citizens in obtaining the expeditious return of their children from Brazil and other countries that have entered into the reciprocal obligations with the United States under the Hague Convention;

(B) take other appropriate measures to ensure that Hague Convention partners return abducted children to the United States in compliance with the Hague Convention's provisions;

(C) diplomatically urge other nations to become parties to the Hague Convention and establish systems to effectively discharge their reciprocal responsibilities under the Convention; and

(D) continue to work aggressively for the return of children abducted from the United States to other nations and for visitation rights for their left-behind parents when return is not yet achieved.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. I rise in support of the resolution, and yield myself such time as I may consume.

Mr. Speaker, the 1980 Hague Convention on the civil aspects of international child abduction is the principal international framework for tackling an increasingly difficult problem. The resolution before us urges all countries that the State Department determines are noncompliant with the Hague Convention to fulfill their obligations and faithfully implement the treaty. It also calls on other nations who have not yet joined the Hague Convention to do so.

The resolution highlights two emblematic cases and specifically calls for their prompt resolution. One is in a country that is a party to the Hague Convention, Brazil; the other in a country that is not, Japan. The facts of each case are equally heartbreaking.

David Goldman has been trying, since 2004, to get his son, Sean, back to the United States from Brazil. When Sean's mother took Sean to Brazil, the Superior Court of New Jersey awarded custody to Mr. Goldman, ordered Mrs. Goldman and her parents to immediately return Sean to the United States, and said that their continued behavior constituted parental kidnapping under United States law. Mrs. Goldman subsequently passed away in Brazil, leaving Sean without a mother and separated from his biological father in the United States. Mrs. Goldman's husband in Brazil petitioned for custody over Sean, and the issue has now been tied up in Brazilian courts for years.

The resolution also mentions a case with Japan, a United States ally which does not recognize intrafamilial child abduction as a crime.

Melissa Braden was taken from Los Angeles, California to Japan, in 2006, when she was just 11 months old, despite a 2006 restraining order that forbade Melissa's removal to Japan and an order granting joint custody to her father, Patrick Braden.

Despite his efforts, Mr. Braden and his daughter have not seen each other since her abduction. As in other cases, Japanese courts have not recognized his U.S. custody order and have not helped him gain visitation with his daughter.

While many American parents never see their children again when they are taken to Japan, I am hopeful that the Japanese government will take steps to respond to these cases by joining the Hague Convention. It is encouraging that the Japanese Ministry of Foreign Affairs is examining the Hague Convention, and I urge them to join as a party as soon as possible so that children like Melissa Braden can grow up knowing both of their parents.

The problem is, of course, much more widespread than these two cases. In 2008, the United States responded to cases involving 1,159 children abducted from the United States to countries with which the United States partners under the Hague Convention. In 2008, the United States saw 306 cases involving 455 children taken from the United States to other countries that are not Hague Convention partners.

I support this resolution because it shines a spotlight on a problem that needs immediate attention, a problem that will likely get worse in coming years in light of the growing number of transnational births and marriages. I urge my colleagues to support the resolution offered by the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT).

I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might consume.

Mr. Speaker, imagine that you are a child of only 4 years old, and your best friend, your father, is your primary caregiver. You live with your parents by a lake in a quiet neighborhood in New Jersey, and your days are filled with boating, swimming, sports, and other fun with your dad. Then suddenly, one day your mother takes you on a jet; you move to a foreign country; and for 4½ years you live with the confusion, pain, and anxiety of not understanding why your dad is not there with or for you. The little contact you have with Dad are a few phone calls, routinely interrupted when the phone is taken from you and abruptly ended while your father is trying to tell you how much he loves and misses you.

That is what happened to Sean Goldman, an American citizen born and living in the United States for the first four years of his life, until June 2004, when his mother took him to her native country of Brazil. Almost as soon as she arrived in Rio de Janeiro, she advised Sean's father, David Goldman, that she was permanently staying in Brazil, the marriage was over, and that she was not going to allow Sean to return home to New Jersey; and Sean has not seen his real home since.

Stunned, shell-shocked, and utterly heartbroken, David Goldman has refused to quit or fade away. His love for his son is too strong. He has been working tirelessly every day during the last 4½ years, using every legal means available to bring Sean home.

On paper, the laws are with him. Child abduction and the retention of a kidnapped child are serious crimes. The courts of New Jersey, the place of Sean's habitual residence, granted David full custody, as Chairman BERMAN pointed out a moment ago, as far back as August 2004. On the international front, David has had every reason to believe that justice would be swift and sure because, unlike some countries, Brazil is a party to an international convention and in a bilateral partnership with the United States, which obligates Brazil to return children, even those abducted by a parent, to the place of habitual residence, in this case New Jersey.

To David Goldman's shock and dismay, however, that has not happened.

Even after Sean's mother died unexpectedly in August of 2008, the people unlawfully holding Sean in Brazil, especially a man who is not Sean's father, have refused to allow Sean's return home to New Jersey or, until last month, even to see his father.

Last month, I traveled to Brazil with David Goldman on what was his eighth trip to try to see his son and advance the legal and diplomatic process of returning Sean home to the United States. This trip was different, however, and we sincerely hope a turning point.

First and foremost, he got to visit with his son, and we met with several key Brazilian officials in President Lula's government, including Ambassador Oto Agripino Maia at the Ministry of External Affairs and others, in the judicial system Minister Ellen Gracie Northfleet, the former chief justice and current member of the Supreme Court. We were encouraged by their apparent understanding of Brazil's solemn obligation as a signatory to the Hague Convention to return Sean to the United States.

In subsequent meetings here in the U.S. with Brazilian Ambassador Antonio Patrioto and the Brazilian Ambassador to the Organization of American States, Osmar Chofi, we were again assured that the Lula government believes that Sean Goldman should be in the United States and with his father. Still, deeds, not just encouraging words, are what matter most, and Sean remains unlawfully held in Brazil.

When in Brazil last month, I had the extraordinary privilege of joining David and Sean in their first meeting in 4½ years. Now almost 9, Sean Goldman was delighted to see his dad. The love between them was strong and was obvious from the very first moment. In the first moments of their meeting, I did see the pain on Sean as he asked his father why he hadn't visited him in 4½ years. David told him that he has traveled to Rio several times to try to be with him. But in order to mitigate Sean's pain because of the abduction, David blamed only the courts, not the abductors, for the separation, a sign of class and I think a sign of David's sensitivity.

This is a picture to my left here that I took while I was in Brazil, a picture of a dad with his son after shooting baskets and playing a game of "around the world." Sean, a remarkable young man who needs to work on his set shot, was completely at ease and eager to get reacquainted with his dad. I took this picture about 1 hour after their first reunion after 4½ years. The joy on both of their faces, as I think all can see, is compelling. There were hugs and there were kisses, and you can see that there was a great bond between this dad and his son.

Mr. Speaker, the kidnapping of Sean Goldman and his continued 4½ year unlawful retention in Rio must be resolved immediately and irrevocably. A father, who deeply loves his son, wants desperately to care for him and spend precious time with him and has had his nationally and internationally recognized parental rights, and his son has had his rights as well, violated with shocking impunity.

David Goldman should not be blocked from raising his own son. And a child who recently lost his mom belongs with his dad.

The Government of Brazil, Mr. Speaker, has failed to live up to its legal obligations under international law to return Sean to his biological father. The Government of Brazil has an obligation they must fulfill and without further delay. The resolution before us today expresses the House of Representatives' profound concern and calls on Brazil to, in accordance with its international obligations and with "extreme urgency" bring about the return of Sean Goldman with his dad, David Goldman, in the United States. Justice delayed, Mr. Speaker, is justice denied. And Sean's place is with his dad.

Mr. Speaker, on the bigger picture, international child abductions by parents are not rare. The U.S. Department of State reports that it is currently handling approximately 1,900 cases involving more than 2,800 children abducted from the United States to other countries. And those numbers do not include children whose parents, for whatever reason, do not report the abductions to the U.S. Department of State.

In recognition of the gravity of this problem and the traumatic consequences that child abductions can have both on the child and the parent who is left behind, the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction was reached in 1980. The purpose of the Hague Convention is to provide an expeditious method to return an abducted child to the child's habitual residence so that custody determinations can be made in that jurisdiction. According to the terms of the Convention, such return is to take place within 6 weeks—not over 4½ years—after proceedings under the Convention are commenced.

The United States, Mr. Speaker, ratified the Hague Convention in 1988. Brazil acceded to the Hague Convention in 1999 and the Hague Convention was entered into force between Brazil and the U.S. in 2003, a year before Sean was abducted. In accordance with the Hague Convention, David Goldman on September 3, 2004, filed, in a timely fashion, an application for the immediate return of his son. Brazil, sadly, has failed to deliver.

I would point out on a positive note that within a week of our return home to the United States, the Brazilian courts did take what we consider to be a major step in the right direction for David and Sean. The decision was to move the case from the local courts, which were erroneously bogged down in making a custody determination, to the Federal court capable and responsible for making decisions in accordance with obligations under the Hague Convention. Pursuant to an amended application filed under the Convention after the death of Sean's mother and in accordance with the "expeditious return" provisions of the Hague Convention, Brazil's only legitimate and legal option now, as it has been, is to effectuate Sean's return. And it must be done now.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, this weekend, Brazilian President Lula will visit the United States and visit one-on-one with President Obama. The White House meeting should include a serious discussion about Brazil's—and this is the State Department term—pattern of noncompliance with the Hague Convention and Brazil's obligation to immediately fulfill this obligation in the case of Sean Goldman and many other cases like it, including one that Mr. POE will bring up momentarily.

I'm happy to say that over 50 Members of the House, including my friend and colleague, Mr. HOLT, have cosponsored this resolution. Over 43,000 people from 154 nations have signed a petition urging Brazil to do the right thing and expeditiously return Sean to the United States. So many people, Mr. Speaker, have joined in and helped David in his fight for his son and deserve our appreciation and respect.

His extraordinarily talented legal counsel here in the United States, Patricia Apy, and in Brazil, Ricardo Zamariola, Jr., have made their case with expertise, precision, compassion and particular adherence to the rule of law. The staff at our consulates in Brazil—Consul General Marie C. Damour, Joanna Weinz and Karen Gufstafson—have all tirelessly and professionally worked this case for several years as if Sean and David were their own family. Special thanks to Ambassador Cliff Sobel. A number of journalists, including Bill Handleman of the Asbury Park Press, have written powerful columns about David's loss and his entire terrible ordeal. Meredith Vieira, Benita Noel and Lauren Sugrue of NBC's Dateline have probed, investigated and demanded answers, thus ensuring that the truth about this unlawful abduction is known to the public, including and especially to government officials both here and Brazil. In fact, it was a Dateline special on the Goldman case that caused me to call David and to get involved.

And finally, a special thanks to the countless volunteers, including Mark DeAngelis, who has done yeoman's work, including managing a Web site—Bring Sean Home—and have proved to be an invaluable support system during this most difficult and trying time for father and son.

I urge Members to support this resolution. Again I want to thank Chairman BERMAN for his leadership in bringing this resolution to the floor and to ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN, our distinguished ranking member. This resolution I believe will make a difference not just for David and Sean but for so many others who are similarly situated.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) in whose district Mr. Goldman resides.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished Chair of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, Mr. BERMAN, for bringing this resolution to the floor. The resolution calls on the Government of Brazil to live up to its obligations under the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction by releasing Sean Goldman to the custody of his father, David Goldman of Tinton Falls, New Jersey, my constituent. This bill shines a bright light on the problem of international parental kidnapping, and it is an issue that deserves congressional attention.

Let me recount some of the recent background on this issue and why this resolution is before the House today. It is heartrending, as you have heard from my colleague from New Jersey.

Nearly 5 years ago in June, 2004, Mr. David Goldman began a long and painful odyssey to rescue his son from an international parental kidnapping. He had driven his wife, Bruna, and their 4-year-old son, Sean, to the Newark airport for a scheduled trip to visit her parents in Brazil. Mr. Goldman was to join them a few days later. Shortly after arriving in Brazil, Mrs. Goldman called her husband to say two things: their marriage was over, and if he ever wanted to see Sean again, he would have to sign over custody of the boy to her. To his credit, Mr. Goldman refused to be blackmailed. Instead, he began a campaign, a relentless campaign, to secure his son's release.

There is no question that Mr. Goldman has the law both here in the United States and internationally on his side. It is sad and unfortunate that this father and this little boy must have their personal lives dragged through the public forum.

For any of us who have children or grandchildren, we can imagine but not fully comprehend the pain that Mr. Goldman and similar parents have gone through when a spouse kidnaps a child and whisks them away somewhere around the world. Tragically, Sean Goldman's case is just one of over 50 reported cases involving Brazil. Many countries, including key U.S. allies such as Japan, are not even signatories to this Hague Convention. For parents of children kidnapped by a spouse and taken to one of these non-Hague signatory nations, their battle to recover kidnapped children is even more difficult. The resolution before us highlights also the plight of these parents and their children. And it should be viewed as one step toward increasing the tools available to parents to help them recover children.

In October, 1980, the Hague Convention on the Civil Aspects of International Child Abduction entered into force. The United States and Brazil are both signatories. Under article 3 of the Convention, the removal of a child shall be considered wrongful if "it is in breach of rights of custody attributed to a person, an institution or any other body, either jointly or alone, under the law of the State in which the child was habitually resident immediately before the removal or retention; and at the time of removal or retention those rights were actually exercised, either jointly or alone, or would have been exercised." Well, Sean Goldman had been habitually resident in New Jersey until his mother kidnapped him and took him to Brazil.

Shortly after that, Mr. Goldman filed a Hague Convention application in Brazil's federal courts seeking the return of his son under the Convention.

Despite the clear legitimacy of Mr. Goldman's claim, the case has crawled along in Brazil's courts, bouncing back and forth and back and forth. Mr. Goldman's wife secured a divorce in Brazil and began a new relationship with a prominent lawyer. In August of last year, his former wife died during childbirth, a fact that Mr. Goldman learned only some time later and a fact that was concealed from the Brazilian courts by Mr. Lins e Silva, her then husband, and Mr. Goldman's late wife's parents.

After our individual intercession and with the help of the State Department and my colleague from New Jersey, and I particularly want to note his actions, Brazilian authorities moved to have the case once again sent to Brazil's federal courts to secure visitation rights for Mr. Goldman. Finally just last month, Mr. Goldman was able to see his son for the first time in more than 4 years. It is clear that Sean still loves his father and wants to be with him. It appears that the only thing standing in the way of that is the illegal conduct of Mr. Lins e Silva.

I applaud Secretary of State Clinton for raising this issue with Brazil's foreign minister and through other channels. If Sean is not released by the end of this week, I hope that President Obama will continue to bring the issue to the attention of Brazilian President Lula Da Silva and that Sean and his father will be united as they should be.

I thank the gentleman.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the distinguished gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE), a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Mr. POE of Texas. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

I appreciate the support of Chairman BERMAN and Mr. SMITH from New Jersey. Mr. SMITH has a reputation for going and helping out his district. During the Russian incursion into the Republic of Georgia, while that was still going on, Mr. SMITH went and rescued two young people and got them back to his district while the Russians were still invading. That tells all of us a lot about your willingness to advocate on behalf of human rights.

It is reported that there are nearly 50 cases in which children who are residents of the United States have been wrongfully abducted to Brazil and have not been returned to the United States as required under the Hague Convention. Mr. Goldman and other United States citizens, specifically Marty Pate of Crosby, Texas, in my district, are allowed under international law to obtain quick return of their children from Brazil and other countries that have entered into obligations with the United States under the Hague Convention.

It seems to me that Brazil approves of government-sanctioned kidnapping of American children and ignoring agreements with the United States. Mr. Pate's story is very similar to the one already presented here on the House floor, although this is a story about a father and a daughter. Thanks to Fox 26 News in Houston, Texas, they have brought this story to light. And it is the Marty Pate story.

It seems that in May, 2006, Marty Pate's ex-wife, Monica, told him that she wanted to temporarily go back to her home country of Brazil and take their 7-year-old daughter, Nicole, with her. Marty Pate objected, but he allowed her to take the daughter for a short visit. Both agreed under a Harris County, Texas, court order as to what travel stipulations there would be, and both signed a notarized document on what those travel restrictions would be. One of those was there would be a maximum of 21 days that the child would be allowed to leave the United States. On August 5, 2006, Monica and her daughter, Nicole, left the United States and never returned. That was the last time that Marty Pate saw his daughter. There is an outstanding arrest warrant for Monica on failure to follow a court order in the State of Texas.

Mr. Speaker, this ought not to be. It seems as though Brazil is ignoring agreements that they have made under international law with the United States and continues to do so. As a side note, the United States gives foreign assistance to Brazil. Maybe the Foreign Affairs Committee needs to re-evaluate whether we should give them assistance when they continue to kidnap or sanction kidnappings of American citizens. The United States should insist that countries like Brazil live up to their legal obligations to return to America, America's children.

And that's just the way it is.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank Mr. POE for his leadership on behalf of the child who has been abducted and congratulate him on his work.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, at this point I will reserve. We have one speaker remaining.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES).

□ 1345

Mr. JONES. Mr. Speaker, I want to thank Chairman BERMAN, CHRIS SMITH, Mr. HOLT and everyone else. I saw this story about this family probably a year ago, and it broke my heart, quite frankly.

I do not understand how a country such as Brazil, which I have respect for, could allow this to happen. This is not what the world should be about. The world should be about trying to bring families together, and Brazil has a responsibility that they are not making and they are not keeping.

I would say to the country of Brazil that if this was reversed, I believe that this House, the leadership of Mr. BERMAN and Mr. SMITH, would be on this floor saying to the family here that was keeping the son of a father in Brazil, Let's send him back to his father.

So I hope that the country of Brazil and those who are here in Washington, D.C. representing their country or listening to this debate, I hope that they will fully understand that this is a debate of compassion. Mr. Goldman and his son Sean, they have every right to be together. So I came down here to the floor today from North Carolina with not a great deal to add to this debate but my heart. And my heart says let's get this family together. I thank very much Mr. BERMAN and Mr. SMITH, and say to the Brazilian government, please listen to the American people. Let's work together for the good of this family.

Mr. BERMAN. Would the gentleman yield?

Mr. JONES. I would be delighted to yield.

Mr. BERMAN. I thank the gentleman for yielding. Your interesting point that if the situation was reversed, we saw that situation. It was a very famous case: Elian Gonzalez. Even though he was being sent back to a country with which we have no diplomatic relations, and even though the nature of that government was one that we did not support, the rights of the father to be reunited with his son prevailed over all of the political considerations. So we saw the tables reversed, and we saw what the U.S. Government did in that situation. I concur with the gentleman's point on this issue.

Mr. JONES. I thank Chairman BERMAN, and before I yield back, I ask God to please intervene on behalf of this wonderful family and bring the father and the son back together.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield such time as he may consume to the gentleman from California (Mr. BECERRA).

Mr. BECERRA. Mr. Speaker, I thank the chairman for yielding me this time, and I rise in support of this resolution.

My mother once said to me shortly after I had seen the birth of my first child, "Son, there is no tragedy for any parent that is greater than the experience of witnessing your own child's death." Nothing is more precious than life, and nothing is more profound than the love of a parent for the life of that child brought to this Earth.

Mr. Speaker, according to the State Department's Office of Children's Issues, there are 306 pending cases of parental abductions involving 455 American children taken to countries that are not a party to the Hague Convention on Child Abduction. And 101 of these abducted American children currently reside in Japan. In 2006 in the midst of a custody dispute, Melissa Braden, the daughter of one of my constituents, Patrick Braden, was taken to Japan by her mother and has been there ever since. Despite a court restraining order for Melissa to remain in the United States and an arrest warrant issued by the FBI for her mother, Japanese authorities have refused to act on this case. Japanese courts give no recognition to the parental rights of the non-Japanese parent, and the Japanese government refuses to enforce U.S. court orders related to child custody or visitation.

After his daughter's abduction when Mr. Braden approached me for help and I tried to see what I could do, you can imagine my disbelief and dismay that we were unable to help secure Melissa for Mr. Braden or to even have them reunited in Japan. I approached the State Department, and I wrote to President Bush in 2007 and asked for their intervention on behalf of Mr. Braden.

The State Department has committed to raising this issue at the highest levels of dialogue with Japan, and I wish to say here publicly, thank you to Chairman BERMAN for his support of this issue and for supporting America's parents and their families.

I would like to thank two champions of human rights, the gentlemen from New Jersey, Mr. SMITH and Mr. HOLT. And I must say, Mr. Speaker, my mother was right: there is nothing worse than losing your own child, especially when your child is still alive.

I urge all of my colleagues to support this resolution to get action on behalf of all of our American families with countries that are some of our greatest partners and allies.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself the balance of my time to say very simply that our message to the Brazilian government is to bring Sean home, and to do so today.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I just want to point out that in calendar year 2007, along the lines of the point made by the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. JONES), the United States returned over 200 children to Hague Convention partners where a biological parent resided and sought the return of that child. So this resolution is consistent with our own practices, and I think with internationally recognized fundamental human rights. I urge its adoption.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 125, as amended.

The question was taken.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. In the opinion of the Chair, two-thirds being in the affirmative, the ayes have it.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to clause 8 of rule XX and the Chair's prior announcement, further proceedings on this motion will be postponed.

SUPPORTING THE GOALS OF INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 194) supporting the goals of International Women's Day, as amended.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 194

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I first want to thank Representative JAN SCHAKOWSKY and the other cosponsors of this resolution for honoring the contributions and achievements of women around the world, and the importance of promoting and protecting their rights.

Today, women all over the world are becoming leaders in science, medicine, arts, politics, and even the military. Despite this progress, it is a sad fact that women and girls continue to constitute the vast majority of the world's poor, chronically hungry, refugees, HIV-infected, uneducated, unemployed and disenfranchised. All too often, women are subject to physical violence and discrimination as a result of their gender. Women are also the targets of cruel cultural practices, including genital mutilation, forced and early marriages, humiliating and harmful widow practices, bride burnings and honor killings.

On average, women continue to receive less pay for work of equal value, and many continue to face discrimination in hiring and admission to educational institutions. It is not enough to simply declare the equality of women and condemn their mistreatment. We must, in all sectors of society, address the structural factors that prevent women and girls from enjoying the same rights and opportunities as boys and men.

We must also eliminate the criminal and cultural practices that destroy the lives and freedom and health of women. Statistics demonstrate that when women's quality of life improves, their children are happier, healthier and better educated. Entire communities and countries benefit from these improvements. Successful, educated and respected women also become powerful role models for future generations.

In honor of our family members, our female colleagues and our Speaker, not to mention women across the country and around the world, I am proud to support this resolution and urge all my colleagues to do the same.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

H. Res. 194, supporting the goals of International Women's Day, provides us with an opportunity to celebrate the important contributions to all levels of society and social advancement of women around the globe.

I would like to focus my comments on three areas referenced in the resolution on which so much more needs to be done to ensure women and girls worldwide achieve their full potential. One is with respect to the horrible phenomenon, the criminality, of human trafficking. The resolution cites reported estimates that between one and two million women are trafficked for sexual exploitation, forced labor, and domestic servitude each year. Some NGO estimates are far higher than that number. Women are robbed of their dignity, fundamental human rights, and forced into bondage and sexual servitude. They are modern-day slaves.

In 2000, I was the prime sponsor of the Trafficking Victims Protection Act of 2000 which, together with its reauthorizations, including Chairman BERMAN's legislation reauthorizing the law last year named after the great British parliamentarian William Wilberforce, who stopped the slave trade in London, has made the United States a leader in addressing the egregious human rights violations of trafficking and motivated other countries and governments to do the same. Yet much work remains to be done if we are to eliminate this scourge. Too much demand, enabled by crass indifference, unbridled hedonism and misogynistic attitudes, has turned women and girls into objects, valued only for their utility in the brothel or in the sweatshop. Society has helped perpetuate this heinous crime by failing to utilize all the means at our disposal to combat it.

Legislation that I will soon introduce, along with DON PAYNE from my own home State of New Jersey, entitled the "International Megan's Law," would address this omission with respect to sex tourism to exploit children. It would seek to protect girls and boys around the world from sexual exploitation by establishing a notification system between governments when a known high-risk sex offender is traveling or intends to travel internationally.

Government representatives from other countries, including Thailand,

Brazil, the United Kingdom and Australia, have expressed a desire to cooperate with the United States to address the degrading exploitation that occurs as a result of sex tourism. Girls are the primary victims in this often overlooked form of trafficking.

Another key area in critical need of improvement is that of maternal health. Most of us are familiar with the appalling statistic that in sub-Saharan Africa, the lifetime risk of maternal death is 1 in 16, compared with 1 in 2,800 in developed countries. It is unacceptable and awful in the extreme that most of these maternal deaths are preventable.

During the Africa Subcommittee's hearing about safe blood that I chaired in the 109th Congress, we heard from Dr. Neelam Dhingra of the World Health Organization. Dr. Dhingra informed us that the most common cause of maternal death in sub-Saharan Africa is severe bleeding, which can take the life of even a healthy woman within 2 hours if not properly and immediately treated. She gave us the astonishing statistic that in Africa severe bleeding during delivery or after childbirth contributes to up to 44 percent of maternal deaths, many of which could be prevented simply by having access to safe blood. A sufficient quantity and quality of immediately available and usable blood must become the norm and not the exception. I congratulate CHAKA FATTAH from Philadelphia, a Member of Congress, for his work in promoting safe blood.

Another unacceptable risk for many women giving birth in the developing world, especially Africa, is obstetric fistula. Fistula, Mr. Speaker, can be treated and repaired through a relatively minor surgical procedure that costs, on average, $150 per surgery. Still, large numbers of women, an estimated 2 million, endure tremendous pain and numbing isolation that comes from being the walking wounded, incontinent and ostracized, and not able to get to a hospital—like the famous hospital in Addis, which performs these wonderful interventions. I visited that hospital and saw dozens of women who got fistula repair, and the smiles on their faces were amazing. With just a small investment of health care dollars, the lives of women throughout Africa could be dramatically changed.

Helping mothers and helping babies goes hand in hand, Mr. Speaker. There is no dichotomy. When women receive proper prenatal and maternal health care, they are less likely to die in childbirth, and when unborn babies are healthy in the womb, they emerge as healthier, stronger newborns.

Birth is not the beginning of life, it is merely an event in the baby's life that began at fertilization. Life is a continuum with many stages. I believe, Mr. Speaker, human rights should be respected from womb to tomb, and that no violence is acceptable against anyone, regardless of age, race, religion, gender, disability, or condition of dependency. We need to recognize this biological fact in policy, funding and programs, and treat both mother and baby, including the unborn child, as two patients in need of respect, love and tangible assistance. We need to affirm them both.

I would like to conclude by raising the plight of women, and especially the girl child, who suffer from the coercive population control agenda of the Chinese Government.

As you know, Mr. Speaker, I was blocked from offering two pro-life, pro-child, pro-women amendments to the huge $410 billion omnibus. One of those amendments would have restored the Kemp-Kasten policy for all organizations, including the U.N. Population Fund, if they had been found to be involved with coercive population control.

I held 26 hearings, Mr. Speaker, on human rights in China when I was the chairman of the Human Rights Subcommittee and met with numerous women during frequent human rights missions to China. There is no doubt that the U.N. Population Fund has supported, co-managed, and whitewashed the most pervasive crimes against women in all of human history.

China's one-child-per-couple policy relies on pervasive coerced abortion, involuntary sterilization, ruinous fines in the amounts of up to ten times the salary of both parents, imprisonment, and job loss or a demotion to achieve its quotas. In China today, brothers and sisters are illegal. Women are told when and if they can have the one child permitted by law. And rather than showing compassion and tangible assistance to unwed mothers, unwed moms, even if it's their first baby, are forcibly aborted. Let me say that again. There are no unwed moms in China, they are all forcibly aborted.

Women are severely harmed emotionally, psychologically and physically. Chinese women are violated by the state. The suicide rate for Chinese women is about 500 per day, according to the most recent Human Rights Report from the Department of State—it just came out 2 weeks ago—and that number far exceeds any other number.

Then there are the missing girls, upwards of 100 million girls missing in China as a direct result of sex selection abortions. This gendercide is a direct result of the one-child-per-couple policy combined with a preference for boys. That human rights abuse has to be made much more visible. The Chinese Government has to take corrective action. And all of us have to do our part to stop this gendercide of young girls, of little girls.

I urge unanimous support for H. Res. 194. It is an excellent resolution.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in support of H. Res. 194, "Supporting the goals of International Women's Day". As a member of the Congressional Caucus for Women's Issues this resolution is very important to me and I thank my colleague Congresswoman JAN SCHAKOWSKY for introducing this resolution.

H. Res. 194 recognizes and honors the women who have fought and continue to struggle for equality. There are over 3,000,000,000 women in the world, representing 51 percent of the world's population and yet, women remain vastly underrepresented in national and local assemblies, face political and economic obstacles, struggle for basic rights, face the threat of discrimination, and are targets of violence all over the world.

Despite tremendous gains over the past 20 years women still have great strides to make. How is it that women work $\frac{2}{3}$ of the world's working hours, produce half of the world's food, yet earn only 1 percent of the world's income and own less than 1 percent of the world's property? Today, although women have reached great heights, women are still earning less than their male counterparts in the workforce. Two-thirds of illiterate individuals worldwide are women which is quite distressing.

Throughout the world, women are victims of violence and disease. Women have become victims of illegal human trafficking for the purpose of forced labor, domestic servitude, and/or sexual exploitation. We must pledge to stop this violence against women.

Domestic violence causes more deaths and disability among women between the ages of 15 and 44 than cancer, malaria, traffic accidents, and war. Worldwide, at least 1 out of every 3 women and girls have been beaten in her lifetime and at least 1 out of every 6 women and girls in the United States has been sexually abused in her lifetime. Furthermore, 70 percent of the people living in poverty around the world are women and children. In addition, women account for half of all cases of HIV/AIDS worldwide. These statistics are staggering and show why this resolution must be passed.

The United States House of Representatives must show a commitment to ending discrimination and violence against women and girls, to ensure their safety and welfare, and to pursue policies that guarantee their basic rights.

Mr. Speaker, I urge my colleagues to support this extremely important resolution, H. Res. 194, "Supporting the goals of International Women's Day". Women's rights affect everyone, as we all have a mother.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, we have no more speakers.

I might point out the irony that, in a resolution that is commemorating International Women's Day, the sponsor of that resolution is not available to speak on the floor because she is at the White House commemorating International Women's Day. But Ms. SCHAKOWSKY's comments can be added into the RECORD.

Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion offered by the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) that the House suspend the rules and agree to the resolution, H. Res. 194, as amended.

The question was taken; and (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution, as amended, was agreed to.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

RECOGNIZING PLIGHT OF TIBETAN PEOPLE ON 50TH ANNIVERSARY OF THE DALAI LAMA'S EXILE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I move to suspend the rules and agree to the resolution (H. Res. 226) recognizing the plight of the Tibetan people on the 50th anniversary of His Holiness the Dalai Lama being forced into exile and calling for a sustained multilateral effort to bring about a durable and peaceful solution to the Tibet issue.

The Clerk read the title of the resolution.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

H. RES. 226

Whereas for more than 2,000 years the people of Tibet have maintained a distinct cultural identity, language, and religion;

Whereas in 1949, the armed forces of the People's Republic of China took over the eastern areas of the traditional Tibetan homeland, and by March 1951 occupied the Tibetan capital of Lhasa and laid siege to Tibetan government buildings;

Whereas in April 1951, under duress of military occupation, Tibetan government officials signed the Seventeen Point agreement which provided for the preservation of the institution of the Dalai Lama, local self government and continuation of the Tibetan political system, and the autonomy for Tibetans within the People's Republic of China;

Whereas on March 10, 1959, the Tibetan people rose up in Lhasa against Chinese rule in response to Chinese actions to undermine self-government and to rumors that Chinese authorities planned to detain Tenzin Gyatso, His Holiness the 14th Dalai Lama, the spiritual and temporal leader of the Tibetan people;

Whereas on March 17, 1959, with the People's Liberation Army commencing an assault on his residence, the Dalai Lama, in fear of his safety and his ability to lead the Tibetan people, fled Lhasa;

Whereas upon his arrival in India, the Dalai Lama declared that he could do more in exile to champion the rights and self-determination of Tibetans than he could inside territory controlled by the armed forces of the People's Republic of China;

Whereas the Dalai Lama was welcomed by the Government and people of India, a testament to the close cultural and religious links between India and Tibet and a mutual admiration for the philosophies of non-violence espoused by Mahatma Gandhi and the 14th Dalai Lama;

Whereas under the leadership of the Dalai Lama, Tibetans overcame adversity and hardship to establish vibrant exile communities in India, the United States, Europe, and elsewhere in order to preserve Tibetan cultural identity, language, and religion;

Whereas the Dalai Lama set out to instill democracy in the exile community, which has led to the Central Tibetan Administration with its democratically elected Executive and Legislative Branches, as well as a Judicial Branch;

Whereas on March 10 every year Tibetans commemorate the circumstances that led to the separation of the Dalai Lama from Tibet and the struggle of Tibetans to preserve their identity in the face of the assimilationist policies of the People's Republic of China;

Whereas over the years the United States Congress has sent strong and clear messages condemning the Chinese Government's repression of the human rights of Tibetans, including restrictions on the free practice of religion, detention of political prisoners, and the disappearance of Gedhun Choekyi Nyima, the 11th Panchen Lama;

Whereas in October 2007, Tenzin Gyatso, the 14th Dalai Lama received the Congressional Gold Medal in recognition of his lifetime efforts to promote peace worldwide and a non-violent resolution to the Tibet issue;

Whereas it is the objective of the United States Government, consistent across administrations of different political parties, to promote a substantive dialogue between the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Dalai Lama or his representatives in order to secure genuine autonomy for the Tibetan people;

Whereas eight rounds of dialogue between the envoys of the Dalai Lama and representatives of the Government of the People's Republic of China have failed to achieve any concrete and substantive results;

Whereas the 2008 United States Department of State's Country Report on Human Rights states that "The [Chinese] government's human rights record in Tibetan areas of China deteriorated severely during the year. Authorities continued to commit serious human rights abuses, including torture, arbitrary arrest, extrajudicial detention, and house arrest. Official repression of freedoms of speech, religion, association, and movement increased significantly following the outbreak of protests across the Tibetan plateau in the spring. The preservation and development of Tibet's unique religious, cultural, and linguistic heritage continued to be of concern."; and

Whereas the envoys of the Dalai Lama presented in November 2008, at the request of Chinese officials, a Memorandum on Genuine Autonomy for the Tibetan People outlining a plan for autonomy intended to be consistent with the constitution of the People's Republic of China: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the House of Representatives—

(1) recognizes the Tibetan people for their perseverance in face of hardship and adversity in Tibet and for creating a vibrant and democratic community in exile that sustains the Tibetan identity;

(2) recognizes the Government and people of India for their generosity toward the Tibetan refugee population for the last 50 years;

(3) calls upon the Government of the People's Republic of China to respond to the Dalai Lama's initiatives to find a lasting solution to the Tibetan issue, cease its repression of the Tibetan people, and to lift immediately the harsh policies imposed on Tibetans, including patriotic education campaigns, detention and abuses of those freely expressing political views or relaying news about local conditions, and limitations on travel and communications; and

(4) calls upon the Administration to recommit to a sustained effort consistent with the Tibetan Policy Act of 2002, that employs diplomatic, programmatic, and multilateral resources to press the People's Republic of China to respect the Tibetans' identity and the human rights of the Tibetan people.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Pursuant to the rule, the gentleman from California (Mr. BERMAN) and the gentlewoman from Florida (Ms. ROSELEHTINEN) each will control 20 minutes.

The Chair recognizes the gentleman from California.

GENERAL LEAVE

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that all Members may have 5 legislative days to revise and extend their remarks and include extraneous material on the resolution under consideration.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from California?

There was no objection.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise in strong support of this resolution and yield myself as much time as I may consume.

This resolution recognizes the plight of the Tibetan people on the 50th anniversary of His Holiness the Dalai Lama's exile and calls for a sustained multilateral effort toward a peaceful resolution to the Tibet issue.

The resolution is introduced by my good friends, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT) and our ranking member, ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN of Florida. I thank them for their leadership in ensuring that the House commemorates this important date.

In 1949, the People's Liberation Army of China entered the eastern areas of the traditional Tibetan territory. In 1951, they occupied the Tibetan capital of Lhasa. Fifty years ago this month, the Tibetan people rose up in Lhasa against Chinese rule.

On March 17, 1959, His Holiness the Dalai Lama fled Tibet after the People's Liberation Army commenced an assault on his residence. He was followed into exile by some 80,000 Tibetans. Tens of thousands of Tibetans who remained were killed or imprisoned.

Under the leadership of the Dalai Lama, Tibetans have sought to overcome adversity and hardship. Exiled communities have been established in India, the United States, Europe, and elsewhere, to preserve Tibetan cultural identity, language and religion. They have succeeded abroad, but at home, the uniqueness of the Tibetan people remains threatened by Chinese policies.

Over the years, the Congress has repeatedly championed the rights of Tibetans, applauded efforts by the Dalai Lama to seek a peaceful resolution to the dispute between China and Tibet, and funded programs to assist Tibetan refugees.

In 2002, Congress passed the Tibetan Policy Act, the cornerstone of U.S. policy toward Tibet. This legislation codified the position of Special Coordinator for Tibetan Issues and emphasized that it should be U.S. policy to promote a dialogue between the Chinese Government and representatives of the Dalai Lama in order to achieve a settlement based on meaningful and genuine autonomy for the Tibetan people.

In 2007, Congress awarded the Congressional Gold Medal to His Holiness the Dalai Lama in recognition of his life-long dedication to the causes of peace and non-violent resolution to the Tibet issue.

I know that many of our friends in China are distressed by the continued congressional focus on Tibet. To them I say this resolution is not anti-Chinese. We have deep respect for both peoples. But after eight rounds of fruitless meetings between the Chinese Government and representatives of the Dalai Lama, it appears to many of us that China is not serious about achieving resolution of this difficult issue.

It's time for China to negotiate in good faith. I urge the Chinese Government to re-examine their policies in Tibet and to provide the Tibetan people genuine autonomy in their traditional homeland.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I may consume.

I thank our esteemed chairman of the committee, Mr. BERMAN from California.

Mr. Speaker, I rise in enthusiastic support of this House resolution because it conveys a continued deep concern of both the Congress and the American people for the plight of the people of Tibet, a concern first demonstrated by our late committee chairman, Tom Lantos. Our chairman, Mr. BERMAN, continues this human rights legacy. I'm honored to join with my colleague, Congressman HOLT, in co-sponsoring this important resolution commemorating the 50th anniversary of the uprising in Tibet against Chinese Communist rule.

The history of the people of Tibet for the past half century has been one of grace under fire and of courage in the face of extreme adversity. Beijing's Communist overseers displayed once again their calloused hostility to the cultural, religious and linguistic rights of the Tibetan people by their harsh and bloody crackdown in Tibet exactly 1 year ago. The iron grip of Beijing, however, cannot silence, cannot repress, cannot extinguish the resilient Buddhist spirit of the people who occupy the land known as the "Rooftop of the World."

The forced exile of His Holiness the Dalai Lama and his flight into India 50 years ago is a continuing source of profound sorrow for the people of Tibet. This resolution, therefore, Mr. Speaker, also takes note of the warmth and the support with which the government and the people of India have greeted the Dalai Lama and other exiles from Tibet.

Tibet's tragic loss of its spiritual leader, however, has proven to be the world's gain. No steadier voice on the issues of religious freedom and human rights has been heard in the corridors of power than that of the quiet, but determined, voice of the Dalai Lama. He has risen from being a humble refugee to becoming both a Nobel Peace Prize recipient and the conscience of the civilized world.

The Chinese Foreign Minister is in Washington this very week for an official visit, the very week that we commemorate the uprising in Tibet. Just prior to his departure from Beijing to Washington, the Chinese Foreign Minister stated, "The Dalai side still insists on establishing a so-called greater Tibet on a quarter of China's territory; you call this person a religious figure?"

Mr. Speaker, this resolution can serve as a response to the foreign minister. The U.S. Congress has a message for the Foreign Minister of China's Communist regime, and that is that the Dalai Lama is not only a religious figure, but a person of such renown that he was granted the Congressional Gold Medal. I was honored to serve as one of the sponsors for this legislation awarding the Dalai Lama the Congressional Gold Medal during the last Congress.

Our message to the Chinese regime is contained in the forceful language of this resolution calling for the preservation of the religious and human rights of the people of Tibet. The U.S. Government must keep faith with the people of Tibet. We must press the Chinese regime on issues of human rights and religious freedom in Tibet. The U.S. Congress will not fail in our commitment to Tibet and to its people.

Now is the time for all of us to reflect on the enormous resilience of a captive Tibet and its suffering people over the past five decades. Now is the time to call on the Communist leaders in Beijing—sitting behind the walls of their enclosed compound—to hear the cries from the international community for justice in Tibet. Now is the time for our colleagues to reconfirm their support for the Dalai Lama and for his oppressed people.

Mr. Speaker, I reserve the balance of my time.

□ 1415

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, at this point I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. HOLT), the sponsor of the resolution.

Mr. HOLT. Mr. Speaker, I thank the distinguished chairman for yielding.

Yesterday marked the passage of 50 years since the Tibetan people in Lhasa first rose in protest against the harsh actions of the People's Republic of China to undermine the Tibetan self-government. I am honored to introduce this resolution recognizing the long hardship borne by the Tibetan people, a great people, who continue to labor peacefully for freedom in Tibet and maintain a Tibetan cultural identity and democratic community, even in exile. Importantly, this resolution also recognizes the government and the people of India, who generously have hosted the exiled government and people of Tibet in the city of Dharamsala since 1960. The perseverance and charity exhibited by these peoples should be a model for all.

For 50 years the situation in Tibet has deteriorated with too little attention from the outside world. Tibetan culture has been eradicated systematically and relentlessly. Basic freedoms, like freedoms of speech and religion and association and movement, have been repressed. Human rights abuses have been all too common and continue to occur. At this time last year, the Chinese Government was engaged in a fierce crackdown on nonviolent Tibetan protesters that resulted in serious injuries to civilians and an undetermined but significant number of deaths. Even today reports indicate that the Chinese Government has imposed a virtual state of martial law in the Tibetan plateau.

Over the same 50 years and in the face of such adversity, the Dalai Lama has sought to bring wisdom to human affairs and has used his position and leadership to promote compassion and nonviolence in the search for a lasting solution to this issue.

Last year I had the opportunity to travel to India with a congressional delegation led by Speaker PELOSI. We witnessed firsthand the dedicated Tibetans who crossed the rugged Himalayas to escape oppression, including young children. We also had lengthy meetings with the Dalai Lama, whose commitment to peaceful, steady progress is a powerful beacon of hope to all people seeking freedom and equality. It is long past time for this commitment to be reciprocated by the Chinese Government.

The so-called "Seventeen Point Agreement" that was signed by Chinese authorities in 1951 provided that "the central authorities will not alter the existing political system in Tibet. The central authorities also will not alter the established status, functions, and powers of the Dalai Lama. Officials of various ranks shall hold office as usual." A few years later, in March of 1959, just days after the Dalai Lama's flight from Lhasa, the Chinese Government abolished the local Tibetan governing structure. The agreement also explicitly stated that "when the people raise demands for reform, they must be settled through consultation with the leading personnel of Tibet." Clearly the terms of this agreement have not been upheld. Tibetans and the international community are asking that the Chinese Government implement autonomy as promised but never granted genuinely.

In this spirit the resolution before us calls for an immediate cessation of the repression and abuses being imposed upon the people of Tibet. We urge the Chinese Government to engage in a constructive dialogue with the Dalai Lama in a sustained effort to craft a permanent and just solution that protects the rights and dignity of all Tibetans. The distinctive culture of Tibet must be preserved, and we throughout the world should want it preserved, and a vibrant future must be guaranteed. I'm hopeful that the new administration will answer the call of this resolution to use all of the diplomatic, programmatic, and multilateral tools at its disposal to encourage China to adopt such a course.

Last year this body agreed to a resolution introduced by Speaker PELOSI that addressed the rights of the Tibetan people. Today we reiterate that message and recommit ourselves to a sustained effort. Today is a day when this body once again brings a national spotlight to the plight of the Tibetan people, honors those who struggle nonviolently against brutal suppression, and reaffirms our commitment to freedom around the world. It is a day when we recognize, in the words of the Dalai Lama, "the importance of universal responsibility, nonviolence, and interreligious understanding."

I would like to thank Chairman BERMAN and the House Foreign Affairs Committee for their leadership and action on this issue. I appreciate the support of Ranking Member ROS-LEHTINEN and the hard work of Mr. Halpin of the minority staff as well as Mr. Hans Hogrefe of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission. The immense contributions of Todd Stein and the International Campaign for Tibet should also be acknowledged. And I would like to pay special tribute to Speaker PELOSI, who has long been a strong champion of human rights in Tibet and around the world, and to thank her for her help with this resolution.

We call on the leaders of China for justice and freedom.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, at this time I would like to yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from California (Mr. ROHRABACHER), who is the ranking member of the Subcommittee on International Organizations, Human Rights and Oversight.

Mr. ROHRABACHER. I thank the co-chairman of the Tibet Caucus.

I rise in strong support of this resolution, and I would like to thank both leaders of both parties here, HOWARD BERMAN and, of course, Ranking Member ROS-LEHTINEN for all of the hard work they've done over the years to support the cause of the people of Tibet. But also I would like to point out that NANCY PELOSI, our esteemed Speaker, has over her career put out enormous efforts on this issue, and it's an issue of the heart and the soul. And that's why you see people in both parties who have committed themselves to this noble endeavor of supporting a people in a distant land somewhere on the top of the world on the other side of the Earth, supporting them in their call for recognition of their human rights and for us to recognize that, instead of dealing with tyrants and bullies and gangsters in Beijing, a regime in Beijing that oppresses their own people. They are also the world's worst human rights abuser, and the regime in Beijing is the oppressor of this actually peace-loving people on the other side of the world, the Tibetan people.

One-sixth of the population of Tibet have lost their lives in this five decades of suppression. Thousands of their monasteries have been looted and destroyed. Their national treasure, the gold from their religious artifacts, robbed from them. And, yes, we would tell the Foreign Minister of that dictatorship in Beijing, yes, one-fourth of the territory now claimed by that dictatorship is actually the ancestral home of the Tibetan people. And we know that over these five decades of suppression that the regime in Beijing has tried their best to send other people into Tibet to steal their country. Not only to steal their artifacts and close their monasteries, but to actually rob from them their very country. And, yes, we, as honest people, should recognize this is Tibet when we talk about that area on the map. The Tibetan people, as the other people in China, have suffered because the United States and other free countries have treated Beijing as if it is a moral equivalent to the other countries that we deal with in the world. We must differentiate between the vicious dictators who obliterate their opposition and repress their own people. We must differentiate between them and the democratic forces of the world. Our job as Americans, as set forth by George Washington, whose picture we see now overseeing these proceedings, we were given the task to ensure that the light of democracy will shine bright. It does not shine bright on governments that turn their back on the oppression that we have seen by Beijing, the suppression of the people of Tibet, which we recognize today in these five decades of suppression.

So today let us recognize that the Dalai Lama has been a force for peace and freedom and justice in this world. We wish him all the best. We wish the people of Tibet the best. And we are on their side. This resolution says the American people, of whatever political party is not important, that we are on the side of the people of Tibet, and they should have no doubts about this and the government in Beijing that suppresses them should have no doubts about that as well.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, it's my privilege to now recognize really the leader in this institution on human rights generally and most particularly on the issue of what has happened to the Tibetan people and to His Holiness the Dalai Lama, the Speaker of the House (Ms. PELOSI).

Ms. PELOSI. I thank the gentleman for yielding. I thank him and Congresswoman ILEANA ROS-LEHTINEN for bringing this important legislation to the floor, not only in Congresswoman ROS-LEHTINEN's situation as the ranking member but as a cosponsor of the legislation.

Thank you, Mr. BERMAN, for carrying on a proud tradition of Mr. Lantos as ranking member on Foreign Affairs and then as chairman. He also served, as you know, as Chair of the Human Rights Task Caucus in the Congress of the United States.

It is with great sadness, Mr. Speaker, that I rise in support of this resolution. I so had wished decades ago that we wouldn't be standing here now still pleading the case for the people of Tibet. I thank RUSH HOLT for giving us this opportunity again, with Congresswoman ROS-LEHTINEN, sponsoring this legislation; HOWARD BERMAN, as I mentioned, the chairman; FRANK WOLF, and Mr. MCGOVERN, the co-Chairs of the Human Rights Caucus in the Congress carrying on a strong tradition, JIM MCGOVERN's carrying on that tradition.

But as Mr. ROHRBACHER mentioned, and I see Mr. SMITH there, we have been fighting this fight for a very long time.

My colleagues, going back a generation when the Dalai Lama first came to the Congress with his proposal for autonomy, back in 1987, would we have ever thought then that over 20 years later we would still be making this case? Remember after Tiananmen Square, which will be 20 years in June, and we've talked about human rights in China and Tibet. They said peaceful coexistence, peaceful engagement, this is going to lead to the improvement of human rights in China and Tibet. A generation has gone by, 20 years later, and what do we have? A more repressive situation in Tibet. A situation so bad it moved His Holiness in the statement he released on the occasion of the 50th anniversary to say that life for the Tibetans under the repression of the Chinese regime is "hell on Earth." His Holiness used those terms. A man of nonviolence and gentle nature would be moved to use those words.

So I thank all who are responsible for bringing this resolution to the floor because, as we know, this week marks the 50th, five decades, of waiting for this peaceful evolution to take place, this peaceful evolution that was going to lead to more democratic freedoms. This was against a peaceful uprising against the Chinese Government and then led to the exiling of His Holiness out of Tibet.

With this resolution we remember that day and honor the many brave Tibetans who sacrificed their lives for freedom. Thousands of them did. With this resolution we recognize the hospitality of India for receiving the Tibetans into that great nation. His Holiness and the nation of India share a tradition of nonviolence and compassion, and we salute India for extending that to the people of Tibet as they escaped.

For the last year, Tibet has been under martial law, and the human rights situation has severely worsened, according to the State Department report. There has been no progress in the discussions with the Chinese government. It is long past time, 50 years, for Beijing to respect the human rights of every Tibetan, indeed, of every Chinese. The United States Congress continues to be a bedrock of support for the Tibetan people, and we do so in a strong, bipartisan way.

As I mentioned, in 1987, His Holiness the Dalai Lama, spoke in the Capitol at the Congressional Human Rights Caucus. I was a brand-new Member and invited there by Congressman Lantos.

It was there that he outlined his "Middle Way Approach" that calls for autonomy for Tibet.

On Capitol Hill, over 20 years ago, His Holiness declared a statement of autonomy for Tibet. Twenty years later, we were all proud to stand with President Bush as he presented the Congressional Gold Medal to His Holiness the Dalai Lama, in the words of the President, for his "many enduring and outstanding contributions to peace, nonviolence, human rights and religious understanding."

Last year, as Mr. HOLT mentioned, we had a congressional delegation that visited India, where we were able to meet with His Holiness. This visit, either by coincidence or karma, took place only a matter of weeks after a protest that swept across the Tibetan plateau and the crackdown by the Chinese authorities.

So when we were in India, and seeing all of these people who were escaping from Tibet and prisoners who had been tortured in prisons in Tibet telling us their stories, they were stories that were fresh and current and tragic, and we were hopeless and helpless in how we could help them in a very real way.

What we can do is put the moral authority of the Congress of the United States in the form of this resolution, with a broad bipartisan vote, down as a marker to say that we understand the situation there, that we encourage it to be different and, as Mr. ROHRBACHER said, that we are on the side of the Tibetan people. But it shouldn't be a question of taking sides, it should be a question of resolution, resolving a difference, and that's what we hope the Chinese government will do.

Just on a lighter note, when we were there, in addition to visiting the prisoners, and those who had escaped over the mountains only a matter of days before, we visited the children in their schools. They were adorable. They had made flags that were Tibetan flags on one side and American flags on the other. They had flags of the country of India.

The children were so appreciative of the hospitality of India, so grateful to the American people for speaking out on behalf of them, and so proud of their Tibetan heritage. They are beautiful.

The preservation of the culture of Tibet is, of course, a very important part of our enthusiasm for change. But, as I say, on the lighter side, as we were traveling through the streets, our delegation, our bipartisan delegation with Mr. SENSENBRENNER, who is the most senior Republican who came on the trip and was very powerful in his statements there, but as we were traveling through the roads, the roads were lined with people and they were waving flags, American, as I said, American, Tibetan, Indian flags along the way.

One sign caught my eye. It said "Thank you for everything that you have done for us—so far." So far. So, in any event, more is expected. More will come.

I told you about His Holiness' speech and about his statement that he put out, and he called the situation there, the Tibetans who are in the depths of suffering and hardship, that they are literally experiencing hell on Earth.

Mr. Speaker, I would like to submit His Holiness' statement for the RECORD.

THE STATEMENT OF HIS HOLINESS THE DALAI LAMA ON THE FIFTIETH ANNIVERSARY OF THE TIBETAN NATIONAL UPRISING DAY

(Embargoed until 10th March, 9 a.m.)

Today is the fiftieth anniversary of the Tibetan people's peaceful uprising against Communist China's repression in Tibet. Since last March, widespread peaceful protests have erupted across the whole of Tibet. Most of the participants were youths born and brought up after 1959, who have not seen or experienced a free Tibet. However, the fact that they were driven by a firm conviction to serve the cause of Tibet that has continued from generation to generation is indeed a matter of pride. It will serve as a source of inspiration for those in the international community who take keen interest in the issue of Tibet. We pay tribute and offer our prayers for all those who died, were tortured and suffered tremendous hardships during the crisis last year, as well as those who have suffered and died for the cause of Tibet since our struggle began.

Around 1949, Communist forces began to enter north-eastern and eastern Tibet (Kham and Amdo) and by 1950, more than 5000 Tibetan soldiers had been killed. Taking the prevailing situation into account, the Chinese government chose a policy of peaceful liberation, which in 1951, led to the signing of the 17-Point Agreement and its annexure. Since then, Tibet has come under the control of the People's Republic of China. However, the Agreement clearly mentions that Tibet's distinct religion, culture and traditional values would be protected.

Between 1954 and 1955, I met with most of the senior Chinese leaders in the Communist Party, government and military, led by Chairman Mao Zedong, in Beijing. When we discussed ways of achieving the social and economic development of Tibet, as well as maintaining Tibet's religious and cultural heritage, Mao Zedong and all the other leaders agreed to establish a preparatory committee to pave the way for the implementation of the autonomous region, as stipulated in the Agreement, rather than establishing a military administrative commission. From about 1956 onwards, however, the situation took a turn for the worse with the imposition of ultra-leftist policies in Tibet. Consequently, the assurances given by higher authorities were not implemented on the ground. The forceful implementation of the so-called "democratic reforms" in the Kham and Amdo regions of Tibet, which did not accord with prevailing conditions, resulted in immense chaos and destruction. In Central Tibet, Chinese officials forcibly and deliberately violated the terms of the 17-Point Agreement, and their heavy-handed tactics increased day by day. These desperate developments left the Tibetan people no alternative but to launch a peaceful uprising on 10 March 1959. The Chinese authorities responded with unprecedented force that led to the killing of tens of thousands of Tibetans in the following months. Thousands were arrested and imprisoned. Consequently, nearly a hundred thousand Tibetans fled into exile in India, Nepal and Bhutan. During the escape and the months that followed they faced unimaginable hardship, which is still fresh in Tibetan memory. At that time, I too, accompanied by a small party of Tibetan government officials including some Kalons (Cabinet Ministers), escaped into exile in India.

Having occupied Tibet, the Chinese Communist government carried out a series of repressive and violent campaigns that have included "democratic reforms", class struggle, collectivisation, the Cultural Revolution, the imposition of martial law, and more recently the patriotic re-education and the strike hard campaigns. These thrust Tibetans into such depths of suffering and hardship that they literally experienced hell on earth. The immediate result of these campaigns was the deaths of hundreds and thousands of Tibetans. The lineage of the Buddha Dharma was severed. Thousands of religious and cultural centres such as monasteries, nunneries and temples were razed to the ground. Historical buildings and monuments were demolished. Natural resources have been indiscriminately exploited. Today, Tibet's fragile environment has been polluted, massive deforestation has been carried out and wildlife, such as wild yaks and Tibetan antelopes, are being driven to extinction.

These 50 years have brought untold suffering and destruction to the land and people of Tibet. Even today, Tibetans in Tibet live in constant fear and the Chinese authorities remain constantly suspicious of them. Today, the religion, culture, language and identity, which successive generations of Tibetans have considered more precious than their lives, are nearing extinction; in short, the Tibetan people are regarded like criminals deserving to be put to death. The Tibetan people's tragedy was set out in the late Panchen Rinpoche's 70,000-character petition to the Chinese government in 1962. He raised it again in his speech in Shigatse in 1989 shortly before he died, when he said that what we have lost under Chinese communist rule far outweighs what we have gained. Many concerned and unbiased Tibetans have also spoken out about the hardships of the Tibetan people. Even Hu Yaobang, the Communist Party Secretary, when he arrived in Lhasa in 1980, clearly acknowledged these mistakes and asked the Tibetans for their forgiveness. Many infrastructural developments such as roads, airports, railways, and so forth, which seem to have brought progress to Tibetan areas, were really done with the political objective of sinicising Tibet at the huge cost of devastating the Tibetan environment and way of life.

As for the Tibetan refugees, although we initially faced many problems such as great differences of climate and language and difficulties earning our livelihood, we have been successful in re-establishing ourselves in exile. Due to the great generosity of our host countries, especially India, Tibetans have been able to live in freedom without fear. We have been able to earn a livelihood and uphold our religion and culture. We have been able to provide our children with both traditional and modern education, as well as engaging in efforts to resolve the Tibet issue. There have been other positive results too. Greater understanding of Tibetan Buddhism with its emphasis on compassion has made a positive contribution in many parts of the world.

Immediately after our arrival in exile I began to work on the promotion of democracy in the Tibetan community with the election of the Tibetan Parliament-in-Exile in 1960. Since then, we have taken gradual steps on the path to democracy and today our exile administration has evolved into a fully functioning democracy with a written charter of its own and a legislative body. This is indeed something we can all be proud of.

Since 2001, we have instituted a system by which the political leadership of Tibetan exiles is directly elected through procedures similar to those in other democratic systems. Currently, the directly-elected Kalon Tripa's (Cabinet Chairperson) second term is underway. Consequently, my daily administrative responsibilities have reduced and today I am in a state of semi-retirement. However, to work for the just cause of Tibet is the responsibility of every Tibetan, and as long as I live I will uphold this responsibility.

As a human being, my main commitment is in the promotion of human values; this is what I consider the key factor for a happy life at the individual, family and community level. As a religious practitioner, my second commitment is the promotion of inter-religious harmony. My third commitment is of course due to my being a Tibetan with the name of "Dalai Lama", but more importantly it is due to the trust that Tibetans both inside and outside Tibet have placed in me. These are the three important commitments, which I always keep in mind.

In addition to looking after the well being of the exiled Tibetan community, which they have done quite well, the principal task of the Central Tibetan Administration has been to work towards the resolution of the issue of Tibet. Having laid out the mutually beneficial Middle-Way policy in 1974, we were ready to respond to Deng Xiaoping when he proposed talks in 1979. Many talks were conducted and fact-finding delegations dispatched. These however, did not bear any concrete results and formal contacts eventually broke off in 1993.

Subsequently, in 1996-97, we conducted an opinion poll of the Tibetans in exile, and collected suggestions from Tibet wherever possible, on a proposed referendum, by which the Tibetan people were to determine the future course of our freedom struggle to their full satisfaction. Based on the outcome of the poll and the suggestions from Tibet, we decided to continue the policy of the Middle-Way.

Since the re-establishment of contacts in 2002, we have followed a policy of one official channel and one agenda and have held eight rounds of talks with the Chinese authorities. As a consequence, we presented a Memorandum on Genuine Autonomy for the Tibetan People, explaining how the conditions for national regional autonomy as set forth in the Chinese constitution would be met by the full implementation of its laws on autonomy. The Chinese insistence that we accept Tibet as having been a part of China since ancient times is not only inaccurate, but also unreasonable. We cannot change the past no matter whether it was good or bad. Distorting history for political purposes is incorrect.

We need to look to the future and work for our mutual benefit. We Tibetans are looking for a legitimate and meaningful autonomy, an arrangement that would enable Tibetans to live within the framework of the People's Republic of China. Fulfilling the aspirations of the Tibetan people will enable China to achieve stability and unity. From our side, we are not making any demands based on history. Looking back at history, there is no country in the world today, including China, whose territorial status has remained forever unchanged, nor can it remain unchanged.

Our aspiration that all Tibetans be brought under a single autonomous administration is in keeping with the very objective of the principle of national regional autonomy. It also fulfills the fundamental requirements of the Tibetan and Chinese peoples. The Chinese constitution and other related laws and regulations do not pose any obstacle to this and many leaders of the Chinese Central Government have accepted this genuine aspiration. When signing the 17-Point Agreement, Premier Zhou Enlai acknowledged that this was a reasonable demand, but not the right time to implement it. In 1956, when establishing the Preparatory Committee for the "Tibet Autonomous Region", Vice-Premier Chen Yi pointing at a map said, if Lhasa could be made the capital of the Tibet Autonomous Region, which included the Tibetan areas within the other provinces, it would contribute to the development of Tibet and friendship between the Tibetan and Chinese nationalities, a view shared by the Panchen Rinpoche and many Tibetan cadres and scholars. If Chinese leaders had any objections to our proposals, they could have provided reasons for them and suggested alternatives for our consideration, but they did not. I am disappointed that the Chinese authorities have not responded appropriately to our sincere efforts to implement the principle of meaningful national regional autonomy for all Tibetans, as set forth in the constitution of the People's Republic of China.

Quite apart from the current process of Sino-Tibetan dialogue having achieved no concrete results, there has been a brutal crackdown on the Tibetan protests that have shaken the whole of Tibet since March last year. Therefore, in order to solicit public opinion as to what future course of action we should take, the Special Meeting of Tibetan exiles was convened in November 2008. Efforts were made to collect suggestions, as far as possible, from the Tibetans in Tibet as well. The outcome of this whole process was that a majority of Tibetans strongly supported the continuation of the Middle-Way policy. Therefore, we are now pursuing this policy with greater confidence and will continue our efforts towards achieving a meaningful national regional autonomy for all Tibetans.

From time immemorial, the Tibetan and Chinese peoples have been neighbours. In future too, we will have to live together. Therefore, it is most important for us to co-exist in friendship with each other.

During the Kuomintang period, and particularly since the occupation of Tibet, the Communist Chinese have been publishing distorted propaganda about Tibet and its people. Consequently, there are, among the Chinese populace, very few people who have a true understanding about Tibet. It is, in fact, very difficult for them to find the truth. There are also ultra-leftist Chinese leaders who have, since last March, been undertaking a huge propaganda effort with the intention of setting the Tibetan and Chinese peoples apart and creating animosity between them. Sadly, as a result, a negative impression of Tibetans has arisen in the minds of some of our Chinese brothers and sisters. Therefore, as I have repeatedly appealed before, I would like once again to urge out Chinese brothers and sisters not to be swayed by such propaganda, but, instead, to try to discover the facts about Tibet impartially, so as to prevent divisions among us. Tibetans should also continue to work for friendship with the Chinese people.

Looking back on 50 years in exile, we have witnessed many ups and downs. However, the fact that the Tibet issue is alive and the international community is taking growing interest in it is indeed an achievement. Seen from this perspective, I have no doubt that the justice of Tibet's cause will prevail, if we continue to tread the path of truth and non-violence.

As we commemorate 50 years in exile, it is most important that we express our deep gratitude to the governments and peoples of the various host countries in which we live. Not only do we abide by the laws of these host countries, but we also conduct ourselves in a way that we become an asset to these countries. Similarly, in our efforts to realise the cause of Tibet and uphold its religion and culture, we should craft our future vision and strategy by learning from our past experience.

I always say that we should hope for the best, and prepare for the worst. Whether we look at it from the global perspective or in the context of events in China, there are reasons for us to hope for a quick resolution of the issue of Tibet. However, we must also prepare ourselves well in case the Tibetan struggle goes on for a long time. For this, we must focus primarily on the education of our children and the nurturing of professionals in various fields. We should also raise awareness about the environment and health, and improve understanding and practice of non-violent methods among the general Tibetan population.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to the leaders and people of India, as well as its Central and State Governments, who despite whatever problems and obstacles they face, have provided invaluable support and assistance over the past 50 years to Tibetans in exile. Their kindness and generosity are immeasurable. I would also like to express my gratitude to the leaders, governments and people of the international community, as well as the various Tibet Support Groups, for their unstinting support.

May all sentient beings live in peace and happiness.

THE DALAI LAMA,
10 March 2009.

I would also like to quote from the statement put out by the State Department last night. In part it says "We urge China to reconsider its policies in Tibet that have created tensions due to their harmful impact on Tibetan religion, culture, and livelihoods. We believe that substantive dialogue with the Dalai Lama's representatives, consistent with the Dalai Lama's commitment to disclaiming any intention to seek sovereignty or independence for Tibet, can lead to progress in bringing about solutions and can help achieve true and lasting stability in Tibet."

I am very pleased with the statement from the State Department.

Mr. Speaker, the situation in Tibet challenges the conscience of the world. If freedom-loving people around the world do not speak out for human rights in China and Tibet, then we lose moral authority to talk about it in any other place in the world.

On the 15th anniversary of the Dalai Lama being forced into exile, we must heed his guidance and his transcendent message of peace, and we must never forget the people of Tibet in their ongoing struggle.

That is why I urge my colleagues to support this resolution and thank my colleagues for giving us this opportunity to do so today.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I am proud to yield 4 minutes to my good friend from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH), the ranking member on the Subcommittee on Africa and Global Health.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank the distinguished gentlelady for yielding and thank her for her leadership.

I would especially like to thank Tom Lantos, our revered and great and honorable former chairman of the committee who did pioneering work on Tibet and really helped bring the Dalai Lama here in the first place and made that very important connection many, many years ago.

Mr. Speaker, 50 years ago today the Tibetan people rose up against the tyranny that the Chinese communist party was imposing on it. The outnumbered Tibetans fought stubbornly but did not succeed in overthrowing the tyranny. Sadly, the Chinese forces killed over 86,000 Tibetans, and the Dalai Lama had to leave Tibet to lead a government in exile.

But I think the Tibetans succeeded in doing something else 50 years ago. They put down a spiritual marker. They decided that, materially free or not, persecuted or not, the Tibetan people were going to remain Tibetan and were not going to forsake their religious heritage for the mess of ideological and atheistic nonsense the communists offered them.

They would preserve their spiritual freedom, even in the Laogai. And since 1959 every generation of Tibetans have taken up that decision and reaffirmed it. We cannot speak about 1959 without remembering 2008, when the Chinese government brutally crushed Tibetans' largely peaceful marking of the 1959 uprising.

Last year Lodi Gyari, His Holiness' Special Envoy, told me and others on the Congressional Human Rights Caucus that Tibet had "become, particularly, in the last few weeks, in every sense an occupied nation, brutally occupied by Armed Forces." This week, as our distinguished Speaker of the House just mentioned, the Dalai Lama has described the situation in Tibet as hell on Earth.

Shockingly and almost laughingly, the Chinese government shot back today and said Tibet is paradise on Earth. Well, it was, Mr. Speaker. Now it's paradise lost.

Just as it did in 1959, last year the Chinese government ordered its soldiers and police to shoot. The death toll is well over 100. We don't even have any idea how many were wounded, how many were left wounded or dying in attics and cellars because they knew if they went to a hospital they would simply disappear into the Chinese Laogai.

As in 1959, last year the Chinese government subjected Tibetans to mass arrests. They searched whole sections of cities house by house. Chinese officials admit to over 4,000 arrests. Even today, thousands of monks are still held under house arrest or lockdown.

Mr. Speaker, in 1995 I chaired a congressional hearing in which we heard from six survivors of the Laogai. One of them was Palden Gyatso, a Tibetan monk who spent 24 years in prison. When we invited him to come and speak, he brought with him some of the instruments of torture that are routinely employed and used in a horrific manner against men and women in Chinese concentration camps.

He told us that many people die of starvation. But when he brought those instruments, he couldn't even bring them past our Capitol Police, they stopped him. I had to go down to the entrance and escort him through.

At the hearing, he held up those electric batons that are used in the mouth and elsewhere in order to provide electric shocks. And while he was giving his testimony, he broke down.

He held it up and said this is what went into my mouth, as a Buddhist monk, and into the mouths of other people, to shock and to deface. He has trouble swallowing to this day.

He told us about self-tightening handcuffs and held up his wrists and showed us the scars on his body. Not just on his wrists, but elsewhere as well. He told us how the guards pierce people with bayonets, and he also told us that every bit of this was routine and almost mundane.

Yet in the face of this, he and so many others like him persevered, and the Tibetan people at large continue on, keeping faith, including their admirable principle of nonviolence.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. Ross). The time of the gentleman has expired.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I would like to yield an additional minute to the gentleman.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I appreciate that.

They are determined to endure, Mr. Speaker, and to overcome hate with kindness and benevolence and charity.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the gentlelady from Illinois (Ms. SCHAKOWSKY).

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. I thank you, Mr. Chairman, for yielding to me.

Mr. Speaker, as a member of the Human Rights Commission, I am proud to rise today in support of this resolution on behalf of the people of Tibet.

I also want to take this opportunity, because I just returned from the White House, where the President of the United States created a White House Council on Women and Girls and acknowledged the recent March 8 passage of International Women's Day.

And while I was there, I am very grateful to you, Mr. Chairman and to the House of Representatives, for passing the resolution in support of International Women's Day and would like to take this opportunity to speak to it for just a couple of minutes.

I want to thank Representative MARY FALLIN, the lead Republican cosponsor and the Republican co-chair of the Women's Caucus, for her tireless support and work to bring this resolution to the floor. It's been my pleasure to work with her on this bill, and I am sure it's the first of many that we will work together through the caucus, where I am the Democratic co-chair, to advance the goals of women.

Also, I would like to acknowledge the caucus vice-Chairs, Representative GWEN MOORE, Representative KAY

GRANGER, and I am honored to have this resolution be the first of the must-pass legislative agenda items to make it to the House floor with such remarkable bipartisan support.

Each year countries around the world mark March 8 as International Women's Day, as a day to recognize the contributions and impact that women have made to our world's history, to recognize those women who have worked together for gender equality and to acknowledge the work that is yet to be done. Over the years, women have made significant strides.

All over the world and throughout history we have, they have consistently contributed to their economies, participated in their governments and improved the quality of life of their families and of their nations.

In 2007 Congresswoman NANCY PELOSI was elected the first woman Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives. In 2006 I attended the inauguration of Michelle Bachelet, the first woman President of Chile, and visited the Liberian President, Ellen Johnson-Sirleaf, the first woman president in Africa's history.

In the 111th Congress, we have an all-time high of 74 women in Congress, a 35 percent increase from just 8 years ago. But women still only make up about 16 percent of the House of Representatives.

In the U.S., we have made significant strides in education. Women now graduate from high school at higher rates and earn bachelor's or higher degrees at greater rates than men.

While American women earn more high school and bachelor's degrees than men, two-thirds of the 876 million illiterate individuals in the world are women. Two-thirds of the 125 million school-age children not attending school worldwide are girls. Girls are less likely to complete school than boys elsewhere around the globe.

Women are making progress in business and make up 12 percent of the current CEOs of the Fortune 500 companies, but, still, a long way to go.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentlewoman has expired.

Mr. BERMAN. I would be pleased to yield an additional minute to the gentlelady.

Ms. SCHAKOWSKY. Globally, women work two-thirds of the world's working hours and produce half of the world's food, and still we earn only 1 percent of the world's income and own less than 1 percent of the world's property.

Of the 300 million people living in poverty, 70 percent are girls and women. Millions of women and girls are trafficked, physically abused, sexually abused, or face the threat of violence every day.

Although Congress passed the PROTECT Act to prevent trafficking in Iraq, Darfur, Afghanistan and many other places around the world, we still see that women and girls tend to be the targets of extreme violence, brutality, and intimidation.

So, Mr. Speaker, it's important that Congress recognize the importance of March 8. I am so glad that we passed this resolution. I am grateful to the Congress for recognizing International Women's Day, which we just celebrated on March 8.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. Mr. Speaker, I'd like to yield 3 minutes to a member of the Committee on Foreign Affairs—and they are all gentle people in South Carolina—the gentleman from South Carolina (Mr. INGLIS.)

Mr. INGLIS. I thank the distinguished ranking member for that glowing recommendation of my great State. We are here today to recognize the plight of the Tibetan people. Several speakers have already mentioned incredible stories of the indomitable human spirit.

One story was told to me earlier today by a staff member who was visiting in China, and tells a story of going to a Tibetan temple where, during the Cultural Revolution, the people of that town took their food rations and the grain that would have been food for them and put it in a temple in order to hide a statue of a Buddha so as to protect it from desecration by the Chinese Communists. Many of those townspeople starved to death as a result of giving up those food rations.

That is a story of the indomitable power of the human conscience and the tragedy that comes when nations try to defy that basic human right. So we are here today to celebrate the spirit of the Tibetan people and to call on the Communist Chinese to give greater political rights and economic opportunities and respect the dignity of the Tibetan people.

As we consider this resolution right now, the Chinese government has forbidden foreign journalists and tourists from entering Tibetan areas under their control. A massive crackdown is underway that involves beefed-up paramilitary forces deployed throughout the area and a deliberate disruption of normal cell phone service to prevent reports from leaking out.

For all practical purposes, as we have heard here earlier today, Tibet is under an unofficial state of martial law, 50 years after the Dalai Lama fled into exile. From March 2008 to June 2008, Chinese officials disclosed that authorities detained more than 4,400 Tibetans for allegedly rioting, the vast majority of whom are known to have engaged in peaceful protests.

A Tibetan NGO reported that a total of more than 65,000 Tibetans have been detained in 2008, and over a thousand of whose whereabouts and well-being remains unknown, many of whom are monks and nuns.

According to an August 21 report from the Tibetan government-in-exile, at least 218 Tibetans died between March and June of 2008 as a result of the Chinese police using lethal force against protesters or from severe abuse, including torture while in detention.

Mr. Speaker, we in this Congress should rise in unanimous support of the people of Tibet and present a unified force of the Congress and the Obama administration to unambiguously condemn the Chinese government's ongoing crackdown in Tibet. We must also convey a clear and consistent message to Beijing that says this: Progress in talks with the Dalai Lama and bringing meaningful autonomy and religious freedom to Tibet is an essential benchmark that China must meet in order to advance relations with the United States.

I thank the gentlelady for yielding.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I am pleased to yield 3 minutes to the chairman of the Human Rights Commission, the gentleman from Massachusetts (Mr. MCGOVERN).

Mr. MCGOVERN. Thank you. Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of this important resolution, and I want to thank my friend, Congressman RUSH HOLT, Speaker NANCY PELOSI, and the chairman and ranking member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee for their leadership in the long struggle for freedom, dignity, and human rights in Tibet.

Mr. Speaker, for six decades the history of Tibet has been marked by violence. Even before 1949, the People's Liberation Army of China entered the eastern areas of Tibet during the Long March. In 1959, they finally occupied the capital of Lhasa.

Fifty years ago, on March 10, the Tibetan people rose up in Lhasa against Chinese rule. The backlash was furious and brutal. On March 17, the Dalai Lama fled Lhasa for his own safety, joined by some 80,000 Tibetans, for life in exile. Tens of thousands who remained were killed or imprisoned.

Thanks to the thriving exile communities in India, Europe, and the United States, Tibetan cultural identity, language, and religion have survived. They have focused world attention on the Tibetan struggle. But each and every year, the situation inside Tibet grows worse, with more repression, more arrests, more displacement, more deliberate destruction of the Tibetan language, culture, and religion.

One year ago, new protests rose up in Tibet. They were the result of greater controls over religious and cultural activity, development that mainly benefited Chinese migrants, and forced resettlement of farmers and nomads. Thousands and thousands were arrested. To date, there has been no full accounting by Chinese authorities of those arrested, detained, tried, sentenced, or released, and no access to those detained by the International Committee of the Red Cross or other international observers, and all the time the Tibetan people daily become more of a minority in their own land.

Mr. Speaker, as the new cochair of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission, it is humbling to follow in the footsteps of Thomas Lantos. The Congressional Human Rights Caucus, which he founded, was the very first to give the Dalai Lama a voice on Capitol Hill in 1987.

On this 50th anniversary, let's be very, very clear that the American people in this House stand with His Holiness. We will not rest until meaningful and full autonomy for the Tibetan people is achieved—and the Dalai Lama and his people can fulfill their dream of returning home to Tibet.

I thank the chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee for generously giving me this time.

Mr. Speaker, I rise today in strong support of this important resolution, which recognizes the plight of the Tibetan people on the 50th Anniversary of His Holiness the Dalai Lama's exile and calls for a sustained multilateral effort toward a peaceful solution to the Tibet issue. I thank my friend RUSH HOLT, and the distinguished Ranking Member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs, as well the Chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, for their leadership on human rights and for bringing this resolution expeditiously to the floor.

Mr. Speaker, last Friday my friend and distinguished colleague, FRANK WOLF and I were formally reappointed Co-Chairs of the Tom Lantos Human Rights Commission, the successor body of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus, which I had the honor to co-chair with FRANK WOLF after our former colleague Tom Lantos passed away.

I mention this because of the historic significance of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus in getting the voice of the Tibetan people heard in the United States.

In 1987, it was Congressman Tom Lantos who had invited His Holiness the Dalai Lama to attend a meeting of the Congressional Human Rights Caucus as the first official government entity in the United States, despite stiff opposition from many quarters including the U.S. Administration to do so. Many were fearful what such an invitation would do to our bilateral relations with the People's Republic of China, and the PRC used every conceivable tool to prevent this historic meeting from happening.

Those voices of those critics in the United States soon fell quiet after the meeting took place, as the moral authority of his Holiness and his persistently peaceful way to fight for meaningful autonomy of the Tibetan people attracted more and more support and with the American people and in Congress.

Twenty years later, it was this body that awarded His Holiness the Congressional Gold Medal in recognition of his life-long dedication to the causes of peace and non-violent resolution to the Tibet issue.

Mr. Speaker, the history of Tibet has long been marked by violence. Even before 1949, the People's Liberation Army of China entered the eastern areas of the traditional Tibetan territory on The Long March. In 1951, they finally occupied the Tibetan capital of Lhasa.

On this day fifty years ago, the Tibetan people rose up in Lhasa against Chinese rule, and the backlash was furious and brutal. As a consequence, His Holiness the Dalai Lama fled Lhasa on March 17, 1959, for his own safety. He was joined by some 80,000 Tibetans in exile. Tens of thousands of Tibetans who remained were either killed or imprisoned.

The human rights situation became so dire that in 1959, 1961 and 1965 (before China became a member of the United Nations), the UN General Assembly passed resolutions condemning the human rights violations in Tibet and affirming Tibetans' right to self-determination.

Supported by thriving exile communities in India, the United States, Europe, Tibetan cultural identity, language and religion has survived and the world is paying attention to the Tibetan struggle.

In 2002 Congress passed the Tibetan Policy Act, the cornerstone of U.S. policy toward Tibet. The legislation codified the position of Special Coordinator for Tibetan Issues in our State Department, to ensure that U.S. policy promotes a dialogue between the Chinese government and the representatives of the Dalai Lama, and this Act and its policies must remain the cornerstone of our policy regarding Tibet also under this Administration.

The policy of the United States Government has to be to continue promoting substantive dialogue between the Government of the People's Republic of China and the Dalai Lama or his representatives to resolve peacefully the dispute and to allow for the return of the Dalai Lama.

However, the United States cannot stand as a mere neutral facilitator in this dialogue, when the Chinese government time and time again uses these proceedings to hold out hope, only to drag out negotiations with His Holiness without ever making any progress or without ever achieving any concrete results. All this, while the Tibetan people become a minority in their own territory because of government-controlled migration, and the Tibetan culture is further eroded.

We cannot stand by neutrally, when the Chinese government kidnaps a six-year-old child, Gedhun Choekyi Nyima, whom His Holiness has recognized as Panchen Lama, and allow the Chinese government to replace him with a more convenient Panchen Lama of their own choice.

On this 50th anniversary, let's be very clear that the American people and this Congress will always stand unwaveringly with His Holiness in this peaceful endeavors, and will not rest until meaningful and full autonomy for the Tibetan people is achieved, and His Holiness can fulfill his dream of returning to Tibet.

Mr. Speaker, Tom Lantos' voice has fallen silent, but we cannot let our voices to fall silent too. We always need to speak out for the Tibetan people.

[From the Boston Globe, Mar. 10, 2009]

SAD ANNIVERSARIES IN TIBET

The authorities in Beijing are nervous today, fearful that remembrance of things past will incite new disorder. They have good reason: On this date two tragic anniversaries are commemorated. First, of the massacres Chinese troops perpetrated 50 years ago, killing 86,000 Tibetans, to crush a Tibetan revolt against harsh Chinese rule. And March 10 is also the one-year anniversary of China's violent crackdown on Tibetans protesting for cultural and religious freedom.

China's attempts to expunge Tibet's separate identity cast doubt on Beijing's claim to be a rising power with benign intentions. There is a whiff of colonialism in China's treatment of Tibet and Tibetans.

Chinese policymakers are not content to deny Tibet's distinct identity. They demean the ethical and spiritual values of Tibetan Buddhism, and they refuse to grant Tibetans even the limited autonomy proposed by their leader-in-exile, the Dalai Lama. The core objective of Beijing's Tibet policy is to submerge the Tibetan population under waves of Han Chinese migrants who receive special incentives to settle in Tibetan areas.

Given China's efforts toward a demographic smothering of Tibetans in their homeland, it is no wonder that Chinese officials feel compelled to lie, brazenly, about the temperate program for reconciliation proposed by the Dalai Lama. In talks last fall with Chinese representatives, the Dalai Lama's envoys presented 11 proposals for limited Tibetan autonomy. The Chinese refused to discuss a single one of the 11 ideas, pretending that all 11 were thinly disguised demands for independence.

Beijing takes this rigid position—repeating the transparent falsehood that the Dalai Lama really wants political independence for Tibet—because Chinese policy is to make no concessions to the Tibetan government-in-exile and instead to wait for the spiritual leader of Tibetan Buddhists to die. The flawed premise of this policy is that Tibetan resistance to Chinese dominance will evaporate after the Dalai Lama is gone. But as the clashes last March in Tibetan regions demonstrated, younger Tibetans are likely to be less patient, and less devoted to nonviolence, than the Dalai Lama and his government-in-exile in Dharamsala, India.

China's rulers are fortunate to have the chance to come to terms with the Dalai Lama on Tibetan autonomy within China. Few other governments confronting oppressed ethnic or religious groups have been so lucky.

President Obama should appoint a special envoy for Tibet, someone who can help China's leaders see that it is in their own interest to give Tibetans the cultural and religious autonomy the Dalai Lama has proposed.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. To wrap up our side of the aisle on this important resolution, I yield such time as he may consume to the co-Chair of the Tom Lantos Congressional Human Rights Commission, the gentleman from Virginia (Mr. WOLF).

Mr. WOLF. I want to thank the ranking member and also the chairman for their leadership on this issue, and also thank Speaker PELOSI for her comments here today and also for the comments that she made yesterday.

In August of 1997, I traveled to Tibet, making it known to no one that I was a Member of Congress. I spoke to Buddhist monks and nuns on the street and in monasteries who have been brutally tortured in the infamous Drapchi prison. We drove by the Drapchi prison and they told us of the torture of pulling out fingernails and everything else, just simply for professing allegiance to the Dalai Lama.

The Chinese government sends Tibetan children to China for education to learn Chinese ways. The Chinese government forbids faithful Buddhists from displaying pictures of the Dalai Lama. There was one person in a Buddhist monastery who showed me the picture and then put it away quickly.

What the Chinese government is doing to Tibet is cultural genocide—and I hope the foreign minister, who's in town today, hears it. It is cultural genocide—systematically destroying the fabric of the Tibetan society.

Last March, the Tibetan people took to the streets to protest the iron-fisted rule of the Chinese government over Tibet; a harsh crackdown, violent repression, and a year later, 1,200 Tibetans remain unaccounted for. Where are they? Let's ask the foreign minister when he goes to the State Department, Where are they?

For over a decade, the United States has asked China for a consulate in Lhasa, the capital of Tibet, and China has refused. Yet we continue to allow the Chinese government to build new consulates across the United States. We should not allow China to build any new consulates in the United States until China allows the U.S. to build a consulate in Lhasa, period, end of story.

It is with a heavy heart that we commemorate the Dalai Lama's flight to Dharmasala. I believe one day we will stand here—and, if this debate had taken place before, Tom Lantos would be here, whereby people would give Tom Lantos the credit for leading the effort whereby Tibet will be, basically—not basically, but Tibet will be free.

Ms. JACKSON-LEE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I rise in support of H. Res. 226, recognizing the Tibetan People on the anniversary of the Dalai Lama's exile. As a member of the House Committee on Foreign Affairs I am pleased to join my colleague RUSH HOLT in his sponsorship of this important resolution. As we move to engage the government in Beijing I would only hope that the United States' foreign policy once again becomes a policy of peace and goodwill and not a harbinger to international hostilities.

It is no accident that the first foreign trip of our new Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, was to Asia. China is integral to the re-establishment of American foreign policy in Asia. As we engage the Chinese it is important that we address human rights issues as well.

The Dalai Lama has emerged on the international scene as a force for human rights around the world. He has exhibited a grace and sense of compassion throughout the strife that has visited his homeland.

For more than 2,000 years Tibet maintained a sovereign national identity distinct from the national identity of China. In 1949, however, Chinese troops invaded and occupied Tibet and have remained ever since.

According to the State Department and numerous international human rights organizations, the Chinese government continues to commit widespread and well-documented human rights abuses in both China and Tibet. China also has yet to demonstrate its willingness to abide by internationally accepted norms of freedom of belief, expression, and association by repealing or amending laws and decrees that restrict those freedoms. We urge the Chinese government to seek conciliation with its many different groups, as opposed to employing further government restrictions.

In addition, while China is a signatory to the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights, the United Nations Convention Relating to Refugees, and the United Nations Convention Against Torture and Other Forms of Cruel, Inhuman, or Degrading Treatment or Punishment, in practice, the Chinese government has often not followed the treaties.

March 10th marks the 50th anniversary of an uprising against Chinese rule by the Tibetan people—an uprising that forced the 14th Dalai Lama into exile in India. On the anniversary last year, Tibetan Buddhist monks and nuns in and around Lhasa were blocked by Chinese authorities from staging demonstrations and were met with force by the Chinese authorities. Protests then spread inside the Tibet Autonomous Region and other Tibetan areas of China.

Over the years, talks between envoys of the Dalai Lama and representatives of the Chinese government have failed to achieve any concrete and substantive results.

This resolution recognizes the Tibetan people for their perseverance and endurance in face of hardship and adversity in Tibet and for creating a vibrant and democratic community in exile that sustains the Tibetan identity.

The measure recognizes the government and people of India for their generosity toward the Tibetan refugee population for the last 50 years. It calls upon the Chinese government to respond to the Dalai Lama's initiatives to find a lasting solution to the Tibetan issue, cease its repression of the Tibetan people, and to lift immediately the policies imposed on Tibetans, including patriotic education campaigns, detention and abuses of those freely expressing political views or relaying news about local conditions, and limitations on travel and communications.

Finally, Mr. Speaker, the resolution calls upon the administration to recommit to a sustained effort consistent with the Tibetan Policy Act of 2002, that employs diplomatic, programmatic, and multilateral resources to press the Chinese government to respect the Tibetans' identity and the human rights of the Tibetan people. Mr. Speaker, we must continue to engage the government in Beijing at all levels and Tibet must be at the top of the list. Again, I wish to thank my colleagues for their work on this matter.

Ms. ROS-LEHTINEN. I yield back the balance of my time.

Mr. BERMAN. Mr. Speaker, I yield back the balance of my time, and urge a "yea" vote.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER PRO TEMPORE

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. ADLER of New Jersey) (during the vote). Two minutes remain in the vote.

□ 1538

So (two-thirds being in the affirmative) the rules were suspended and the resolution was agreed to.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

A motion to reconsider was laid on the table.

OMNIBUS PUBLIC LANDS MANAGEMENT ACT

(Mr. LUJÁN asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. LUJÁN. Mr. Speaker, I know we came very close to passing the Public Lands Omnibus bill this morning, and I rise to urge this Congress to move forward with this bill and its important goals.

America's vast landscapes are a big part of what make our country beautiful and unique. Congress has an historic opportunity to protect these beautiful landscapes and the natural resources associated with them by passing the Omnibus Public Lands Management Act of 2009.

Since the day that President Theodore Roosevelt founded Yellowstone National Park, the Federal Government's responsibility to preserve and protect natural lands has not been a Democratic or Republican priority, it has been an American priority.

The Omnibus Public Lands Management Act will benefit all of us. It allows for the preservation of historic sites, forest lands and wildlife habitats across the Nation, the assessment of land and natural resources, and preserves access for hunters and sportsmen.

This important bill represents years of work by Members of the House and Senate from many States and from both parties, including two Senators from my home State, Senator JEFF BINGAMAN and my predecessor, Senator TOM UDALL, in cooperation with local communities.

It is important that we join together to protect and enhance the natural, cultural and historical resources which are integral to the identity of America.

HONORING SAM HOGLE

(Mr. GINGREY of Georgia asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. GINGREY of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize one of my constituents, Sam Hogle from Marietta, Georgia, for achieving the highest honor for a Boy Scout, the rank of Eagle Scout.

As a Boy Scout myself, I know that achieving this rank is a significant moment in the life of any young man. However, in Sam's case, the accomplishment is even more inspiring because Sam was born blind. This circumstance could have added a significant obstacle to his goal of becoming an Eagle Scout. However, Sam would not let it get in his way, calling his blindness an inconvenience, but not a disability that could keep him from achieving his dream.

Armed with this positive attitude and incredible determination, Sam has become an excellent student, an Eagle Scout, and an asset to his community.

Sam's Eagle Scout project shows exactly what kind of young man he is. For his project, Sam planned, raised the funds, and led a campout for visually impaired boys. He wanted these boys to learn that they could also enjoy the outdoors and experience the same kind of fun and learning that he has by being a Boy Scout.

For many of these middle school boys, it is their first campout. Sam's campout was extremely successful. The boys had a wonderful, wonderful time. I ask my colleagues to join me in congratulating Sam Hogle on achieving the rank of Eagle Scout.

HONORING GEORGE W. "BOB" GILL

(Mr. KLEIN of Florida asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. KLEIN of Florida. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to honor the life of George W. "Bob" Gill, an extraordinary resident of my congressional district who helped build Fort Lauderdale into the world-renowned tourism destination it is today.

Tourism is the economic engine of south Florida, and Mr. Gill was a pioneer in the field. After opening six area hotels over 60 years, he even earned the nickname "the Dean of Fort Lauderdale tourism." Mr. Gill had a knack for marketing and a sharp business sense. His ideas helped to bring vacationing northerners to enjoy Fort Lauderdale's beautiful beaches. He created some of the most iconic hotels in south Florida, including the Yankee Clipper and the Jolly Roger, the first hotels in the area to offer air-conditioning way back in 1952.

Mr. Speaker, Mr. Gill lived a long and rich life, passing away last week at the age of 93. Our thoughts and prayers are with his daughter Linda and all the friends and family that Mr. Gill left behind. He left an enduring legacy on south Florida, and Mr. Gill will be missed.

SALVADORAN PRESIDENTIAL ELECTIONS

(Mr. FRANKS of Arizona asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. FRANKS of Arizona. Mr. Speaker, the Salvadoran presidential elections will be held on March 15. If the FMLN wins the election, it would be devastating for the people of El Salvador as well as for the relationship between our two countries.

FMLN party leadership is expected to follow the anti-U.S. agenda of Venezuela's radical president, Hugo Chavez, and join Cuba in a pro-Chavez, pro-Cuba, pro-Iran axis.

Moreover, Mr. Speaker, the FMLN is a pro-terrorist party with direct ties to sponsors of terror. After the 9/11 attacks, they marched in their capital city to celebrate the attack by al Qaeda, and they burned the American flag. The leader of that march was Salvador Sanchez Ceren, who is now the FMLN's candidate for vice president.

Mr. Speaker, should the pro-terrorist FMLN party replace the current government in El Salvador, the United States, in the interest of national security, would be required to re-evaluate our policy toward El Salvador, including cash remittance and immigration policies, to compensate for the fact there will no longer be a reliable counterpart in the Salvadoran government.

It is my hope that the El Salvadoran people continue the history of a positive relationship between our two countries and ensure that they elect pro-freedom, pro-peace, life-loving officials to their government.

PROBLEMS IN CENTRAL AMERICA

(Mr. BURTON of Indiana asked and was given permission to address the House for 1 minute.)

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. I would like to follow up on what my colleague said. There is a real problem down in Central America. We have a communist government in Nicaragua controlled by the Ortigas. We have in Venezuela Mr. Chavez. And we also have other countries down there, like Bolivia with Mr. Morales that are moving to the left. If El Salvador moves to the left like that, I think it is going to be very bad for not only that part of the world but the entire hemisphere.

But I would like to point out one thing. If I were talking to the people of El Salvador, they get $4 billion a year in money coming from the United States into their country to help the people who live down there. That money, in my opinion, will be cut dramatically if they elect a leftist government. Those moneys coming from here to there I am confident will be cut, and I hope that the people of El Salvador are aware of that because it will have a tremendous impact on individuals and their economy.

SPECIAL ORDERS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, and under a previous order of the House, the following Members will be recognized for 5 minutes each.

INTERNATIONAL WOMEN'S DAY

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentlewoman from California (Ms. WOOLSEY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Ms. WOOLSEY. Mr. Speaker, earlier this month, men, women and children came together to celebrate International Women's Day. Since 1909, government civic groups and local communities have taken time to reflect on the role of women and the unique challenges that we face.

This year, the women of Iraq find themselves still facing hard odds, great odds, even with the decline in violence. Many women still are displaced from their homes, from their employment, and their communities. Their children still lack the basic necessities of clean water, electricity, health care, and access to education. Every day is an act of heroism for those women.

All too often, the role of women is ignored or undervalued. Fortunately, our new Secretary of State, Hillary Rodham Clinton, has placed a high priority on women's participation at all levels of decision-making. The Secretary has selected eight outstanding women to be honored as recipients of the International Women of Courage Award. This is the only award within the Department of State that pays tribute to outstanding women leaders worldwide. It recognizes the courage and leadership shown as they struggle for social justice and for human rights.

One of these women is an exceptional Iraqi woman, Suaad Allami. Ms. Allami is a prominent lawyer who fights against the erosion of women's rights and defends the most disadvantaged. She founded the NGO Women for Progress and the Sadr City Women's Center, which offers free medical care, literacy education, vocational training, and legislative advocacy. Few of us, Mr. Speaker, can imagine the indescribable challenges of women in her position.

U.S. diplomatic and military officials have lauded her for many things, including her bravery. And they always point to her work outside the Green Zone. The State Department actually pointed to one shining example of her work: When Ms. Allami learned about the extent of alleged human rights abuses at Kadhamiya Women's Prison, she boldly conducted an unannounced inspection, CNN crew in tow, without regard for the potential for backlash against herself. The Minister for Human Rights shut the prison down 2 months later.

I am pleased that the State Department and Secretary Clinton singled out Ms. Allami for her work. My only wish is that more women, whose bravery occurs every single day, hour by hour, through their acts of courage and just living in Iraq, would receive the same recognition.

The women of Iraq have shown amazing strength and courage. I hope that with the redeployment of our troops and military contractors, all Iraqis will have the hope and security of a prosperous new future.

BORDER WAR CONTINUES

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. POE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. POE of Texas. Mr. Speaker, I bring you news from the second front; that is, the border between the United States and Mexico.

This past weekend, I was the guest of two of our border sheriffs in Texas, Sheriff Oscar Carrillo from Culberson County, Texas, and Sheriff Arvin West from Hudspeith County, Texas. These two massive counties are the size of the States of Connecticut and Rhode Island put together. They are the two counties just east of El Paso County.

I was there to see the situation on the Texas-Mexico border firsthand by the people who help protect the border, and that is the border sheriffs, along with the Border Patrol. Smugglers that are coming across from Mexico, bringing in drugs, are relentless in their endeavor to bring narcotics into the United States.

The cross-border travelers that are captured in these two counties, most of the people in the county jails, are these foreign nationals bringing drugs or committing other crimes. Let me make this clear: Most of the people in these two county jails are foreigners that have committed felonies or misdemeanors in the United States. In fact, Arvin West told me that if he didn't have cross-border travelers in his county jail, he wouldn't need a jail, except one cell for one person. There are over 500 people in the county jails that are foreign nationals. So that's how bad the problem is continuing to be.

The drug cartel are smugglers, Mr. Speaker. They smuggle into the United States not only drugs, but people. It is all intertwined. And all because of money, they are bringing those individuals and those drugs into the country. But also, they smuggle back to Mexico two commodities, and the two commodities they smuggle are guns and money. They are in the smuggling business. They are very well organized.

Sara Carter, from the Washington Times, reports that the drug cartels have in their employment over 100,000 foot soldiers; that's just a little bit less than the entire Mexican Army. They have better vehicles, they have better weaponry, and they have a whole lot more money than our border protectors do on this side. They have gotten so sophisticated now that they don't let any drugs come into the United States unless they're tracked by GPS devices.

The drug runners are committed—it's almost a religion to them—to bring drugs into the United States. Let me give you an example of that.

I understand now, after being down on the border, the sheriffs were telling me that the drug runners pray to a narco saint—that's right—Jesus Malverde. He was an individual that died in 1909. He was supposed to be a Mexican national that helped the poor, et cetera. But now there are shrines in different parts of Mexico where these drug runners in the drug cartels pray to this individual for safety in crossing the border into the United States so they can bring drugs. He's supposed to be the patron saint of travelers—I thought it was St. Christopher. But be that as it may, it shows how relentless these people are. Now, just to clarify, the Catholic Church says Jesus Malverde is not a saint, has never been, and never will be. But it shows you that it is a religion to these people to bring drugs and other people into the country.

But there is also good news from the border. The border county sheriffs, the 20 county sheriffs in Texas, have put up cameras along the border, and those cameras are tied to the Internet. And so a person can log on to a Web site called blueservo.net, and they can actually see these cameras and they can track people coming into the United States. They have had over 43,000 people log in just since this thing started a few weeks ago, and they are as far away as Australia. An Australian was watching it, and he sent an e-mail to the head of this association and said, hey mate, we've been watching your border from Australia and trying to help out you guys.

So, what is occurring is, if somebody sees traffic—drug smugglers, illegals, whatever—coming into the United States, they have a Web site, an e-mail, and they can e-mail the border sheriff in that county, and either the sheriffs or the Border Patrol goes out and arrests the bad guys coming into the country. Just as this has started, four major drug busts have occurred, and 30 incidents where illegal crossers were coming in were repelled and they went back across the border. Of course the cynics in the open-border crowd are against this; they're against anything that seems to work.

I want to commend the Border Sheriffs Coalition, the 20 of them, especially Oscar Carrillo, Arvin West and Sigi Gonzalez, because they are doing a job that is a thankless job, but it is important to protect the integrity of the United States.

And what we need to do is to help them by putting more people, more boots on the ground, more Border Patrol, more sheriff's deputies, and even the National Guard, if necessary, to help them.

I would like to insert into the RECORD the 20 border sheriffs in Texas that are protecting the border.

WHERE IS THE TARP MONEY GOING?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. BURTON) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BURTON of Indiana. Mr. Speaker, the people of this country last year saw us appropriate $700 billion for what they called TARP. And that money was supposed to be used to help out financial institutions that were in difficult trouble. It was also supposed to help out with the home problem, the houses that were being foreclosed on. And those of us in Congress that didn't support it said we didn't support it because there was no plan. We didn't know where the money was going to be spent.

So today we had a hearing on this. And during that hearing we asked questions about where the money was allocated and who got it and what they did with it. And we found out some very interesting things. Eight billion dollars was loaned from the TARP money to Citigroup—they got a lot more than that, I think they got about $35 or $40 billion—but Citigroup loaned $8 billion from the TARP funds to Dubai. Dubai is one of the wealthiest countries in the world, and their public sector borrowed $8 billion from Citigroup, here in the United States, that had just gotten about $30 or $40 billion from the taxpayers in the TARP funds. And that just made my hair stand on end. Why would the taxpayers in this country want to give money to Citigroup and then have them turn right around and loan it to Dubai, half-way around the world, which is a very wealthy country? One billion dollars was invested by the J.P. Morgan Treasury Services in development of cash management and trade finance solutions in India. There's another billion, another thousand million dollars, that J.P. Morgan took from the American taxpayer in the TARP funds and then loaned it to an organization called Trade Finance Solutions in India.

And then $7 billion was invested by the Bank of America in the China Construction Bank Corporation. Now, China has quite a bit of our money already and quite a bit of our business, and I don't know why in the world American taxpayers should be having their money that is given to the Bank of America to keep them afloat to be given or loaned to the China Construction Bank Corporation. It just doesn't make any sense to me.

We had $700 billion that was put into the TARP fund. Of the $700 billion, there are only about eight or nine places that we know where the money went. There are another 297 places that are unaccounted for. We had a hearing today to try to find out where the money went and what it went for, and we couldn't find it, but we know that there are 297 areas where we don't have any idea what the money was used for or where it went.

In addition to that, we had other expenses or places where we put our money. We put $14 billion into the auto bailout, and there's going to be another $30 billion in that before this is over; $780 billion, I believe it was, that went into the account that was supposed to stimulate the economy, the stimulus bill, and that is almost another trillion dollars. We passed a $410 billion supplemental yesterday, and we're going to pass a $3.6 trillion budget before too long that's going to include 660 some billion dollars for a new socialized national health care program.

The reason I bring all this up, my colleagues, is because I think the American people and my colleagues ought to know that we are spending trillions of dollars of taxpayers' money, and in many, many cases we don't have a clue where it went. And I think that this government and this administration and the Congress should demand, demand, that the TARP funds and all the other funds that are being expended by the taxpayer to take care of these financial institutions to keep our economy above water and to help bail out homeowners who are losing their homes ought to be accounted for. Most of that money so far, as far as I can tell, isn't doing anything to stimulate economic growth or to help the homeowners or the financial institutions to solve this problem.

And in addition to that, the Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Geithner, said that they're going to have to put another $2 to $3 trillion into the financial institutions to keep them buoyed up and survivable.

Now, just add all that together in your mind and you're looking at $5 or $6 or $7 trillion, and that money is not there. We're going to have to print it. It's going to be passed on to our kids in the form of tax increases or inflation. We need to have an accounting.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. DRIEHAUS). Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from North Carolina (Mr. MCHENRY) is recognized for 5 minutes.

(Mr. MCHENRY addressed the House. His remarks will appear hereafter in the Extensions of Remarks.)

OUR HEALTH CARE FINANCING SYSTEM

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Georgia (Mr. BROUN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. BROUN of Georgia. Mr. Speaker, our health care financing system in America is broken. We have the best health care system in the world, but the financing system is going to degrade, and it's going to wreck the quality of health care if we don't do something about it.

I come before you this evening and talk about this issue that is of vital importance to everyone in this body and every American, and that is health care.

The new administration has stated that health care reform is going to be their main priority for the rest of the year, and I applaud the administration for undertaking this ambitious endeavor to finally reform this broken system of health care financing.

Our current health care system, with a reliance on third-party, or employer-provided, insurance, is a relic of World War II. As time marches on, we are finding that individual patients, which should be the primary concern of any health care system, are being relegated to the back seat in the decision-making process, leaving it up to their physicians to try to obtain payment from insurance providers, with varying degrees of success. In fact, insurance bureaucrats, both government and private, are currently making health care decisions and are already rationing health care, and these folks are not even medically trained.

Instead, if true health care reform is to be at all successful, we must refocus our efforts on putting patients front and center in all decisions that relate to their health. The patient and the physician should be deciding the best course of action as it relates to the patient, just as the patient should be the main arbiter with their insurance provider. Once people are finally allowed to assume responsibility for their own medical well-being, they will be able to demand upfront an explanation of charges for potential tests and procedures. Only in a fully patient-centered system can we bring the market forces of accountability and transparency into the health care system that exists in other areas of our economy.

I envision a way in which we can build a vibrant health care system in our country, where physicians are free to practice medicine without the massive government burdens that our current health care system weighs them down with. Our new system will still have a vital place for a third-party payment structure to cover extraordinary or even catastrophic procedures. But the basic tenet must be simple and straightforward: The patient must always come first, and the patient must ultimately be responsible for their own health care well-being.

The task set before us is enormous, but it is attainable. Failure is not an option, but a fate worse than failure for the future of our country and its people is absolutely making the wrong choice.

I cannot stress this enough. Our country's health care system must not follow the ill-advised example of other western countries, specifically France, England, and Sweden, with an utter reliance on the government to provide health care for every individual. This is socialism in its most basic form and is directly responsible for burdening these countries with such massive financial obligations that the only remedies are radical changes and cuts or bankruptcy. Not to mention that the standard of care that these countries provide is an inferior one.

True, our current health care system is rapidly going bankrupt and bankrupting every American in the process. But we spend 2½ times more money than any other country in the world right now. Just imagine how much we'll spend if we follow Europe's lead and totally socialize our health care system.

So we must not follow their reckless example as we work to change our own health care financing. But we must not waver either in the face of this enormous task set before us. And make no mistake about its enormity.

I have never encountered a problem, except for national defense, where a solution from the government has turned out better than a solution from the private sector. That said, we should not stand for trading in government bureaucrats for insurance company bureaucrats. I cannot stress this enough: The ultimate decisions must be in the hands of every individual patient. Physicians should be in charge of explaining the benefits and risks of each and every test and procedure to the patients, and the patient will decide how to proceed. When necessary, the patient will consult with their insurance provider, seeking guidance about extraordinary procedures or hospital stays or whatever is required.

We must take steps to change our health care system, but socialism is not the answer. Let's work together to find solutions that are patient-focused and not government-focused.

THE $10 BILLION LANDS BILL: ANOTHER BIG GOVERNMENT BOON-DOGGLE

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Tennessee (Mr. DUNCAN) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. DUNCAN. Mr. Speaker, today the House, unfortunately, voted overwhelmingly in favor of the Senate lands bill, a $10 billion bill that we simply cannot afford. Fortunately, it did not pass with the required two-thirds vote necessary for passage under suspension of the rules. However, all this really means is that it will now be taken up under regular order, where it should have been in the first place and which requires only a majority vote. Thus there is no question this bill will pass the next time it's taken up.

But I hope more people across this land will start thinking about what we are doing to ourselves. I realize that since we are now throwing around trillions, spending money like never before, that maybe people don't really think that $10 billion sounds like that much anymore. But to anyone who stops to think about it, $10 billion is still an awful lot of money, and it becomes even more when you realize that we are having to borrow all this money we're spending since we surely don't have surplus cash, and we are now 12 trillion 104 billion dollars in debt at the Federal level. I realize that 12 trillion 104 billion is an incomprehensible figure. But what it really means is that we will soon not be able to pay all of our Social Security and veterans' pensions and all the other things we promised our own people with money that will buy anything.

I used to say what we were doing to our children and grandchildren was terrible. But now I believe that tough economic times, already here for many, are going to come for almost everyone in the next 10 or 15 years, if not sooner.

When a family gets deeply, head-over-heels in debt, it gets in even worse trouble if it goes out and greatly increases its spending even more. That is exactly the situation our Federal Government is in today, living way beyond its means.

This lands bill is a combination of 170 bills, which cost $10 billion in total. In addition to that, it is a luxury that we do not need and which will be very harmful in the long run. We already are having trouble funding and taking care of the Federal lands we have now. The National Park Service claims it has a $9 billion backlog on things it needs to do in our 379 national park units. It sounds great for a politician to create a park, but we now have so many parks at the Federal, State, and local levels that we cannot even come close to getting adequate use of them unless all of our people suddenly find a way to go on permanent vacations.

Another problem that few people think about is that we keep creating so many local and State parks, and expanding others, especially at the Federal level, that we are taking way too much land off the tax rolls. We keep decreasing private property at the same time the schools and all the other government agencies keep coming to us telling us they need more money.

These 170 bills, combined into one bill, create 2 million acres of new wilderness, 330,000 acres of national conservation areas, and restrict energy development on millions of acres.

The U.S. Chamber of Commerce says this bill "substantially hampers energy development and private property rights by withdrawing millions of acres of land from oil and gas exploration . . . shackling U.S. energy exploration and development at this critical time would substantially jeopardize America's already fragile economy."

It's going to drive up prices, utility bills, Mr. Speaker, and it's going to destroy jobs.

The Federal Government today owns about 30 percent of the land of this Nation. It has 84 million acres in the National Park System. It has 150 million acres in the Wildlife Refuge System. It has 193 million acres in the National Forest System. I could go on and on with other Federal lands, but it's not necessary.

Then State and local governments and quasi-governmental agencies control another 20 percent of the land. Half the land is now already in some type of public ownership now.

On top of all this, there are now 1,667 land trusts and 1,400 conservancy groups at least. These are figures from 2 years ago; so there may be more now. USA Today, which published these figures, said that these private trusts and conservancy groups control about 40 million acres and that they're taking over an average of more than 2½ million more each year. These lands are eventually sold or turned over to the government at great cost to the taxpayer and causing further increases in taxes on the property that remains in private hands. Then we're putting more and more restrictions or limitations on the private property that can be developed, thus driving up the cost of homes to astronomical levels in many areas.

Mr. Speaker, we are slowly but surely doing away with private property in this country. If we don't wake up and realize that private property is one of the keys to both our prosperity and our freedom, we are going to really cause serious problems for everyone except for the very wealthy.

ANNIVERSARY OF THE 1937 NATURAL GAS TRAGEDY OF NEW LONDON, TEXAS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Texas (Mr. GOHMERT) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. GOHMERT. Mr. Speaker, March 18 will mark the 72nd anniversary of what freshly graduated newscaster Walter Cronkite called the "worst school disaster in American history." I stand before the House today to commemorate those students and educators who so tragically lost their lives that afternoon as well as to encourage the survivors.

The 1930s saw many families in East Texas with hope as they fought to regain what had been lost in so many parts of the country during the Great Depression.

With the discovery of oil in northern Rusk County, the City of New London, Texas, boasted one of the richest rural school districts in America. They had just built a state-of-the-art school that would make any school district envious.

But at approximately 3:18 p.m. on March 18, 1937, many of those same families would lose forever the promise of youth while east Texans and people around the world would bear the pain of losing a community's entire generation.

It was on that date, at that time, the New London school did become the site of the worst school disaster in American history. In those days, natural gas had no odor. That odorless gas started leaking from a tap line and accumulated in the massive crawl space beneath the school building.

In an instant, a spark from a sanding machine in the basement ignited the gas, creating an explosion heard miles away. Witnesses said the building was lifted into the air.

When it came crashing down, its victims were buried in a mass of steel, concrete, brick and debris. Frantic parents, neighbors, oil-field roughnecks, and volunteers around the State ranging from Boy Scouts to Texas Rangers converged on the devastating scene. Many dug with nothing but their bare hands.

Men, women and children worked all through the night battling rain, fatigue and unimaginable grief. They worked to reach those buried underneath the mountain of twisted metal. Within 17 hours, all of the debris had been heroically removed, and all victims had been located.

A cenotaph, a tall monument, stands silently in New London across from the disaster site bearing the names of the 296 students, teachers and visitors who instantly lost their lives. The subsequent death count from injuries sustained that day brought the final count to 311.

Within weeks, the Texas legislature passed a law requiring that an odor be added to natural gas. That practice quickly spread worldwide, saving countless lives in the aftermath of that devastating loss. Now the odor added to natural gas is unmistakable and allows anyone to know instantly there is a leak requiring caution and repair.

This weekend we will have a formal observance, and it will be my honor to be with those amazing people of New London, Texas. We will pay tribute to those hundreds of young lives whose faces were full of hope and promise one moment, yet left lifeless moments later.

We will also honor those who heroically fought to rescue the victims, while we lend sympathy to those who bore the burden of tragic loss. We also honor those who have survived that day when their lives were forever changed.

May God bless their memory, may God heal the wounded memories, and may God bless those who have carried on in New London, Texas, ever since that heartbreaking day.

END PRACTICE OF EARMARKS

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under a previous order of the House, the gentleman from Arizona (Mr. FLAKE) is recognized for 5 minutes.

Mr. FLAKE. Mr. Speaker, today, President Obama made two major announcements. First, he wants serious earmark reform. In particular, he wants to get rid of earmarks that represent no-bid contracts to private companies.

Second, he will sign the $410 billion omnibus spending bill containing nearly 9,000 earmarks, several thousand of which represent no-bid contracts to private companies. It should not go unnoticed that the announcement to rein in earmarks was made to great fanfare when the ceremony to sign the earmark-laden omnibus into law was taking place in a quiet room away from public view.

So, Mr. Speaker, as much as we know we need adult supervision around here on the earmark question, I think it's safe to say that we are on our own. We can't expect the President to help us out that much. This is not a criticism of this President. The last President talked a lot about earmark reform but didn't carry a very big stick. In the end, he left it to us, and we didn't reform the process. We are in that same position today.

Mr. Speaker, the bill that's being signed into law today contains thousands and thousands of no-bid contracts to private companies. Many of those no-bid contracts to private companies will go to clients of the PMA Group, a lobbying firm that is currently under investigation by the U.S. Department of Justice. Yet we continued. We let it go in this bill.

So I think those of us who worry that we are not going to be serious about earmark reform this coming session have reason to be worried, despite the announcements to get serious about the prospect both by the President and by the Democratic majority here.

Let me just tell you a little about the scope of the problem we face. I have here 83 pages. These represent certification letters that Members of Congress write in order to request an earmark. These requests were made for the 2009 defense bill which we passed in September of last year without any debate where somebody could challenge any one of the earmarks which were more than 2,000 in that piece of legislation.

These 83 I hold in my hand now were requests for earmarks made to clients of the PMA Group, again the firm that is under investigation by the Department of Justice. In every one of these cases, a private company is listed here to receive the earmark.

I will just read through a couple. This is one where the recipient of this earmark is to go to Ocean Power Technologies located at Pier 21 in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Here is another. This one is to go to L-3 Communications Systems project located in Salt Lake City, Utah.

Here is another for Parametric Technology Corporation located at 140 Kendrick Street, Needham, Massachusetts.

There is another for General Dynamics Ordnance and Tactical Systems, Scranton Operations in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

These are all no-bid contracts to private companies. They are all to clients of the PMA Group.

In every case here, in all 83, those who requested these earmarks for these private companies, these no-bid contracts, then received, or before, in every case here, received a contribution either from executives at the PMA Group or the PAC operated from the PMA Group.

So we have a problem here, Mr. Speaker, that we need to address. Now, there were some reforms that have been outlined today saying that no-bid contracts will have to be competitively bid. If these no-bid contracts, if these companies are actually listed and the Federal agencies receive these requests and then bid it out, then it's not an earmark anymore.

So we have a bit of a misnomer here or something that doesn't quite make sense. But I think a lot of us who have been around here a while are justifiably skeptical that this will actually take place. Most of us were here in January of 2007 when the new majority outlined some earmark reforms in terms of transparency and accountability.

But we all in the past 2 years have realized that new rules are only as good as your willingness to enforce them, and these rules have gone unenforced.

Mr. Speaker, let's have some real earmark reform.

MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

A message in writing from the President of the United States was communicated to the House by Ms. Evans, one of his secretaries.

FINANCIAL CONDITION OF OUR NATION

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 18, 2007, the gentleman from Missouri (Mr. AKIN) is recognized for 60 minutes as the designee of the minority leader.

Mr. AKIN. Mr. Speaker, it's a pleasure to be able to join you and my colleagues here today. Our topic today is something that is on the minds of Americans everywhere. It's the question of our economy, the seriousness of the recession and the steps that we are taking, whether they are constructive or destructive to repairing the financial condition of our Nation, our allies and of the world.

I suppose it goes without saying that the recession is something that's serious. We can look at it in various different ways because it affects each of us in different ways.

We could look at it from the fact that there are people who are husbands that have wives and children, who have mortgages that are due and no job and their bank account, already seriously whittled down, is shrinking even farther.

We have those who have even been thrown out of their homes, those who have lost all of the money that they had saved for retirement, their 401(k)s are becoming 101(k)s. And it has a troubling aspect that we don't have any idea when is it going to let up and what will be the end of this ride, as the stock market goes down and down and people continue to suffer.

One of the things we have heard about over the last 6 years from our liberal media and from others that are very critical of the foreign policies of America, as we stood up for freedom, was the tremendous cost of the war in Iraq, the war in Afghanistan.

To put in perspective what we are talking about here on this economy, if you were to add up the cost of the war in Iraq, every day of it, and add up the cost in Afghanistan, and the first 5 weeks of this Congress in the stimulus—it was called a stimulus bill, I call it a porkulus bill—we spent more money, what we voted for in the fifth week here, than we spent in all of those wars, all of those years added together. So we are talking about a lot of money, and that's just the beginning.

So I think it's appropriate for us to start out as we should. Instead of being too hasty and jump into things, to stop and just ask ourselves, how did we get in this mess? What policy mistakes did we make and what is our logical way forward?

The good news I have for you, my friends, today is, is that there is a way home. The policies that are necessary to turn this situation around are available to us. History has shown us what works and what doesn't work. So a bright future is available, as it has always been for America, if we make the right choices.

So, how was it that we got here? Well, the story starts some number of years ago, a number of administrations ago, when it came to people's attention that there were certain areas of some cities where you could live where it would really be hard to get a loan to own a house. We felt that it's part of the American Dream for somebody to be able to own a house.

So, we created a couple of groups. One was called Freddie Mac and the other was Fannie Mae. And the purpose of these groups—they were not quite government agencies, but they weren't quite private either. The purpose of them was to be able to make loans affordable to various people.

We also leaned on the bankers in those various communities, saying, As a bank, you have got to write some loans to people. Well, Who are we supposed to write the loans too? Well, People who don't have very good credit ratings. Let me see if I understand this correctly. What you're saying is, You want me to give loans to people, and it may be they are not going to pay the loan back. That's right. The government is telling you to do that.

In addition, as Freddie and Fannie had been created during the last years of Clinton's administration, what happened was that Freddie and Fannie were given legislative instructions saying that they had to make more and more loans to people who couldn't afford to pay them.

And at the time, in 1999, the New York Times had an article that said, Hey, we better look out. This is like the savings and loan deal about to happen all over again. We are about to make the same mistakes we made before. The mistakes were that if people can't pay these things back, then the securities that you package these different loans up—and that is what Wall Street was doing, was packaging these securities—they won't be able to pay, and we are going to have a big problem because Freddie and Fannie, everybody assumes that the government will back up their loans. And if it's the government that backs them up, that means all of the taxpayers in America are going to be held hostage for loans that were made, and maybe to people that couldn't afford to pay them. And so this article was written in 1999, warning: Savings and loan scandal. Look out. We are starting to do the same mistake we made before, 10 years earlier. But we didn't pay attention.

By 2003, President Bush is also reported in the New York Times saying that what is going on in Freddie and Fannie is a big problem. It could create a whole lot of economic trouble for America. I need the authority to regulate Freddie and Fannie, the President was telling us.

That same New York Times article said that he was opposed by the Democrat Party. In fact, the recent chairman, and this is an actual quote from the New York Times, September 11, 2003, this is in response to President Bush asking for authority to regulate Freddie and Fannie. Now, this Democrat Congressman, BARNEY FRANK says, "These two entities, Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac, are not facing any kind of financial crisis," said Representative BARNEY FRANK of Massachusetts, the ranking Democrat on the Financial Services Committee, the man, I might add, who is working on the solution to this problem. "The more people exaggerate these problems, the more pressure there is on these companies, the less we will see in terms of affordable housing."

Well, anybody can be wrong. Some people can be terribly wrong. And, in this case, this mistake has turned the entire world economy upside down. And so we have a whole series of these loans.

Now, you all know that what has gone wrong has been that these loans have been in default. But this is what started with the loan business and has now affected all of our economy. So, this is where the problem started, but it has now spread. So we have a recession.

So, the question then is, this is where we got off track. We have the government spending just tons of money to try and turn this problem around, but the question is: How really should we go about fixing it.

And I am joined here in the Congress today by one of our distinguished colleagues, a new Member, from the State of Ohio. STEVE AUSTRIA has some experience in this area and is rapidly making a name as quite a sober and distinguished Member of our body. And I would like to yield to the gentlemen if you would like to make a comment on where we are and where we should be going.

Mr. AUSTRIA. I want to thank the Member from Missouri for yielding his time and helping to put things in perspective. Mr. Speaker, thank you.

Just like Missouri, Mr. Speaker, as you know, there are families in Ohio that are real families that are struggling right now, that are going through difficult times. And the economy in Ohio is down, and we are struggling, going through difficult times. I want to focus in on the 900,000 small businesses that we have in Ohio that are going through these difficult times, that we are asking to make sacrifices, we are asking them to help save jobs, help create new jobs, and we need to make sure that we are taking the necessary action to help them get back on their feet and not hurt them.

Mr. AKIN. Just reclaiming my time for just a second, I really appreciate your starting there with the small businesses because a real solution has to take a look at where are the jobs. And small business, depending on how big you make a small business, but most people say 70 to 80 percent of the jobs in America come from small business. So you're starting at exactly the right place.

Forgive me for interrupting, but I yield.

Mr. AUSTRIA. Thank you for those comments, because I think that puts things in perspective. The 900,000 small businesses across the State of Ohio is reflective across this country. As you mentioned, 70 to 80 percent of our Nation's economy, the engine behind that economy is the small businesses. We should be working to help those small businesses, not hurting those small businesses, and helping them to be able to get through these difficult times and be able to save jobs, to be able to create new jobs, and to be able to sustain those jobs in the long term. We need to work hard.

As I have traveled throughout my district, and I have a very unique district that runs from Dayton to Columbus, it's very diversified. You go to the western part of my district, you have Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, which is the largest single-site employer in the State of Ohio, located in Greene County. You go towards the middle of the district in Clarke County, Springfield, a lot of manufacturing and industry. You go to the eastern part of my district, you have a lot of small towns, rural areas, a lot of agriculture, and a lot of small businesses. I think that is reflective of Ohio and across this country.

But no matter where I go, and I have had an opportunity to travel, in my 20 months as a new Member of Congress throughout all eight counties of my district, and I have spoken at many different events—with Chambers, Rotaries, at other events. And I have talked to many of our small business owners who are going through difficult times right now. They are having a very difficult time right now just maintaining their businesses right now.

I had two businesses actually came to Washington, D.C., this week to meet with their Congressman to express their concerns. And what I'm hearing is that they can't get the financing, they can't get the credit necessary to keep their doors open to be able to meet their payroll, to be able to expand and create new jobs and sustain those jobs in the long-run. They are worried about the uncertainty right now that we are seeing in our financial markets.

As you brought up, I think anyone who's looked at their financial statements lately, whether it be your retirement savings, your kids' education savings, just your savings account, you have seen a significant drop in that. There's a lot of uncertainty as to what is happening in those financial markets right now.

When they look at government, when they look at what is happening here in government right now, there's a lot of uncertainty as to what's happening and what direction we're going by infusing such large amounts of spending in government and on whether we are squeezing out the private sector and, in particular, small businesses.

They are going through some very difficult times. During these times, we are asking families, we are asking small businesses to cut back, to make sacrifices, while government, on the other hand, seems to be doing the opposite. We should be doing the same thing. But, in my 60 days, nearly 60 days here in Congress, we have had some major spending bills.

I spent 10 years in the State legislature before I came here, and I wasn't used to the B and the T words—the billions and trillions. It's becoming words that we are using regularly around here.

The first bill that I was faced with was the second half of the $700 billion bailout bill for the financial markets, also known as TARP, something that we have seen that there's been lack of, in my opinion, accountability and a lack of enough transparency.

There's been really no definite decisive plan by the Department of Treasury. And that uncertainty, we have seen that reflected in the markets. We have seen them fluctuating, mainly downward.

Mr. AKIN. I would yield in just a minute, but I note that my distinguished colleague from Ohio has started on the subject of small business. I recall that what you just said was that there is a certain level of uncertainty among small business owners. And just piggy-backing on that idea, let's just think a little bit about what that uncertainty might be.

First of all, you have got dividends and capital gains, which is about to be repealed. That was something which allowed small businessmen to have more capital, to keep more of their own capital so they could invest that in their own businesses.

What we are going to do is we are going to repeal that tax cut and therefore tax the small business owners because many of them are in the bracket that are going to get taxed heavily. So that is the first thing they have got to be thinking about.

Then we're talking about we are going to be doing this cap-and-trade stuff on any CO₂ that is generated. So, we are going to increase their cost of electricity. And then we are talking about going to a socialized medical system, which is going to make medicine more expensive for them. And then we see a tremendous level of government spending, which is vacuuming the liquidity out of the private sector, which makes it harder for them to get loans to make investments in their own companies.

It seems like we are loading the dice against the very people who should be creating the small jobs. So I can understand why they come and visit my good friend from his district in Ohio. But I continue to yield him time.

Mr. AUSTRIA. Thank you to my good friend from Missouri for putting things in perspective. I think you're exactly right and, having been a small business owner, when you're looking at that and you're faced in this new budget with higher taxes, when you're looking at an economy right now where the financial markets, you can't get finance, you can't get the credit that you need to be able to expand your business to continue on your business, I don't think this is good for small businesses across this country. And they are the backbone of our economy.

This is on the heels, again, of the $700 billion TARP bill. This is on the heels of an approximately $709 billion stimulus or spending, or, as you call it, pork plan. I think when you look at the spending that is taking place in this budget, and it concerns me as to what we are doing.

I, as a member of the Budget Committee, we have heard testimony. We have heard testimony from the key officials in the administration. And I continue to have concerns about the amount of debt that we are accumulating.

Trillions of dollars. This is debt that—how are we going to pay for this? We are now starting to see that come out in this budget, with higher taxes, as you mentioned, which is not a good thing, especially in a downturn of an economy. That is not going to help, again, businesses to create jobs.

When we see the borrowing and the spending and the amount of debt that is being accumulated, and I have three children at home. When I came to Congress, I didn't come to Congress to be passing on to them trillions of dollars of debt; debt that is being passed on to my children, our grandchildren, that they will be paying for in years to come.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, I'd like to lay a little bit of groundwork, if I could, along the lines, because what you're doing is getting right into the idea of solving the problem. Being an old engineer, I like solving problems.

But I think it's also helpful here, if you will allow me to jump in a little bit, to say that there are two theories that are out there about what do you do when you have a recession. I think most people understand we have got a recession on our hands here, and they realize it's pretty darn serious because there's all these jobs that people have lost. Things are not going the way we'd like to see them go. So, what are you supposed to do in this?

Well, there are two general ideas. One of them was tried by FDR some years ago. It was called Keynesian economics. Little Lord Keynes, a weird little guy, and he had this idea if you get in trouble financially, what you should do is spend like mad and it will make everything okay.

It seems a little bit odd. I think most of the people in your district in Ohio, my district in Missouri, have enough common sense that when you get in trouble, you don't go out and buy a brand new car and run up the debt. You hunker down a little bit. That may be a Missouri term, to hunker down. You know, to hunker down like a toad in a hail storm. Things are getting bad so you're going to save some money. You're not going to spend as much money.

So the idea that when you get in trouble, that you're going to spend money like mad, seems to offend the common sense, I would say, of most Americans. Yet, that is a common political theory.

And so this guy, Henry Morgenthau, he was the Secretary of Treasury under FDR. He had this idea we have got to spend some money. So he does this for 8 years. Unemployment is terrible. It's the Great Depression going on.

In 1939, he appears before our Ways and Means Committee right here in Congress, and this is his statement about their wonderful experiment. "We have tried spending money. We are spending money more than we have ever spent before, and it does not work. I say after 8 years of the administration, we have just as much unemployment as when we started, and an enormous debt to boot."

Now, this guy is the father of this Keynesian economics, the idea that can you spend your way out of trouble. That is one theory. The other theory is one that the Republicans subscribe to. This is one the Democrats tend to like and, apparently, are following, even here as we speak.

The other one is what is sometimes called supply side economics. And it's the idea that those 80 percent of those people creating those jobs, the small businesses, the entrepreneur, the investor, and the risk-taker, the people that work and create productivity, those are the ones that you have to empower to be the engine to pull America forward because government doesn't create prosperity, it either taxes or spends or slops money around, or it creates a whole lot of debt, but it doesn't create anything where it creates any prosperity. It can only move money from one person to another.

And so the other approach is to do as you are saying, gentleman, you have got to work and you have got to empower those small business people. But when you spend tons of money, that takes the liquidity away from the small businessman and you make it so that he can't go. And that is what they did for 8 years. Unemployment just stayed high, and they spent tons of money; and when they got all done, they said it didn't work.

So I wanted to lay that down, because I think people have to understand there are two basic approaches people are taking: One is spend a whole lot of money, stimulate the economy. And the Japanese bought that theory. They tried it. It didn't work for the Japanese for 10 years, and we can't seem to learn from them. And yet, the other theory was tried by JFK, by Ronald Reagan, and it has worked great. And so why don't we do the one that works? I am not quite sure why we are going down the wrong path.

I want to yield to my good friend from Ohio, Congressman AUSTRIA.

Mr. AUSTRIA. Thank you. Also, I think it is important to point out that we did have an alternative plan as we went through that stimulus plan that would have created twice as many jobs for half the cost. That is using the same standards as the President's own economic adviser. Using those same standards, we could have created, again, twice as many jobs for half the cost.

The other thing is the spending plan, and we are looking very closely at this budget in committee. There are some good things, I will acknowledge. The fact that this budget acknowledges that we have an entitlement crisis going on right now I think is a good thing. The budget attempts to fix the AMT, which I think is a good thing. It sets a means test for Medicare part D premiums, which I think is a good thing. But then you get into this spending that we are talking about, and we are talking about increases from the 2009 budget, the spending of $3.9 trillion. Again, this is debt that we are accumulating that we are going to be passing on that our children and grandchildren will be paying for years to come.

We look at the increases on the non-defense appropriations by 9.3 percent, we look at the baseline that they are using as far as the war funding. Those are things that concern me in this budget. And what I want to talk about that I think is really going to hurt this economy is the higher taxes that are within this budget. That is going to hurt the economic growth and job creation, and these levees are totaling approximately $1.4 trillion over the next 10 years, allegedly targeting the wealthiest Americans. And let's define wealthiest. I would be glad to yield back the time, because I know we both know that many of those individuals that are falling in that category are small business owners that are going to be having to pay this tax. Again, these are the same business owners that we are asking to step up to the plate, to help create jobs, to help save jobs, to give of their own assets and invest it back in their business during uncertain times. At the same time, the government is going to come in and say, by the way, you need to pay us. We are going to raise your taxes during that time period. And as you mentioned earlier, these small businesses create anywhere from 60 percent to 80 percent of jobs in the United States.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, I think one of the things you alluded to, gentleman, was the fact that what we are talking about is an unprecedented level of spending that we have seen in a very short window. We are a week or two into March. We didn't really come in the first week or two of January, so we have been at this an equivalent of 2 months, and we have been spending some money. We have been spending a lot of money.

I happen to serve on the Armed Services Committee. When I think of trying to put a number on billions of dollars, I tend to think in terms of something that is tangible, like an aircraft carrier. For the Armed Services Committee, aircraft carriers are big and expensive. And we don't want them sunk, so we put ships all around them to protect them. We have got 11 of these. They cost about $3 billion apiece. So you take that $3 billion apiece for aircraft carriers into what we passed out of this House in this porkulus bill, $840 billion. We have got 11 of them. You are talking about a line of aircraft carriers, 250 aircraft carriers. We only have about 300 plus ships in the Navy. 250 aircraft carriers, that is a lot of money that we don't have that we spent.

Now, what you are starting to see in this graph here, this is the deficit. Under the blue lines here, this is deficit under Republicans, 2004, 2005, 2006, and 2007. You see the deficits going down. 2008, 2009, and 2010. You take a look at what is going on to this deficit, and we are talking about deficits unlike anything our Nation has seen historically at all. We are talking uncharted waters here, and that porkulus bill at $840 billion is just part of it. As you mentioned, we had that other Wall Street bailout bill for $700 billion. Half of that we did this year, also. That takes us over $1 trillion. We are talking about some real change here, and a change unlike anything we've seen before. This is the sort of change that the government will have a lot of money, and you and my constituents will have nothing left but change, I am afraid.

I notice that we are also joined by a member of your class, gentlemen, a distinguished doctor from Tennessee, Congressman PHIL ROE. I would love to have him jump in.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Thank you. I went home this weekend and met with a number of constituents, and one of the things that they brought out is that they understand. And these are from police officers, sheriffs, builders, developers, grandmothers, grandparents. They are saying this is the craziest thing they have ever seen in their life. And the builders and developers believe that simply if we will get the financial situation straight, the banking straight in this country, they said: Look, we will go out and create the jobs if we will get where we can lend money. I will give an example.

A person came in my office in the local district, and he said, Doc, this is the deal I am trying to put together. He had 14 or 15 commercial lots on a river, beautiful river not too far from Knoxville, Tennessee. And they are not making any more Holston River, not making any more lots on the river. It was a $1.7 million project. It was appraised at $2.3 million. He put $500,000 of his own money down on this project.

The bank regulators said, okay, if you had to have a fire sale, what could you sell this property for, the bank, in one month? Well, nobody does a project like that where you have got to liquidate. When you develop homes, you do it over a period of years is how you do these developments.

The appraiser said, well, a fire sale would be probably $1.1 million. The bank then said that was a bad loan because it is $100,000 upside down and would go as a bad loan against that bank. Now, if you can't release capital when somebody puts down $500,000 on a $1.7 million project, then you can't do business. And that is one of the things that is clogging up right now, is this access to capital is being choked off. And until we open the capital market up, you are not going to see our businesses and jobs be created.

The single number one thing the President of the United States should be doing right now is making sure that our banks are solvent and that capital is available, and that we can go out and let these business people create jobs. And they cannot create the jobs if you increase tax on small business, because that is where most of the jobs are being created in America. Certainly in my district that is the case.

Now, we have been very fortunate in our area. The unemployment rate overall is not quite as high as it is Nationwide, but it is heading in that direction. And if you are a person who loses their job, basically it is a depression for you if you don't have a job.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, doctor, I appreciate what you are saying. When you really take a look at where we are here, the policies that we make in this House have a tremendous impact on people's lives. And a lot of times the people that get hurt very badly, just as the example you are talking about, and all of the other jobs that would have been created by that project moving forward, those people are hurt because of the policies that we made. And people want to say, this is a failure of free enterprise.

This has nothing to do with free enterprise failing. This is a failure of a socialistic scheme to force banks and lenders to give money to people who can't afford to do it. And I assume this was done under the pretense of being compassionate. But I am asking myself, if I am the dad and somebody talks me into a loan that I can't afford and I am getting my house foreclosed, how is that compassionate? I don't really understand that.

We are joined also by another just fantastic Congresswoman, and this is Congresswoman FOXX from North Carolina. She always has a real common-sense point of view, and I would like to have her join our discussion, if you would go ahead and proceed.

Ms. FOXX. I thank you, Mr. AKIN, for taking charge of this Special Order this afternoon. You have been doing a fantastic job the past weeks. You always do a fantastic job the past several weeks. You always do a fantastic job, but I know that you have really put out the time and energy to do these Special Orders and bring to the attention of people things that need to be brought to their attention related to the budgets that have been passing, the whole economic situation that we see facing ourselves. And you talked about the problem with what is commonly called mark to market, our friend from Tennessee mentioned it, and what is happening with people not being able to get loans and how complicated our economic situation has become.

I want to talk just a minute about an article that came out today in the Washington Times by a very well known person named Thomas Sowell. Thomas Sowell is one of the most brilliant minds we have in our country these days, and any time I see a piece by him I do my best to read it, because I always learn from reading from Thomas Sowell. The conversation about mark-to-marketing, the conversation about compassion made me think about this article. Any time we have a chance to quote Thomas Sowell, I think we should do that.

[From The Washington Times, Mar. 11, 2009]

COMMENTARY—SUBSIDIZING BAD DECISIONS

(By Thomas Sowell)

Now that the federal government has decided to bail out homeowners in trouble, with mortgage loans up to $729,000, that raises some questions that should be asked but seldom are asked.

Since the average American never took out a mortgage loan as big as 700 grand—for the very good reason that he could not afford it—why should he be forced as a taxpayer to subsidize someone else who apparently couldn't afford it either, but who got in over his head anyway?

Why should taxpayers who live in apartments, perhaps because they did not feel they could afford to buy a house, be forced to subsidize other people who could not afford to buy a house, but who went ahead and bought one anyway?

We hear a lot of talk in some quarters about how any one of us could be in the same financial trouble that many homeowners are in if we lost our job or had some other misfortune. The pat phrase is that we are all just a few paydays away from being in the same predicament.

Another way of saying the same thing is that some people live high enough on the hog that any of the common misfortunes of life can ruin them.

Who hasn't been out of work at some time or other, or had an illness or accident that created unexpected expenses? The old and trite notion of "saving for a rainy day" is old and trite precisely because this has been a common experience for a very long time.

What is new is the current notion of indulging people who refused to save for a rainy day or to live within their means. In politics, it is called "compassion"—which comes in both the standard liberal version and "compassionate conservatism."

The one person toward whom there is no compassion is the taxpayer.

The current political stampede to stop mortgage foreclosures proceeds as if foreclosures are just something that strikes people like a bolt of lightning from the blue—and as if the people facing foreclosures are the only people that matter.

What if the foreclosure are not stopped? Will millions of homes just sit empty? Or will new people move into those homes, now selling for lower prices—prices perhaps more within the means of the new occupants?

The same politicians who have been talking about a need for "affordable housing" for years are now suddenly alarmed that home prices are falling. How can housing become more affordable unless prices fall?

The political meaning of "affordable housing" is housing that is made more affordable by politicians intervening to create government subsidies, rent control or other gimmicks for which politicians can take credit.

Affordable housing produced by market forces provides no benefit to politicians and has no attraction for them.

Study after study, not only here but in other countries, show that the most affordable housing is where there has been the least government interference with the market—contrary to rhetoric.

When new occupants of foreclosed housing find it more affordable, will the previous occupants all become homeless? Or are they more likely to move into homes or apartments that they can afford? They will of course be sadder—but perhaps wiser as well.

The old and trite phrase "sadder but wiser" is old and trite for the same reason that "saving for a rainy day" is old and trite. It reflects an all too common human experience.

Even in an era of much-ballyhooed "change," the government cannot eliminate sadness. What it can do is transfer that sadness from those who made risky and unwise decisions to the taxpayers who had nothing to do with their decisions.

Worse, the subsidizing of bad decisions destroys one of the most effective sources of better decisions—namely, paying the consequences of bad decisions.

In the wake of the housing debacle in California, more people are buying less expensive homes, making bigger down payments, and staying away from "creative" and risky financing. It is amazing how fast people learn when they are not insulated from the consequences of their decisions.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time just a moment, what you said there was a mouthful, but it really makes a lot of sense. What we are doing is robbing the prudent to pay for the prodigal. The prudent and the prodigal.

I think what he is saying in very fancy words is, we are punishing the guy who did the right thing. That is what is going on. In fact, there is a rule of economics; I think it says something that the more that you pay for, the more that you get. So if you pay for people to make bad loans, then you are going to get more of them. I think that is what he is getting at.

Ms. FOXX. That is exactly right. There is another quote, I think it is Mark Twain that says, whenever you rob Peter to pay Paul, you are going to get a lot of support from Paul. So that is the same theory here.

What Thomas Sowell is talking about is about this very bad bill that we passed last week on housing. Now, we have had people who feel very compassionate about Americans and want everybody to own a home if at all possible. And our colleagues on the other side of the aisle really pushed this theory, pushed it to the point where many people who shouldn't have bought homes went out and bought homes, and they had lenders who were their willing accomplices in either ignoring the condition they were in or not getting complete information from them.

And now we have this situation where we are going to allow people who have mortgage loans up to $729,000 to declare bankruptcy on their primary residence. We have never done that in this country before. And it is undermining our whole capitalistic system.

Again, it is being done under the guise of compassion. But what we are doing, as you so eloquently said, we are rewarding people who made bad decisions and punishing those who have made good decisions and paid their mortgages. This is just adding to the kinds of problems that you and my colleagues have been describing.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, that is what is disconcerting. That is why the stock market just gets hammered down, because decision after decision we are making doesn't really make sense, particularly if you look at it from the point of view of the small business person. They are just getting asked to pick up the tab on everything. And aside from having trouble getting credit, the tremendous level of spending is just vacuuming that money, that liquidity, out of the market.

I would like to return to our good friend from Ohio, Congressman AUSTRIA. If you would like to jump in, I will yield.

Mr. AUSTRIA. I want to thank the Congressman for bringing that up. It is very important that taxpayers understand that their hardworking taxpayer dollars are paying $75 billion for that program that is going to reward those who are making irresponsible and bad decisions, and the ones that are paying are the ones that were responsible. And I talk to small business owners and families who are struggling. And they are altering their lifestyle in order to make their mortgage payments on time, in a timely manner. And unfortunately, they are the ones that are paying for the circumstances like Congresswoman FOXX talked about as far as mortgages up to $750,000 for bad decisions.

A couple of facts on small businesses. I think it is very important that we not lose focus as to really who is hurting in this process right now and whom we should be focusing and targeting our economic stimulus towards. Small businesses create seven out of 10 new jobs across this country according to the SBA. The NFIB says America's small businesses are the world's second largest economy, trailing only the United States as a whole.

According to the Zogby poll released last week, nearly two-thirds of Americans, 63 percent, said that small businesses, entrepreneurs, are the ones who are going to lead the U.S. to a better future.

Mr. AKIN. If I could reclaim my time, let's talk a little bit about this because one of the things Republicans get accused of sometimes is that we are just a party of saying "no" and that we don't have any solutions. And that is absolutely not true.

What is misunderstood is we just say "no" to a whole lot of excessive government spending. But there is a way to solve this problem. And it is the same thing that JFK did and the same thing that Ronald Reagan did. It is called supply-side economics. And it requires investing in these small-business kinds of people. And it means you can't invest in them and fleece them at the same time. This is the new set of taxes that the President is talking about. He says, "oh, we are not going to tax anybody that doesn't make that much money." Well first of all, this cap-and-trade, all of this stuff in the blue, this is a tax that is going to anybody that pays electric bills. Does that seem like rich people? It doesn't to me. But anyway, that small business, one of their expenses is energy. And if you run their energy percentage up, and this will kick it up a good number of percentage, it makes them less competitive. And then you jump to the other side, and we have small businesses being taxed over here. This is not what you do. And if just those of us that are even here gathered on the floor, if we said, hey, okay, wise guys, you make a decision. How are you going to fix this thing? I think we would probably agree the first thing you do is you have to back off all of this Federal spending. And the second thing you have to do is you have to allow enough liquidity and capital to get to those small business people. There are different ways to do it.

Ms. FOXX. Will the gentleman from Missouri yield?

Mr. AKIN. I do yield.

Ms. FOXX. I know you're an engineer, but I think you also know a great deal of history. And if my memory serves me, the times that we have been in recession, what seems to have worked has been cutting taxes, not raising taxes. And as we have been discussing these issues a lot in the last few weeks, my memory is that. Is your memory that we have heard over and over and over again, here are the times that we have cut taxes, here are the times we have raised taxes? And one more point before you answer, I know, as you say, Republicans are accused of not having new ideas. Well what I like to say to people is it isn't that we need new ideas, it is that we need to use the ideas that have always worked. And the ideas that have always worked have been where we have cut taxes, or at least that is my understanding. And I would like to get you, if you don't mind, to respond.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, thank you for that question.

Maybe I assume too much. Certainly that is what happened. JFK cut taxes. Ronald Reagan cut taxes. And in a very strategic way, President Bush cut taxes and turned around a recession. But here is a point we have to clarify. It is not just any tax cut. One of the things that has been done lately which has kicked this debt up tremendously was the fact that we just gave some cash back to every good old American on the street. It is a nice thing to do if we had the money, but to tax their children and grandchildren in order to give them a $1,000 or $5,000 paycheck, it is nice, but it doesn't help the economy. It isn't that kind of tax cut.

You have to understand it is certain types of tax cuts. And those tax cuts have to have the effect of investing in entrepreneurs, the risk-takers and the productivity-generating sector of the economy. And that is why the dividend capital gains is a big deal.

Ms. FOXX. Would the gentleman yield for one more question?

Mr. AKIN. I will yield.

Ms. FOXX. I think that it is important that we point out to the American people over and over again that the money that the Federal Government has is not manna from Heaven. The only money that the Federal Government has is money it takes from us forcefully through taxes, money that it borrows from us and other countries, and of course printing money, which creates inflation.

But there are people who think there is something called "government money." Could you elaborate on that a little bit? Because it is an issue that I think needs to be pointed out.

Mr. AKIN. Congresswoman FOXX, you have a way of making it very straightforward and plain. I like that common sense. I believe we have a couple of guests here that would love to comment on that.

Dr. ROE from Tennessee, why don't you comment on that.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Obviously one of my heroes, too, is Thomas Sowell whom Congresswoman FOXX quoted a minute ago who happened to be a student of Milton Friedman. And Dr. Friedman is a Nobel Prize-winning economist at the University of Chicago. And Dr. Friedman stated very clearly that if you want more of something, you subsidize it. If you want less of something, you tax it. So, if you want less wealth, you tax wealth, and you will have less wealth.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, what you said is so important to understand. It is such a basic principle that we should never, never forget what you said here on this floor, and that is that what you tax, you're going to get less of. And what you pay for, you're going to get more of.

I will yield.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. Thank you for yielding. So if you want more programs, you create programs that subsidize those, and you will get more of those government programs. If you want more wealth, you cut taxes. Like you said, every single time the appropriate tax cut is done, revenue to the government has gone up, not down. Every single time the price of capital goes down, revenue to the government goes up. Why is that? Well because it leaves more money to the people who have earned it. They can go out and invest it, save it and do whatever they want to with it. And guess what that does? That creates jobs.

One of the things I wanted to talk about was you had mentioned the word "compassion" a minute ago. And I had discussed this. I was on the phone with a local newspaper at home. And my previous job, besides practicing medicine when I had a real job before I came here, was being mayor of our city. And I had to look at my neighbors, especially the elderly. And the two ways we have to raise revenue locally was either raise your property taxes or sales taxes. Well, we can't raise sales tax. We can't make you go down and spend any more money. So I had one other option. Or I could limit the size of government. And I thought the most compassionate thing I could do for senior citizens who are on a fixed income was not overspend by government. Because then the only way locally I could do when these folks are on a fixed income, they are already making tough decisions about what to do with their money, was raise their property taxes, which they chose not to do. And we were rewarded by that.

Let me go over a couple of things in the government spending that we have just done. There was a huge amount of money in there for infrastructure. And let me just think out loud for a minute. You hear a lot about green jobs and that we are going to invest in all this. In our local community, we invested not one dollar and created an enormous number of jobs. Let me tell you how we did it. We partnered with a private company. We had an open landfill. One of the largest carbon polluters in America is a landfill. We went to a private company and negotiated the deal. They put all the capital up. We captured all the methane gas at this landfill. We cleaned this landfill gas up where it was almost pipeline quality. We piped it 4 miles across town to one of our largest employers, which happens to be the Veterans Administration Hospital at Mountain Home. They operate, they heat and cool their facility, a 100-acre campus, at a 15 percent discount off their energy bills. We make money, and they save money. The local Federal taxpayers save money. And we as a local taxpayer made between 5 and $700,000. And it was the environmental equivalent of taking 34,000 cars off the road or not importing almost 20 millions of gasoline. And guess how many taxpayer dollars we spent? Zero.

The second thing we did before I came up here, and I looked at this stimulus bill, and I thought you could do a lot of this for nothing. We did an energy audit of every building the city owned. We owned 44 buildings. We got a guarantee from a private company that if you don't make the bond payments, we will make it for you. So what we did was we put in new HVAC systems and we put in new windows. We did all of that, $11 million worth of infrastructure improvements, to our building. And guess how much money the taxpayers paid? A big zero because energy savings paid for all of that redo.

Did we do that in this bill that we just sent up as a stimulus package? No, we did not. And guess where the windows were made? Right there locally. Guess where the glass was made? In a community next door at Kingsport, Tennessee. And we did those kind of things at no cost to the taxpayers. That is the innovative things that the Republican party brings.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, you started with the premise, though, that it is not the job of the government to tax people. Particularly in your particular position, you just couldn't tax beyond a certain level, whereas here in Congress, we tax. We just print some more money. And you started with a mindset that, no, you're not going to make life hard on your constituents. You're going to try and find smart things and ways to encourage the private sector to function. And that is something that we should be looking at.

Mr. AUSTRIA. Will the gentleman yield?

Mr. AKIN. I certainly do yield to the gentleman from Ohio, Congressman AUSTRIA.

Mr. AUSTRIA. I thank the good doctor from Tennessee for putting things in perspective.

There are real families out there across this country, including in my State of Ohio, who are going through difficult times right now and who are suffering. I want to make sure that the general public out there, the American people, understand really what this cap-and-trade is.

I'm looking at your chart up there. This is part of the $1.4 trillion increase over the next 10 years. And if you start counting how many zeroes are behind $1 trillion, it is a whole lot of zeroes. There are a lot of taxpayer dollars that we are talking about. This cap-and-trade heaps another $646 billion tax increase on families. And what that means in this budget that is being proposed right now is that it will increase prices for 95 percent of our families. For everyone who turns on their TV, who fills up their gas tank and who turns on their heat in the winter, this budget, the cap-and-trade proposal that they talked about, that some people are referring to now as a cap-and-tax, anything that is using carbon, it is estimated to heap again at least a $646 billion tax increase on families, their natural gas, electricity, home heating and gasoline bills.

During this difficult time when families are hurting, when small businesses are struggling, I would agree 100 percent with Dr. ROE, that this is not the way to turn our economy around and stimulate our economy. We should be going the opposite way. We should be giving families relief. And it is important again to note that we did have an alternative plan out there. We are not trying to be obstructors here on this budget. We have good ideas that will help stimulate this economy, that will help create jobs, that will give families permanent tax relief that they need right now. And unfortunately, these ideas are not being considered when these bills are coming to the floor.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, the proposals the gentleman is talking about are scored by different economists. And they are saying that these proposals are going to create twice as many jobs as the thing that we passed that put us into tremendous amount of debt. The thing that is ironic about that porkulus bill that we passed, billions and billions, as I said, if you want to go with your Cadillac aircraft carrier, you're talking 100 of these things. That is how much debt we created.

And how much of that really went to the Keynesian idea of just building roads and hydro plants and that kind of hard manufacturing jobs? Almost none. It went to things like training people about STDs and AIDS and protecting mice in the Speaker's district that are on an endangered species list, and all kinds of maybe wonderful projects, but they have nothing to do with creating jobs or getting the economy going.

What it has a lot to do with is taking all of the money out of the private sector so these small businesses can't get a breath of oxygen. That is a problem.

We don't like to just be negative, but these bills that we have passed won't work. It is not that we want to be negative. But I am an engineer. You have to say, Did you put enough steel in the bridge? If they don't have enough steel in the bridge, it falls down. This economic set of principles will not work. It has not worked historically. It did not work for the Japanese.

The fact is we have a good set of principles that worked for JFK, for Ronald Reagan, and it worked quite well for us in the second quarter of 2004.

Mr. AUSTRIA. Let me just real quick, as I mentioned earlier, tell a story. I had a couple of businesses and they actually came to D.C., and this is how concerned they are. They are struggling to make payroll. One business has an opportunity to be able to expand and create new jobs but can't get the financing and credit.

When you start combining, increasing taxes, when you start combining the debt that we are just continuing to increase, to try and tax and spend your way out of an economic crisis I don't believe is the right way to go. We can do better than that. I think when the American people spoke this last election last November and they wanted change, this is not the type of change they want. They didn't want to see government just continue to increase and a huge infusion of tax dollars and expanding government. What they wanted to see was real economic stimulus, a plan that will create and save jobs and sustain those jobs over the long term. Again, I believe our small businesses are the backbone that makes that happen. There are families out there that need relief. They need the permanent tax cut right now that we have offered on our side.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, this picture right here does not make the stock market feel very comfortable. There are people who are my age, I am an old geezer, and I am thinking about saving for retirement, and you see your 401(k) become a 101(k), you are not just one to shell out dollars to invest in small businesses, you just had your head handed to you financially, and then you see this kind of level of deficit spending, this is Republican spending in 2004, 2005, 2006 and 2007, and you know what, I don't like the fact that the Republicans were spending and creating a deficit. I didn't vote for that deficit, I don't like it, but there are a lot of differences between these blue lines and these red lines.

These red lines, we have never done anything like this in our country before. These are unprecedented times, and they are uncharted waters. The effect of doing this kind of thing sooner or later is going to come back, and we have to stop this.

I recognize my good friend, Dr. ROE, from Tennessee.

Mr. ROE of Tennessee. One of the things that my good friend from Ohio is talking about on the cap and trade, so people understand and get this jargon out of the way, cap and tax is a better definition or description of it.

So people understand how it works, when you pump anything out of the ground, whether it is oil or you pump natural gas out of the ground or you dig coal out of the ground, there is a tax. It was first listed at $15 a ton. I saw the initial tax on coal was $15 a ton, or I should say on the carbon dioxide per ton, and then it goes out $10 a year. So you are absolutely correct; everything you purchase is going to cost more. The exact opposite thing you should be doing in an economic downturn is even consider raising taxes because you have taken more capital out of the market.

Right now small businesses are having to compete with the government for capital. It is difficult to do. The banks, the regulators, are having more stringent rules on banks, so it is much more difficult for them to get this capital. In fact, there is no question in my mind that it is delaying our recovery.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, certainly there are some things that could be done that wouldn't cost anything, just along the lines of what you proposed to your local businesses where you saw problems in your local area as mayor, but there is something called mark to market, and there is good opportunity there. We talked about that last year, but we just couldn't get Treasury and the people there to take a good look at this whole situation. The rules needed to be dealt with.

We are joined by a good friend, the gentleman from Louisiana (Mr. SCALISE), who has joined us before on the floor. He is articulate, very much up to speed on these topics, and it is a treat to yield time to Congressman SCALISE.

Mr. SCALISE. I appreciate my friend from Missouri yielding me time, and you are talking about what is happening today here in Congress, and all across America because as people are tightening their belts and dealing with these tough economic times in their own way, in responsible ways, it seems like Washington, this is the only place where they seem to be going on a wild spending spree, spending money that we don't have on programs that actually are causing more problems, actually hurting our economy.

If you look at these proposals, especially this tax increase, and you just showed the proposal, the taxes both on small businesses, actually the engine of our economy, small businesses over $600 billion in taxes proposed on our small businesses, and they create 70 percent of our jobs.

But what is more frightening to Americans all across the country is they realize this cap-and-trade proposal, it is a term that really means energy tax. It is a $640 billion tax on energy. People who actually use energy in their homes, if you are turning on your lights, you are going to be paying more in taxes, to the tune, the estimate that we got from the Congressional Budget Office, they estimate that this proposal in the President's budget, moving through right now, something that we can stop, but in this proposal, it actually increases individual American tax bills, the bills on their utilities, by $1,300 a year.

Imagine that, in tough economic times like we are dealing with today, if you actually want to use your air conditioner during a hot summer, $1,300.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, you just got my attention. I had seen some numbers, but are you saying that the average family in America, what is this cap-and-trade tax going to be? It is going to increase your electric bill on the electric side?

Mr. SCALISE. Unfortunately, that is exactly what their proposal does. The Congressional Budget Office estimates, and in fact the President's own budget director, Mr. Orszag, has been saying that this will actually increase utility bills for ratepayers across the country.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, on top of everything else, you're saying we have another thousand bucks a family in this deal?

Mr. SCALISE. Not just a thousand, $1,300 a year in electricity tax increases that people would be paying on their electric bill every year. This isn't a one-time thing.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, that is not even talking about what you are going to do to further bury small business, who are the very people we want to create our jobs.

I see that we are joined by a highly respected congressman, the gentleman from Indiana (Mr. PENCE). I yield to the gentleman.

Mr. PENCE. I thank the gentleman for yielding, and I thank my good friend for his strong leadership on this issue on the floor of the Congress.

After months of runaway spending here in Washington, D.C., on bailouts and on a so-called stimulus bill, and now the majority is beginning to talk about another stimulus bill and no doubt more bailouts, in the midst of all of that, the incoming administration has presented its budget, more than $3 trillion in spending and higher taxes.

I come to the floor today to congratulate the gentleman and my colleagues for their strong statements today. But the American people deserve to know the President's budget spends too much, taxes too much, and borrows too much.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, Mr. PENCE, you said it so simply. What is that again?

Mr. PENCE. The President's budget spends too much, it taxes too much, and it borrows too much; and Republicans in Congress have a better solution.

In the coming weeks, the American people will hear from this floor, hear on the airwaves of America, and see in print a careful exposition of each of these points: about the extraordinary spending, the extraordinary increase in taxes that have just been described, taxes that will impact in the energy tax every household in America, every business in America.

Mr. AKIN. Wait a minute, reclaiming my time, maybe my memory is foggy. I thought I recalled the President saying he wasn't going to tax anybody making less than $250,000, and I kind of almost went back to sleep. I said that's not me, I'm not going to worry about it. Now you're upsetting me.

Mr. PENCE. The gentleman points to the President's comments made here on this floor, that only Americans with joint filings over $250,000 a year would experience higher marginal rates under his plan. But that leaves out two thoughts. Number one is that more than half of the American people that file tax returns in excess of $250,000 a year are actually small business owners filing as individuals. Raising taxes on small business owners in a recession is a prescription for economic decline. But there is another tax increase, and that is the energy tax increase the gentleman was just referring to.

For the average American household, the energy tax increase could impact several thousand dollars per year on every homeowner, every renter, every small business. It will fall under the category of cap and trade and climate change, but the American people need to be prepared to count the cost as the President moves his budget forward. Higher energy taxes, higher taxes on small businesses, and higher taxes on contributions to charities.

By one independent estimate, American charities and nonprofits, including educational institutions, religious institutions, charities that serve the underserved community, some estimates indicate that the President's tax increase could cost charities in this country $16 billion per year.

The President's budget spends too much, taxes too much, and borrows too much. Republicans have a better solution. We will be bringing those arguments and that solution to the American people in the weeks ahead.

Mr. AKIN. Reclaiming my time, the budget that we are talking about spends too much, it taxes too much, and it borrows too much. That ought to be pretty close to the title of our discussion here.

I really appreciate the good thinking and the high level of education. We have doctors here on the floor today. Congressman AUSTRIA from Ohio, we appreciate you joining us. And Congressman PENCE, a solid, conservative, commonsense kind of guy, coming from the heartland of Indiana. And Dr. ROE, this is the first you have joined us, and I am so thankful for your perspective and leadership. You are a medical doctor, and you also literally ran a small government. You have tried and you know what works. That is obvious from your comments today. Congressman SCALISE from Louisiana is a regular, and we are so thankful for you.

Spends too much, taxes too much, and borrows too much.

REPORT ON RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR CONSIDERATION OF H.R. 1262, WATER QUALITY INVESTMENT ACT OF 2009

Ms. MATSUI (during the Special Order of Mr. AKIN), from the Committee on Rules, submitted a privileged report (Rept. No. 111-36) on the resolution (H. Res. 235) providing for consideration of the bill (H.R. 1262) to amend the Federal Water Pollution Control Act to authorize appropriations for State water pollution control revolving funds, and for other purposes, which was referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

CONTINUATION OF THE NATIONAL EMERGENCY WITH RESPECT TO IRAN—MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES (H. DOC. NO. 111-24)

The SPEAKER pro tempore laid before the House the following message from the President of the United States; which was read and, together with the accompanying papers, without objection, referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and ordered to be printed:

To the Congress of the United States:

Section 202(d) of the National Emergencies Act (50 U.S.C. 1622(d)) provides for the automatic termination of a national emergency unless, prior to the anniversary date of its declaration, the President publishes in the Federal Register and transmits to the Congress a notice stating that the emergency is to continue in effect beyond the anniversary date. In accordance with this provision, I have sent the enclosed notice to the Federal Register for publication, stating that the Iran emergency declared on March 15, 1995, is to continue in effect beyond March 15, 2009.

The crisis between the United States and Iran resulting from the actions and policies of the Government of Iran that led to the declaration of a national emergency on March 15, 1995, has not been resolved. The actions and policies of the Government of Iran are contrary to the interests of the United States in the region and pose a continuing unusual and extraordinary threat to the national security, foreign policy, and economy of the United States. For these reasons, I have determined that it is necessary to continue the national emergency declared with respect to Iran and maintain in force comprehensive sanctions against Iran to respond to this threat.

BARACK OBAMA.
THE WHITE HOUSE, March 11, 2009.

STEM CELL RESEARCH

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Ms. FUDGE). Under the Speaker's announced policy of January 6, 2009, the gentleman from New Jersey (Mr. SMITH) is recognized for 60 minutes.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I am very grateful to be here for this hour. And I hope some of my colleagues will join me on a very important discussion about embryonic stem cell research and the huge alternative—"the" alternative—adult stem cells, that have proven beyond any reasonable doubt that it is not only ethical, but it works.

Madam Speaker, at a time when highly significant—even historic—breakthroughs in adult stem cell research have become almost daily occurrences, and almost to the point of being mundane, President Obama has chosen to turn back the clock and, beginning just 3 days ago, will force taxpayers to subsidize the unethical over the ethical, the unworkable over what works, and hype and hyperbole over hope.

Human embryo destroying stem cell research is not only unethical, unworkable, and unreliable, it is now demonstrably unnecessary. Assertions that leftover embryos are better off dead so that their stem cells can be derived is dehumanizing, and it cheapens human life.

There is no such thing as a leftover human life. Ask the snowflake children, Madam Speaker, ask their parents. Snowflake children are those cryogenically frozen embryos who were adopted while still frozen. This past Monday, I had the privilege of being with several of those children. They look just like any other kid, any other child. And those kids could have been subjected to embryo-destroying research or they could have been poured down the drain. But thankfully, the donors, the biological parents, decided that they are better off alive and flourishing. And these kids, like so many of the other snowflake children that I have met in the past, were just like any other child.

Life is a continuum, Madam Speaker. It does not begin at the moment of birth. It starts at the moment of fertilization and continues unabated, unless interfered with, until natural death. Birth is an event that happens to your life and to mine, it is not the beginning of life.

Madam Speaker, a recent spectacular breakthrough in the noncontroversial adult stem cell research and clinical applications to effectuate cures or the mitigation of disease or disability have been well documented. For several years, significant progress has been achieved with adult stem cells derived from nonembryonic sources, including umbilical cord blood, bone marrow, brain, amniotic fluid, skin, and even fat cells. Patients with a myriad of diseases, including leukemia, type 1 diabetes, multiple sclerosis, lupus, sickle cell anemia, and dozens of other diseases have significantly benefited from adult stem cell transfers.

In 2005, Madam Speaker, I wrote a law, the Stem Cell Research and Transplantation Act of 2005. It was legislation that created a national program of bone marrow and cord blood, umbilical cord blood—or that blood that is found in the placenta—that is teeming with stem cells of high value that can be coaxed into becoming pluripotent, capable of becoming anything in the human body.

We know for a fact that cord blood stem cells can mitigate, and in some cases even cure—and there have been several—those suffering from sickle cell anemia. One out of every 500 African Americans, unfortunately, have sickle cell anemia. And cord blood transfers have the capacity and the capability to effectuate cures or the mitigation of that disease. And we have several examples.

I remember when the bill was stuck—first here, and then on the Senate side. We were able to bring people, including Dr. Julius Erving, to a press conference to appeal to the House and Senate leadership to bring that legislation forward simply because it would save lives, but it was being held hostage by the hype and the hyperbole of embryonic stem cell research, which has not cured anyone. The legislation passed the House. Finally, it was dislodged from the Senate and became law. And now we have a nationwide network overseen by HRSA, under the Department of Health and Human Services, to grow our capacity—the number of specimens of cord blood stem cells—to type it, freeze it, use best practices, and promote cures.

Now, the greatest of all breakthroughs—the greatest, in my opinion, and in the opinion of many eminent scientists—is what is known as induced pluripotent stem cells. And I say to my colleagues, and I say to anyone who may be listening on C-SPAN, iPS cells, induced pluripotent stem cells, are the future and the greatest hope for cures. They are embryo-like, but they are not embryos. There is no killing of an embryo to derive the stem cells.

On November 20, 2007, Japanese scientist, Dr. Shinya Yamanaka, and Wisconsin researcher, Dr. James Thomson, shocked the scientific community by independently announcing their ability to derive induced pluripotent stem cells by reprogramming regular skin cells. And unlike embryonic stem cells that kill the donor, are highly unstable, have a propensity to morph into tumors, and are likely to be rejected by the patient unless strong antirejection medicines are administered, induced pluripotent stem cells, iPS cells, have none of those deficiencies, and again, are emerging as the future, the greatest hope of regenerative medicine.

Mr. Obama is way behind the times. Making Americans pay for embryo-destroying stem cell research is not change we can believe in—far from it—it is politics.

A decade ago, the false hope of embryo-destroying research made it difficult to oppose, no doubt. There was a lot of hype, a lot of hot air—much of it well meaning, perhaps—but it was very misleading. That is no longer the case. So the question arises; why persist in the dehumanizing of nascent human life when better alternatives exist, alternatives that work on both ethics grounds and efficacy grounds? Non-embryonic stem cell research is the present and it is the future of regenerative medicine, and the only responsible way forward.

I would be happy to yield to my good friend and colleague for any time he would like to take.

Mr. PENCE. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

In a week that has already been overcome by a blizzard of legislative activity and news, I rise for two reasons today; number one is to commend the gentleman from New Jersey, whose passion for human rights, for human dignity, for the sanctity of life is in high relief on the floor today. I commend the gentleman for coming to the floor and bringing his passion and his knowledge to this issue in the wake of a profoundly disappointing decision by the President of the United States of America. So I commend the gentleman.

My second point is to simply say that what was most disappointing to me about the President's decision in authorizing the use of taxpayer dollars to fund research that involves the destruction of human embryos is that it seemed to me, Madam Speaker, to be a moment where the President and his party were putting ideology over science. I say that grounded in the notion that that was an accusation that was leveled at those of us on the side of life in the last 8 years, those of us who believed that we ought not to use the taxpayer dollars of millions of pro-life Americans and use it to fund research that involves the destruction of human embryos for scientific purposes. But we were told that we were putting ideology—presumably our pro-life views—over science. But actually, science overcame the debate when, in 2007, nearly 7 full years after President George W. Bush had signed his executive order, and years after Republican majorities in this Congress had authorized tens of millions in increased Federal funding to the National Institutes for Health for ethical adult stem cell research, science came through.

As the gentleman just referred, the extraordinary breakthroughs of not one, but two scientific research teams in 2007 found that adult stem cells could be converted into stem cells that essentially were identical to embryonic stem cells through a process called induced pluripotent stem cell procedure. Now, this was a miracle of science. And I remember full well, I remember seeing a report on all the major television networks that said that science has rendered the debate over destructive embryonic stem cell research moot. It seemed as though science had stepped into one of the most difficult and contentious issues of our times and it had taken it off the table.

Because of these scientific breakthroughs, it would no longer be necessary to even consider using Federal taxpayers to fund research that destroys human embryos because—and the gentleman, I'm sure, will correct me, having forgotten more about this issue than I've learned—but I believe scientists found that by introducing a virus into adult stem cells, that they would convert into that highly dynamic mode, they would be induced to take the form of pluripotent stem cells, which scientists have long desired—and have, through private funding, appreciated the opportunity—to do research for the purpose of finding cures and therapies. And so it is not casually that I come to the floor today to say that I believe when President Obama signed an executive order authorizing the use of taxpayer dollars to fund stem cell research that involves the destruction of human embryos, that this administration was putting ideology over science.

I didn't hear a word this week about induced pluripotent stem cells. I heard no reference—I'm happy to stand corrected, Madam Speaker—but I heard no reference by the administration or any of its spokesmen, or by the President, to those extraordinary scientific breakthroughs which obviated the need to use my tax dollars and the taxpayer dollars of millions of pro-life Americans to fund research that destroys human embryos.

So as I prepare to yield back to the gentleman, I come to the floor with really a heavy heart. I mean, I believe the sanctity of life is a central axiom of Western civilization. I believe that ending an innocent human life is morally wrong. But I also believe it is also morally wrong to take the taxpayer dollars of pro-life Americans and use it to fund abortion overseas or to fund research that involves the destruction of human embryos at home. But I found a new layer, Madam Speaker, of wrongness; it's also wrong to do it when it's completely unnecessary. It's wrong to take the taxpayer dollars of millions of pro-life Americans and use it to fund research that destroys human embryos when science itself, in the last year and a half, has made it completely unnecessary to do so. And so it was a moment where this administration put ideology over science.

My hope—and, frankly, my prayer—as we enter into this brave new world that could result in embryonic farms, that could result in ultimately setting us on a path where therapies are developed and, therefore, stem cells need to be cloned, we will no doubt hear, it is my hope and my prayer that science will continue to march forward and will overtake the practice of ideology in this Capitol and reaffirm the principle that human life is sacred, we ought not to use taxpayer dollars of pro-life Americans to destroy nascent human life, and most especially, when it is not scientifically necessary to do so to achieve the extraordinary advances that are taking place.

I commend the gentleman, and I'm grateful for the opportunity to speak.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank Mr. PENCE for his excellent remarks, and for the logic, the compelling logic that he brings to the floor, not just today, but so often.

This is a human rights issue. It is also a patient issue. You know, one of the overlooked—and the mainstream press sometimes gets it right, but we are only beginning to see, in some of the commentary post-decision on Monday by President Obama, one of the things he lifted was an executive order that President Bush put into effect on June 20, 2007 expanding approved stem cell lines in ethically responsible ways. And it provided a boost to the National Institutes of Health to do research on alternative sources of pluripotent stem cells that prioritizes research with the greatest potential for clinical benefit. He revoked this—he being President Obama. In other words, that which has worked, that has absolutely stunned, in a positive way, the community, the scientific community, now takes a back seat to what is essentially abortion politics, turning that which is unborn, that which is newly created into a commodity that could be destroyed at will.

Let me also say that the Washington Post had an excellent piece today by Kathleen Parker, and the headline was "Behind the Cell Curve, Why is the President Ignoring a Scientific Gift?"

Kathleen points out: "One fact is that since Obama began running for President, researchers have made some rather amazing strides in alternative stem cell research. Science and ethics finally fell in love, in other words, and Obama seems to have fallen asleep during the kiss. Either that or he decided that keeping an old political promise was more important than acknowledging new developments. In the process he missed an opportunity to prove that he is pro-science but also sensitive to the concerns of taxpayers who don't want to pay for research that requires embryo destruction."

She points out that "in fact, every single one of the successes," every one, "in treating patients with stem cells thus far for spinal cord injuries and multiple sclerosis, for example, have involved adult or umbilical cord blood stem cells, not embryonic stem cells."

"The insistence on using embryonic stem cells always rested on the argument that they were pluripotent, capable of becoming any kind of cell. That superior claim no longer can be made with the spectacular discovery," as I said at the outset, "in 2007 of 'induced pluripotent stem cells,' or iPS cells, 'which was the laboratory equivalent of the airplane. Very simply, iPS cells can be produced from skin cells by injecting genes that force the cells to revert to their primitive 'blank state' form with all the same pluripotent capabilities of embryonic stem cells."

"But 'induced pluripotent stem cells' don't trip easily off the tongue," she goes on to say, "nor have any celebrities stepped forward to expound their virtues. Even without such drama, however, Time Magazine named iPS innovation number one of its Top Ten Scientific Discoveries of 2007, and the Journal of Science rated it the number one breakthrough of 2008."

"The IPS discovery even prompted Ian Wilmut, who led the team that cloned Dolly the sheep, to abandon his license to attempt human cloning, saying that the researchers 'may have achieved what no politician could: an end to the embryonic stem cell debate.'"

And yet now we see that Barack Obama has put that front and center again, choosing politics over science, over ethics, in promoting embryonic stem cell research when the clear future of stem cell research is in the area of induced pluripotent and in the area of adult stem cells.

I would like to yield to Dr. BROWN, a distinguished medical doctor, for any comments he might have.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. I thank the gentleman for yielding.

As a medical physician, a medical doctor, I'm certainly concerned about my patients, and I can understand people who are in wheelchairs wanting to walk again. I understand people who have Parkinson's disease wanting to not have the rigidity and shakes that they have with that disease and the degradation of their lifestyle that that horrible disease causes. And I, as a medical doctor, want to find cures for these diseases as well as many others.

But as we look at this issue, I don't think there's a single person with Parkinson's disease or a single person that's in a wheelchair that would be in favor of killing another human being so that they could walk again or so that they wouldn't shake and have the rigidity and all the devastating effects of Parkinson's. I don't think there's a person in this country, in this world, who would say "I'm in favor of killing this 2-year-old little girl or this 6-year-old little boy so that my disease will be cured."

But the facts are very simple. When we do embryonic stem cell research, we're killing human beings. That's a separate human being. It's a separate entity. And that person has the right to live just like you and I do. We can't forget that. These are people. They may be a one-cell or just a few-cell human beings, individuals, but they are still distinct human beings that have their own genetic makeup, that have their own ability to live if we will just put them in an environment where they can.

Now, I've got a friend at home that says that we ought to be able to take our 13 year olds and put them in the ground and dig them up when they're 25 and they'd be a whole lot better. And there are some parents who threaten to kill their teenage children, but they wouldn't really. But the thing is we are killing people. We're killing human beings.

And the unfortunate part of this whole discussion is there has been virtually zero, zero, very little, if any, positive results from killing these human beings, bringing about the research on these human beings. There has been very little. Whereas with adult stem cells, with germ cells, we see a tremendous promise. And just as you said, Congressman SMITH, the President has put politics and the radical pro-death abortion groups in this country ahead of science. It is a mantra of death and destruction.

I don't see things as being in the gray area, particularly on this issue. You're either pro-death or you're pro-life. You're pro-abortion or you're anti-abortion. I have wondered frequently whether this whole issue about embryonic stem cell research was just a mechanism to try to give credence to the abortion industry, just to try to give credence to being able to take that right or at least the designation of personhood away from these human beings that are just one or two cells.

I introduced a bill called the Sanctity of Human Life Act that gives the right of personhood to one-cell human beings. And we have got to stop the killing in America. God commands in Proverbs to speak up to the speechless and the cause of those appointed to die. Congressman SMITH for years and years and years has been coming to the floor and introducing legislation and speaking up for those innocent human beings that are killed through abortion, killed through embryonic stem cell research, and we have got to stop it. God cannot and will not continue to bless America while we're killing 4,000 babies every day through abortion. We must stop it and do everything that we can. And stopping embryonic stem cell research is also extremely important because these are human beings that God has created. He tells us in His Word that he opens the womb and He closes the womb. I believe in the depth of my heart as a physician that he allows those human beings to be formed, even in a petri dish, and we need to protect them. We need to protect the beginning of life; we need to protect the end of life.

When I graduated from medical school from the Medical College of Georgia in 1971, I made a pledge. It's an oath. It's called the Hippocratic oath. They don't give that in medical school. I don't think, much anymore, if ever, and the reason they don't is because of the abortion industry, because in that pledge, in that oath, it says I will not do an abortion. It also says I will do no harm. Embryonic stem cell research kills a human being. It does harm, and physicians who are doing that are breaking their Hippocratic oath if they take it seriously. It's not a legal document. It's just something that those of us who believe in doing no harm, who believe in rendering good to our patients and trying to preserve life, that's exactly what we try to do; so we must stop this heinous, and it is heinous, practice of destroying human life. No matter how good somebody paints the picture of this procedure, they paint a picture that has not been true, that it's going to bring about all these good cures, but it's an empty promise. And those who cling to it have been sold a bill of goods. They have been sold a bald-faced lie. It's a lie of a promise that has not shown to have any promise really. There are other research methods, other scientific methods, where we can put money, we can put effort to bring about the critical cures that we need to help people get out of their wheelchairs, to help cure cancer, to help cure diabetes, to help cure all these diseases that are absolutely critical for us to cure as a Nation, and we need to put our focus where it should be, and that's not on killing people. And that's what embryonic stem cell research does. It kills people. Put it on the things that will save people, things that will cure their disease, hopefully get people out of their wheelchairs and walking, help them to live their lives and be productive in society. I'm all for that, but I am totally against killing embryonic human beings just for the sake of medical experimentation. We must stop it, and I will do everything I can, and I join Congressman SMITH in his efforts and I applaud his efforts over the years.

I just greatly appreciate all that you've done, my dear friend. And, CHRIS, I just want to join with you in everything that you do to try to stop this heinous practice of killing human beings through abortion, through embryonic stem cell research, and all the other things that you have so valiantly fought against all these years. I thank you.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank my very distinguished colleague Dr. BROWN. Thank you for your kind words, but more importantly, thank you for the contribution you make, especially given your background.

I think Americans need to know that physicians who believe in the sanctity of life, that patients before birth who might be in need of blood transfusions—I mean one of the things I will never forget, Bernard Nathanson, one of the founders of NARAL, an abortionist himself who did thousands of abortions, quit as the head of the center in New York, and he wrote in the New England Journal of Medicine "I have come to the agonizing conclusion that I have presided over 60,000 deaths." So this innovator, this man who walked in the vanguard of the abortion rights movement, gave it all up. And he did so because, like you, he became a physician who said there are two patients, the unborn child and his or her mother, and both need to be treated with respect. The Hippocratic oath that you cited so eloquently is an admonishment that has fallen by the wayside with some, not all.

The newborn didn't get that way, a healthy newborn, traversing the birth canal. It had to do with good prenatal care. The mom taking care of herself and being treated obviously well by the family so that she could get her proper rest, all the things that lead to a good delivery, it all occurs prior to birth.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. That's right.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. So two patients. And that's what led Dr. Nathanson. When he was doing blood transfusions at St. Luke's Hospital and prenatal surgery, and he would say this patient here who deserves respect is getting help he or she needs while in another room of that hospital or clinic, they're getting dismembered or chemically poisoned or killed by some other toxic substance, and they call that abortion and "free choice." It is violence against children and it is injustice to mothers as well.

I just met, Dr. BROWN, with some individuals, a father whose daughter committed suicide in New Jersey some time ago as a direct result of an abortion. She was one of the happiest young women imaginable. Her brother and father came to visit me. She went into a very severe mental, and you probably could speak to that very well, downward slope after she had that abortion. The mental complications are very real. I know we're here to talk about embryonic stem cell research, but it is so closely allied to the dehumanization of unborn life and newly created human life. And as I said at the outset, birth is an event that happens to all of us. It is not the beginning of life. The Flat Earth Society folks might say that's when life begins, but 3D ultrasound, 4D ultrasound, has shattered that myth.

I yield to Dr. BROWN.

Mr. BROWN of Georgia. The reason that the pro-abortion people don't want ultrasound is because moms look at that baby and they say, "That's a baby. That's not just a little glob of tissue. It's not some amorphous goop that's there in my womb. It's a baby." And it is. And before she ever knows that she has missed a period, I mean by the time she has missed a period and goes a little bit further, that baby already is developing neurological function. It's already developing a heartbeat. It's a human being.

And that's the thing about embryonic stem cell research goes back to the same thing that I mentioned and what you are talking about, and what we all talk about who are pro-life, that life begins when the sperm cell enters the cell wall of the oocyte, the egg. I call it spermatazoa, that's a medical term for the sperm cell, enters the cell wall of the egg, the oocyte.

It forms a one-cell human being that's genetically different from the mom. It's a separate human being. It has everything it needs except for just a good place to live, to become a human being and be a Member of this House of Representatives, to grow up to become a President of the United States. And it's a human being, nonetheless.

It's a zygote, which needs to have the right, under law, of personhood. And, in fact, in the Roe v. Wade decision, as you know, as all of us who are pro-life know, the Supreme Court justice who wrote the majority opinion, Justice Blackmun, said in his decision, that if we could ever define the beginning of life at conception—now I say "fertilization" because the word "conception" has become obscured, they want to obscure all this stuff.

But if that could ever be determined that that would vacate Roe v. Wade, we have got to protect these people. A society is going to be judged by other societies about how it cares for the most vulnerable in its society, the poor people, the old people and the very most vulnerable of the young people.

And these embryonic cells that have this big scientific name, like embryonic stem cell research, which sounds kind of lofty, but the bottom line is it kills human beings, separate human beings, and we must stop it and we will do everything we can. God cannot and will not continue to bless America while we are doing this.

We look through history how human beings have been experimented on. We see all the time, we hear complaints, particularly from the other side, even the pro-abortion people on the other side, look aghast of how we treat prisoners at Abu Ghraib prison in Iraq and just putting women's underwear on those folks' heads.

But, on the other hand, they are willing to kill a human being through abortion, through embryonic stem cell research, and it doesn't matter. The thing that really gets me, Congressman SMITH, is they want to do it all the way up to the time that baby totally pops out of the birth canal. In fact, that's what the Freedom of Choice Act is all about. It should be called the Freedom to Kill Babies Act, not the Freedom of Choice Act.

In fact, let me just mention that too as we see that partial-birth abortion, late-term abortions are being promoted by this administration by many in this House. The only medical reason that procedure was ever developed is to guarantee a dead baby by the abortionists. There is no other medical reason, no other medical reason than to guarantee a dead baby.

The abortionists were faced with a problem. They were aborting babies and winding up with a live fetus. Now, "fetus" in Latin means "baby." They were winding up with a live baby, and what are they going to do with this? They couldn't have that, so they had to develop those dilatation extraction procedures, partial-birth abortions to guarantee a dead baby.

So I applaud your efforts to try to help bring forth the truth, and that's what you have been doing for years, and I applaud you. And that's why I had to come down here to put in my 2 cents as a medical doctor, to tell the American public that the truth, that there is very little, if any, potential of scientific breakthroughs to treat all these awful diseases, which I want to treat, but there is a light. There is a potential, and it's through other methods that don't kill these babies.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. I thank the gentleman for his eloquent statement. We have two Members that want to join in. I would just very briefly say, and I would recommend, that those who may be watching this either look at this in the RECORD or Google it.

In the U.S. News & World Report, Dr. Bernadine Healy, from Ohio, who used to be the head of the National Institutes of Health, asks a very probing question and then answers it why embryonic stem cells are obsolete. And as she points out, the breakthroughs have been in the areas of adult stem cells. And as she calls the induced pluripotent stem cells—again, the ones that can be taken right from our skin—she calls that the blockbuster discovery of 2007.

Mr. JORDAN of Ohio. I thank the gentleman for yielding to me and appreciate his reference to Dr. Healy. I have her name in my notes as well.

But let me start by saying this. Look, we understand there is a debate in our culture over whose set of principles, whose set of values are going to prevail.

And that is, of course, one of those fundamental principles is respect for human life. It is why I so appreciate the Congressman from New Jersey and his leadership of the Pro-Life Caucus here in Congress, because he has had a steadfast adherence to that fundamental principle that all life is sacred and worthy of protection, that same principle that the Founders of this country understood when they wrote down the words that started this great experiment that we call America. And they said, "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness."

I always tell folks it's interesting to note the order the Founders placed the rights that they chose to mention, life, liberty, pursuit of happiness. You can't pursue your goals and dreams, you can't go after those things that have meaning and significance to you and your family if you don't first have freedom. And you never have true freedom, true liberty, if government doesn't protect your most fundamental right, your right to life.

That's ultimately what this debate is about. When the President the other day issued his executive order, at the press event he talked about the adherence to science and picking science over politics.

I am sure that the chair of the Pro-Life Caucus, the gentleman from New Jersey and our friend from Texas who has joined us, know that the science is on our side. All the positive treatments, all the beneficial things that have happened to individuals and their families who love and care about them, in treating disease, have happened through the adult stem cell research, not the stem cell research that destroys human life.

And so we strongly support the use of science in developing the cures and the treatments that are going to help people. And it's interesting to note the ethical decision is the smart decision, and right now the evidence is all on our side.

The Congressman from New Jersey is exactly right when he talks about Dr. Healy. What's interesting is Dr. Healy and I did a radio show the other night, talked about this, she happens to be a Republican but also ran as a candidate for the United States Senate as a pro-abortion, pro-choice candidate. So she doesn't exactly share our belief on this issue completely, and yet she is willing to look at the science in an objective way and come down on the right side.

Two last things I would finish with here in my remarks, this decision scares me in a couple of ways, the first one is this, the slippery slope argument is real. I mean, once you start down this road there are all kinds of problems that can accompany this that are harmful. My guess is the gentleman from New Jersey has talked about cloning and some of the other things that this can lead to.

I am sure your comments will be appropriate in that area. These are scary things. But, remember, politicians are good at saying one thing and not exactly following through on it. So even though people will tell us they support this, there are safeguards built in, we know it destroys life and we know that there are worse things that can come down the road.

Finally, I would say this, thus far, with this administration, we have seen a couple of pro-life policies overturned, the Mexico City policy with an executive order, and now the stem cell, the embryonic stem cell research policy.

We know, as we now enter the 2010 appropriations cycle, and what's going to happen with taxpayer dollars as we move forward relative to protecting life and the fact that millions of families, millions of Americans don't want their tax dollars used to promote something that they know is wrong. As we move into that debate, the precedent has been set now with these two decisions. We have got a fight on our hands. There are 22 what are commonly called pro-life riders that are part of the appropriation bills that we need to protect.

The one that most people understand and recognize is the Hyde amendment which says we are not going to use your tax dollars to perform the abortion procedure in this country. We are going to protect the use of your tax dollars.

So this idea that we are now moving in a direction that is going to use tax dollars for embryonic stem cell research sets a dangerous precedent. And it's something that we have to watch as we move forward, because, again, the vast majority of families in this country don't want their tax dollars used for this procedure.

So, again, I commend the gentlemen who are with us here tonight, particularly our chairman of the Pro-Life Caucus, Congressman SMITH, for your steadfast adherence to the fundamental principle that life is precious, life is sacred and deserves the protection that the law should offer it.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Thank you, Mr. JORDAN, for your leadership. I think the American public would be pleased to know that you headed up an effort with a Member on the Democratic side, HEATH SHULER, and 180 Members signed a letter to the leadership of the House, the Democratic leadership, asking that these pro-life riders—we do not want our funding, our tax dollars being used to facilitate to kill children.

Mr. JORDAN of Ohio. For just a second, and I appreciate the gentleman bringing that up, we did have a bipartisan press event where we announced 181 Members of Congress, Republican and Democrat, signing a letter to the Speaker of the House, telling the Speaker, don't mess with this language. This protects human beings. This protects taxpayer dollars. This protects what the vast majority of Americans respect.

Don't change these procedures. Don't do what the Obama administration has already done twice, protect these procedures. And if you do mess with it, at least give us the rule so we can have a debate on the floor. At least allow us to play the game, have the debate, the full debate in front of the American people and have the vote.

You can't get 181 Members to sign anything around here. The fact that we got a bipartisan 181 Members is testimony to the work that the Pro-Life Caucus does and to the importance of this fundamental issue.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. OLSON.

Mr. OLSON. I thank the chairman of the Pro-Life Caucus, my good friend from New Jersey, for leading this discussion tonight on this critical issue, and I want to identify myself with the comments of the speakers who preceded me, the chairman, Chairman PENCE, Dr. BROUN and our good friend, Congressman JORDAN, for their impassioned comments in defense of innocent life.

I rise today out of grave concern over President Obama's decision yesterday to lift restrictions on Federal funding for human embryonic stem cell research. His decision is financially overburdensome, scientifically unnecessary and morally offensive.

The President's new executive order opens the door to Federal funding of embryonic stem cell research. Tremendous results have already been found using adult stem cells in the treatment of cancer, diabetes, Parkinson's disease, Alzheimer's disease and heart disease. Creating more lines of pluripotent stem cells should be our continued focus. It's more versatile. You don't have to deal with the issues of rejection, and it doesn't take an innocent life.

This administration continues a disturbing path of spending taxpayer dollars on programs and policies that are deeply offensive to millions of Americans, placing questionable science ahead of morality. Taxpayers are being asked to support an increasingly bloated Federal Government, and yet the administration is moving research from private funding to take advantage of money from President Obama's economic recovery package for further study of embryonic stem cells.

How does the destruction of human life help our economy recover, how does that create jobs? It doesn't, and this most recent action by the administration is another example of a step too far.

We must not forget the fundamental role of government in our lives, protecting its citizens, particularly the most innocent among us. This administration has not been in office yet for 2 months, and, yet, three times, it has already overturned some basic security rights of our citizens. It has forced men and women who do not want their money spent on morally objectionable scientific research to fund research.

They have removed rules that protect medical providers who declined to perform abortions due to moral and religious reasons. And now they have failed to protect the most innocent among us by opening the door to embryo research and a senseless discarding of American life.

I'd like to make a couple of comments about the importance of ultrasounds for women who are pregnant. These are personal comments.

God has blessed my family. We have two children; a daughter, who's 12, and a son, who's 8. When my wife was pregnant with our daughter, our first child, she had an ultrasound at 13 weeks. We still have that ultrasound. Have it on our refrigerator door.

If you look at that ultrasound, you look at the profile of that young human life, and you look at the profile of my daughter today as a 12-year-old, thriving kid in sixth grade, there is absolutely no difference. Kate was a person then, she's a person now. And we need to protect the innocent life. And ultrasounds made available to women who are pregnant only are common sense.

Again, I thank my colleague from New Jersey for spearheading this important debate, and I yield back the floor. Thank you.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. OLSON, thank you very much, and I appreciate your leadership and your consistency in respecting all human life, including the unborn child. So, thank you for joining us today.

Let me just make a few final comments, Madam Speaker. While President Obama and some Members of Congress still don't get it, the breakthrough in adult stem cell research has not been lost on the mainstream press.

For example, on November 21, 2007, Reuters reported, and I quote, “Two separate teams of researchers announced on Tuesday they had transformed ordinary skin cells into batches of cells that look and act like embryonic stem cells, but without using cloning technology and without making embryos.”

The New York Times reported on the same day, and I quote, “Two teams of scientists reported yesterday that they had turned human skin cells into what appears to be embryonic stem cells without having to make or destroy an embryo—a feat that could quell the ethical debate troubling the field.”

The AP said, “Scientists have created the equivalent of embryonic stem cells from ordinary skin cells, a breakthrough that could someday produce new treatments without the explosive moral questions of embryo cloning.”

Even University of Wisconsin’s Dr. James Thomson, the man who first cultured embryonic stem cells, told the New York Times, and I quote, “Now with the new technique, it will not be long before the stem cell wars are a distant memory. A decade from now, this will just be a funny historical footnote.”

Dr. Thomson told the Detroit Free Press, “While ducking ethical debate wasn’t the goal, it is probably the beginning of the end of the controversy over embryonic stem cells.”

If only that were true because, unfortunately, on Monday our Federal taxpayers’ dollars will be used now to destroy embryos to derive their stem cells, even though they become tumors, if ever put into an individual, would be rejected and, of course, we know that they kill the donor when they are taken.

In Medical News Today, Dr. Thomson said, and I say this again, “Speaking about the latest breakthrough, the induced cells do all the things embryonic cells do. It’s going to completely change the field,” he said. Again, this is the doctor who, in the late 1990s, gave us embryonic stem cells. He is saying induced pluripotent stem cells, those derived from your skin and mine, can be embryo-like, and really is the hope of regenerative medicine.

Ten days ago, more good news. No, I would actually say it is great news on the induced pluripotent stem cell front. Research teams from the United Kingdom and Canada published two papers in the prestigious scientific journal, Nature, announcing that they had successfully reprogrammed ordinary skin cells into induced pluripotent skin cells without the use of viruses to transmit the reprogramming genes to the cell. “With their new discovery, which they used a piggyback system, as they called it, they were able to insert DNA where they could alter the genetic makeup of the regular cell before being harmlessly removed.

“According to many scientists, the removal of potentially cancer-causing viruses means that this breakthrough increases the likelihood that iPS cells will be safe for clinical use in human patients. The lead scientist from Canada, Andras Nagy, was quoted in the Washington Post saying—this is just a week ago—“It’s a leap forward in the safe application of these cells. We expect this to have a massive impact on this field.”

George Daley at Children’s Hospital in Boston said, and I quote, “It is very significant. I think it’s a major step forward in realizing the value of these cells for medical research.”

Many people seem to be getting it, except for Mr. Obama, who clings to the old hype and the hyperbole concerning the efficacy of embryo-destroying stem cells. Science has moved on. It’s about time the politicians caught up.

This breakthrough suggests—remember, it’s just 2 weeks ago, this newest breakthrough—that the momentum has decisively, and I hope irrevocably, swung to noncontroversial stem cell research, like iPS stem cells, and away from embryo-destroying research.

The lead scientist from the UK was quoted in the BBC saying, “It is a step towards the practical use of reprogrammed cells in medicine, perhaps even eliminating the need for human embryos as a source of stem cells.”

Time Magazine reports on the efficacy of the advantage of iPS stem cells saying, “The induced pluripotent stem cell technology is the ultimate manufacturing process for cells. It is now possible for researchers to churn out unlimited quantities of a patient’s stem cells, which can then be turned into any of the cells that the body might need to repair or to replace.”

Madam Speaker, there was an excellent op ed in the Wall Street Journal yesterday, which I read just a few paragraphs from, which I think really highlights and underscores the profound ethical issues we are facing. It was written by Robert George and Eric Cohen. The title, the President Politicizes Stem Cell Research. Taxpayers Have a Right to be Left Out of it.

“Yesterday, President Barack Obama issued an executive order that authorizes expanded Federal funding for research using stem cells produced by destroying human embryos. The announcement was classic Obama—advancing radical policies while seeming calm and moderate, and preaching the gospel of civility while accusing those who disagree with the policies of being ‘divisive’ and even ‘politicizing science.’

“Mr. Obama’s executive order overturned an attempt by President George W. Bush in 2001 to do justice to both the promise of stem cell science and the demands of ethics. The Bush policy was to allow the government to fund research on existing embryonic stem cell lines, where the embryos in question had already been destroyed. But it would not fund or in any way incentivize the ongoing destruction of human embryos.

“For years, this policy was attacked by advocates of embryo-destructive research. Mr. Bush and the ‘religious right’ were depicted as antiscience villains and embryonic stem cells scientists were seen as the beleaguered saviors of the sick. In reality, Mr. Bush’s policy was one of moderation. It did not ban new embryonic-destructive research, and did not fund new embryo-destroying research either;

“Moderate’ Mr. Obama’s policy is not. It will promote a whole new industry of embryo creation and destruction, including the creation of human embryos by cloning for research in which they are destroyed. It forces American taxpayers, including those who see the deliberate taking of human life in the embryonic stage as profoundly unjust, to be complicit in this practice.

“Mr. Obama made a big point in his speech of claiming to bring integrity back to science policy, and his desire to remove the previous administration’s ideological agenda from scientific decision-making. This claim of taking science out of politics is false and misguided on two counts.

“First, the Obama policy is itself blatantly political. It is red meat to his Bush-hating base. It pays no more than lip service to recent scientific breakthroughs,” that I would note parenthetically, I and my colleagues have been talking about tonight, “that makes possible the production of cells that are biologically equivalent to embryonic stem cells without the need to create or kill human embryos.

“Inexplicably—apart from political motivations—Mr. Obama revoked not only the Bush restrictions on embryo-destructive research funding, but also his 2007 executive order that encourages the National Institutes of Health to explore non-embryo-destructive sources of stem cells.

Second, and more fundamentally, the claim about taking politics out of science is, in the deepest sense, anti-Democratic. The question of whether to destroy human embryos for research purposes is not fundamentally a scientific question. It is a moral and civic question about the proper uses, ambitions, and limits of science; it is a question about how we will treat members of the human family at the very dawn of life; our willingness to seek alternative paths to medical progress that respect human dignity.

“For those who believe in the highest ideals of deliberative democracy and those who believe we mistreat the most vulnerable human lives at our own moral peril, Mr. Obama’s claim of taking politics out of science should be lamented, not celebrated.

“In the years ahead, the stem cell debate will surely continue—raising, as it does, big questions about the meaning of human equality at the edges of human life, about the relationship between science and politics, and about how we govern ourselves when it comes to morally charged issues of public policy on which reasonable people happen to disagree.

"We can only hope in the years ahead that scientific creativity will make embryo destruction unnecessary and that, as a society, we will not pave the way to the brave new world with the best medical intentions."

Madam Speaker, I just conclude by saying that despite all of the new and the extraordinary processes in adult stem cell research and applications, despite these magnificent breakthroughs in induced pluripotent stem cells, a part of adult stem cells, the Obama administration and, I am sad to say, the leadership of this House, remain fixated on killing human embryos for experimentation at taxpayers' expense.

The alternative has continued and will continue to prove itself to be highly efficacious. That is to say, adult stem cells. We don't need to kill human embryos to effectuate cures and to mitigate disease.

With that, I yield back the balance of my time.
